All of us who are adults and all of us who are parents are familiar with the term "juvenile delinquency." It is a familiar term but requires some care in use.

Professor Bloch of Queens University has pointed out that the term delinquency covers everything from trivial offences ranging up to murder. He has stated also that all of us during our childhood behave on occasion in such a way as to break some law. Delinquency is common to us all if we employ the strictest definition of the term.

Even such a comparatively simple thing as the age of the delinquent is not well defined. In some provinces a boy of sixteen may be considered as an adult delinquent while in others a boy of 16 may be still considered a juvenile. All psychologists and doctors are agreed that a girl of eighteen is more mature than a boy of eighteen, but in Alberta the male offender ceases to be a juvenile up to the age of eighteen. This is ridiculous.

It is surely obvious that the term juvenile delinquency needs to be redefined legally if we are to have anything that approaches rationality and usefulness. It needs also to be reconsidered in the much more involved and complex relationship it bears to adult delinquency.

There are those who sincerely believe that there is no such thing as juvenile delinquency; only adult delinquency. The behaviour of the juvenile is a direct reflection of the treatment given the juvenile by adults. They point out that the majority of juvenile offenders come from homes where the parents have broken up and the break up of the home is followed by a "break down" in the behaviour of the juvenile.

Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck of Harvard University have undertaken a prolonged and intensive study of delinquency. They state that the delinquent has all the potential of the "superior child." A child who is physically more mature than whose growth rate has been somewhat slower than average who is physically retarded is less whose approach to life is notably practical and direct; rather than verbal and who is more conflict ridden. Many of a leader than a follower. Most of will become the delinquent's lack of love or a sense of security, of appreciation by adults results in the delinquent reaction.

We adults are notably inconsistent full of contradictions impulses and wayward tendencies. If we are to provide effective guidance for those who are even most inconsistent more frustrating than ourselves we must understand the true meaning of maturity. The American view of adult maturity as distinguished from adult delinquency has been set forth in the Gospel and the Epistles. Without making adults we can never find effective remedies for those who are immature. It is only with Christ and Christian virtues and by the grace of God that we can partake of that maturity which comes to the Christian. Till we all come and speaking the truth in love may grow up into him in all things, who is the head even Christ. (Eph. 4 13 and se quence)

Dental program nearing halfway mark for year

The Edson Health Unit has had a busy time since the Dental Clinic was opened in the Wildwood. Because of the large number of students to be seen in a limited period of time, appointments have been made for Saturdays, the 9th and Saturday the 16th. One hundred and seventy appointments have been made for students to see Dr. R. Clark, the Health Unit Dental Officer. Dr. Clark will be assisted by Miss Laird Moor of the Health Unit Staff. From Sept 25 till October 6 the clinic will be at Peers where 140 appointments have been made for students to be seen by the dentist.

From October 12 till November 17 the clinic will be established at Drayton Valley where it is expected that 250 students will be seen, composed of those who are presently in grade one and grade two. Miss Marion Gershevski and Mr. Marion Palmer will assist Dr. Clark while the clinic is at Drayton Valley. From Drayton Valley the clinic will move to Lodgepole where it will be stated from November the 20th to November the 30th, and

They want to serve us right so that we remain their customers."

New Fringe Area TV Antenna offers Hope

Television owners, those who have had to put up with poor TV reception because they live in fringe areas, should be interested in what is said to be a new way how to better receive TV programmes.

Most users for the trick through its reception is to use a special type of antenna which utilized the principle of Polarization. Absorption is also greater stronger all than normal reception and deliver pictures free of snow, flicker, ghosts and other difficulties associated with fringe area reception.

The new antenna called the Crossfire has a design concept which permits the highly sensitive device to pull in desired signals with greater strength than ever before while screening out unwanted transmissions. The result, it is claimed, is a clearer picture, particularly where heavy interference from [illegible] been eliminated by distance from the transmitter or by [illegible].

Because of the new design concept developed by Channel Master engineers engineers it is now possible for the first time to deliver the antenna's [illegible]

Growing up too soon

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Many girls are in too much [illegible] a hurry to grow up. It is [illegible] depressing to see them at the age of 12 or 14 emerged with [illegible] clumsily applied powder and [illegible] lipstick [illegible] tight shirts like little [illegible] sorts of their mothers [illegible]

They don't have time to [illegible] play. That would be child's [illegible] Instead they must [illegible] the house waiting for the [illegible] phone calls or slouch [illegible] the street with an exagger[illegible] hip-wiggling gait copied from television.

Boys [illegible] these [illegible] another into the water, and generally showing themselves to be young [illegible] fatty and reddish hues [illegible] playing the role of pre-mature middle age.

There is little enough time to be a child. Why try to hurry away from childhood? It will fade into the distance up [illegible]

[illegible] people do not [illegible] and [illegible] at different rates, and at the same time [illegible] people do have a desperate [illegible] to conform to the accepted thing.

But if a sufficient number of parents should decide firmly to encourage their offspring to remain children until they were ready to accept some of the responsibilities of grown-ups, then the climate of [illegible] opinion might change.

It might become the accepted thing to enjoy childhood as long as it lasted, rather than rushing into the very [illegible] state of being grown [illegible]

Every Dollar You Spend "At Home" Helps Our Community to Grow

And think about it for a minute

A good part of every dollar you spend with our local business goes directly into circulation in our own community in the form of salaries and wages, and taxes which make possible the improvement of educational, health and recreational facilities.

That's why it makes such good sense to spend those previous dollars "at home", especially when quality, style, selection and price of the merchandise and services offered compare quite favorably with those in the "city".

The local businesses depend on your support, but so do you depend on them for convenience, and for the contribution they make to the betterment of our community.

Junior League team at Lacombe tourney

The Edson Pony League ball team travelled to Lacombe to participate in Lacombe's second Pony League Tournament on September 23 and 24.

Our boys under the capable management of Messrs J. H. Williams and Dr. Jimmie John Long, who also supplied the transportation made an excellent showing by winning their first game and losing their second by a run in extra innings.

Starting battery in the first game was Bartin to Walker with Gardner replacing Sarin and J. May replacing Gardner. Highlights of the game against Blackfalds were 2 home runs by Reed LaBalbo a homer and a triple by catcher Ken Walker and some spectacular fielding by R. Reed.

Plot of the day was a four run homer by LaBalbo to tie up the game in the last inning by a score of 14 to 10.

On the second day Edson met Delia for the game of the Tournament according to the spectators who were greatly impressed by the calibre of ball played by these 2 clubs. Unfortunately Edson lost 9 to 8 in overtime.

Battery for this game was Galbraith to Dark with Sarin on the mound for the last three innings. Big hit of the day was a homer for R. Reed.

The players were well entertained by a most hospitable Lacombe Legion and spent the night at the Legion Hall mostly according to reports discussing crab apples inside and of sleeping. Edson players who made the trip were D. Sarin, R. Reed, J. Reed, W. Larson, W. Gardner, Reed LaBalbo, G. Dark, B. Strandt, B. Walker, P. Strand, F. May, J. May and R. Galbraith.

A special thank you from the players and managers goes to the Edson Athletic Association and the Canadian Legion without whose financial help this trip would not have been possible and to John Long, who stepped into the breach on the eve of departure because his own business once again to prove his optimist motto: Friend of the Boy.

These boys are a product of our four team Junior League and at Lacombe proved what can be done in one year. Next year we hope for an even better year of baseball and we also hope for a better year of co-operation and assistance from the local people and parents.

Students told how to get paper stories

Banff Junior Red Cross students in Alberta, has a tremendous news story to tell and should use every available means of communication to tell it.

This message was directed at some 50 Red Cross teen-agers in session at the Banff School of Fine Arts Tuesday by Mr James P. Bennie of Calgary Provincial Publicity Chairman of the Alberta Red Cross Division.

Discussing the need for publicity on the Red Cross youth program Mr Bennie explained that the Junior are vital as part of an organization which depends on public support must constantly endeavor to keep Red Cross identity before the public. "Publicity any organization is known in the community the better it is going to get along," he asserted.

Projects Newsworthy

There are many kinds of publicity Mr Bennie noted and cited the meeting in progress as an excellent medium for chainstory information on Red Cross in a large number of persons.

Many Jr. Red Cross projects, such as providing school supplies for the children of Greece and the art exchange program with students of other nations, provide excellent material for news features as well as other types of publicity they were told.

Mr Bennie warned against use of stereotype photographs for publicity and urged youth members to set up news pictures which would have a special appeal to editors, because they told a story in an interesting and individual way. Additional publicity aids the Junior program could be obtained through public displays of Junior crafts and art work the speaker stated.

In the same way that you can't sell what you haven't got you can't get publicity unless you have something to publicize Mr Bennie stated and encouraged students to continually evaluate the news value of their activities.

Publicity should coincide with the initial planning of any event and follow through until completion of the project. Too often groups never thought about publicity until after a project was completed and as a result lost much valuable news coverage the speaker felt.

When providing material to news media youth members were told to supply only the essential facts which could easily be established by going the What? Where? Who? and Why? regarding the project.

Appointment of publicity committees in the summer Red Cross youth clubs, secretary for exchange of ideas on publicity and special projects for promotion of Jr Red Cross Week could also do much to alert public awareness of the work of the Red Cross youth program Mr Bennie concluded.

Visual instruction in panel conversation procedure and water safety and a demonstration on the mouth to mouth method of artificial respiration were also included on the day's agenda.

A Short Snort by Timber McCracken

There are many legal betting sorties incorporated in Canada. They are called insurance companies. You may speculate that bad will fall and if you are correct you will collect at whatever odds were quoted when the policy was written. The odds are not in the policy holder's favor since the company must give a premium to the agent who is behind the business enough to pay admin tration costs and adjusters' fees and still have some to send the shareholders a little dividend. This is only a trifle different than playing poker against a rake off.

You may worry that your house will be destroyed by fire. After considering the efficiency of the fire department the type of construction the distance to adjacent buildings the condition of the chimneys and other factors the insurance company will accept your bet. There are a few ground rules which must be followed such as not insuring for more than a reasonable sum then giving the baby a box of matches and a can of kerosene and expecting to collect. Nor should you push a penny behind a fuse and then connect an arc welder. Insurance companies take a dim view of tampering with the odds and sometimes plead arson.

You can gamble on your ability to resist temptation. If you must handle funds or valuable property other than your own. The bonding companies are willing to wager that you will not embezzle but if you do and do not abscond they will certainly prosecute unless full restitution is made and after that they will not let you play with them ever again.

The physicians and surgeons will make book that you will remain healthy. For a fixed number of dollars plus a small fee for everything your name on their roll, you may receive a certain amount of medical attention in any one year. This is a good thing for it gives the doctors a fund which assures the payment of fees for services rendered. And if the kitty is not large enough the aide is raised. It could be called a mutual investment fund but it isn't. Life insurance is similar to betting on the races. You may place two dollars on the nose of a nag at the pari mutuel wicket and lose it. The insurance company bets that one horse will come in last and they are correct every time. You may also play rolling roulette on the ends. You pay the premium for personal liability and property damage and in effect bet that you are going to commit murder. To make the odds come what better in your favor you can neglect having your brakes and steering checked regularly. Then you can take your aching muscle out and if no one is fortunate you may commit involuntary suicide. But if you do succeed in killing something some or else the company will not settle on it's liability. There is not so very many policy which will send the insurance agent to jail in your place. If you play this game and the insurance company loses they insist that the odds be altered next time or they may not wish to play at all.

WEEKLIES ARE READ

Notwithstanding the keen competition from big daily and paper magazines, radio and television, the home weekly newspaper appears to be holding their own in the advertising field.

The reason is that these weekly newspapers cater to our needs and are more carefully read than the larger publications. A reader does not have to prowl through scores of page to find something that is of particular interest.

The weekly news paper has a personal touch and seeks to carry small personal and news items which the big dailies because of lack of space and interest, tend to disregard.

This truism was evidenced through a survey conducted under the direction of Dr. Gordon Hrabinsky, head of the sociological department of the University of Alberta. The Lacombe Globe, a weekly newspaper with a comparative circulation to this paper, was selected for the survey and some 80 students of the University of Alberta did the field work.

It was found that 80 per cent of the homes in the Lacombe trading area subscribed to the Globe and 29 per cent of those interviewed passed their copy along to another family.

It was found that on an average page 82.8 per cent of the men read it and 47.3 per cent of the women. On a metropolitan scale, used for comparison the per centages were 69.9 for women 50.2

The advertisements were noted by 71 per cent of the readers and carefully read by 31 per cent. Such percentages were far higher than was shown by ladies of two metropolitan dailies.

Weekly newspapers saturate their market areas. Let more than any competing media. Their readers spend more time reading fewer pages. The personnel of the weekly newspapers imparts a local flavor to all advertising, local or national. The product and service are brought together in the atmosphere of the community market place.

DEMOCRACY OR BUREAUCRACY

The story is told of a British official in the Colonial Service before India's independence returning to London and on passing the Parliament buildings in West minister, exclaiming. Does that sort of nonsense still exist?

The real servant, be he sure, was a thousand times more valuable to the Empire. A man who understood full well the role of the administrative form of government but who had completely failed to grasp either the significance or importance of parliamentary democracy.

The tale is not without its relevance to the Canadian scene. Mr. Coyne, it is reported, returned from three days of boating, before the Senate Banking committee, to be welcomed by employees of the Bank of Canada waiting, to present him with a Canadian coat of arms inscribed on a gift from the staff of the Bank for his courage and integrity in defending the position of the governor of the Bank of Canada.

The personal loyalty of the Bank of Canada staff to Mr. Coyne would be commendable in most circumstances. But in the circumstances in which the singing took place it could only be described as deplorable. It is deplorable because it suggests that public servants, instead of being the servant of their public loyalty and Parliament

[illegible] subordinate to bureaucracy [illegible] of the people and ends of the Crown affairs [illegible] to be constantly mindful of the [illegible] entrusted to carry out the policies [illegible] and that under Canada's system of responsible government Parliament is our [illegible]

IS EDSON ASHAMED OF OUR FLAG?

This would surely seem to be an outside observer unless as very few people in Edson use it. As a newcomer to Edson from the eastern part of Canada I was surprised at not somewhat chagrin need to observe on Dominion Day and Rodeo week that our flag was nowhere to be seen except on the Federal Building and on the Post Office and the CNR building. Everyone else seemed to be displaying or carrying the flag of the United Kingdom e.g. the Union Jack.

While this is an attractive flag and carries much honor and tradition with it, it belongs to the people of the United Kingdom and not Canada. It has not been the flag of Canada since Canada lost her Colonial status and became a self governing Confederation in 1867. It was officially dropped about any years ago and the Red Ensign was ordered flown as Canada's distinctive flag over land.

Since that time, however, generations like the United Empire Loyalists and UDE have fought hard and long to retain the Union Jack for they did not want to acknowledge Canada's independent status preferring Canada to remain a Crown Colony. They have tried unsuccessfully to keep Canada in the reign of George III of Hanover.

The UDE however have long since abandoned this futile fantasy and long ago began acknowledging the Red Ensign as Canada's distinctive flag in line with government policy.

It would seem that some communication processes like newspapers, telegraphs and telephone long ago came to Edson, that the people of this community would be aware that Canada has had for more than seventy years an official distinctive flag which is the Red Ensign. Each succeeding Federal government building and you will see it flying, also ask any colonel, major, or airman and he will tell you it is the flag Canadian veterans carried in the Boer World War I World War II, Korea and United Nations duty.

It is particularly confusing to foreign visitors to see citizens cherishing Americanism to find any logic in the assertion, that Canada is a truly independent state when many of its citizens continue to fly the flag of our former colonial dominators.

As for those who argue we don't like the Red Ensign it was a former Merchant Navy flag then do what is logical and legal. The order in council that established the Red Ensign as the "distinctive Canadian flag" paved the way for you, for it continues until such time as another is chosen as the distinctive national flag.

In the meantime the Red Ensign is our official and legal flag why are you ashamed of it? If you are not why don't you fly it?

CAPITOL REPORT

Alberta's year still looks good

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — Despite drought conditions that dealt farmers a severe blow in some parts of the province, things are looking up in Alberta. Dan Ivirnuly, who heads the provincial bureau of statistics last week took a look at Alberta's economy and reported a satisfying upswing in nearly all areas.

The bureau's report, covering the first six months of this year, said farm income in the end of June totalling $238,000,000 compared with $221,000,000 for the same period a year ago. Cash income from grain showed an increase of $9,000,000.

Mr Ivirnuly sees the economy continuing to curve upwards for the remainder of the year. Basis his report "The gradual acceleration in business tempo is expected measurably to improve the ratio throughout the year."

Other bright spots noted in the half yearly economic review

Shipments by manufacturers to the end of May totalled an estimated $360,000,000.

Increased sales of crude oil and natural gas more than offset slump in coal and clay products production. Mineral production during the period was worth $30,000,000 more than output production during the same period last year.

Alberta's internal trade was up five per cent to the end of July.

Retail and wholesale trade were up slightly while bank debits remained consistently higher at $6,000,000,000 as of June 1

Farm and non-farm employment were up. Total labor income during the first quarter of the year totalled $217,000,000.

Censorship won't prevent mistakes

It is a long way from Pincher Creek to the White House, but a Town Councillor can be just as mistaken as a President.

A member of the Pincher Creek Council recently expressed the misguided notion that newspaper reports of Town Council meetings should be submitted to the Town Administrator for approval

He wanted this done to delete the ward approval, but his colleagues quite sensibly threw out the idea anyway. Presumably the councillor was miffed at some report or other having to do with town business. His answer was to prevent independent reports.

The President of the United States has called for a journalistic self censorship, going on the theory that some of the reports about the business of the Government were giving the country a bad name

Certain high officials in Washington are said to be annoyed with the press for bolstering the American reputation on its reporting of the Cuban invasion. No one knows, apparently, that the invasion spurs on was a fiasco they simply feel it is bad [illegible] should tell people it was a fiasco.

The type of attitude appears in many places. It can be found much closer to home than Washington.

A Pincher Creek Canadian Government official recently has to be pressed to the extreme before they will tell the press, and even the public what they are doing.

What is for sure in Pincher Creek, Edmonton Ottawa and Washington is that the press does not make the news it reports it. The latest invasion was a sad performance and the silence of public by only told the public the truth which the public had a right to know.

Who's an oldtimer?

By FRED SCHOLTZ

in The Bonby Record

What makes an old-timer? Age alone is not really enough. It is also things remembered. In this country an old-timer would be one who remembers the ox teams, the coming of the railroad, the long, hard winter of 07. He might be one who lived in a sod house now Hailey's Comet, or declared that man would never fly, also he'd have been given wings.

It may be that you and I and some of the others are nearer to being old-timers than we care to realize, though goodness knows we hope to be classed in that category some day. You are on the way to becoming an old timer of

Awards Night ends 1961 swimming lessons

HINTON

The presentation of Red Cross badges was the climax of the season's swimming lessons for members of the junior and senior classes last Thursday evening. Following the presentations members of the classes staged a variety of novelty races to show the audience in attendance a bit of what they had learned during the lessons.

A total of 250 school students took the lessons started in June and continued all through the summer. Eight adults took part in classes that were sponsored by the Red Cross with local persons donating their time. Chief instructor of the lessons was Bruce Robson who was assisted by Roland Mousseau, R. O. Kamstra and Miss Oh borne. The student classes were instructed by pool supervisor Jon Lowrie and Red Piper and Mrs. Sandy Piper.

A few novelty races by both boys and girls of the student classes, showed some of the strokes they had learned during the lessons.

Some of the more entertaining young people there who were interested in the competitions particularly have spent a great deal of time at the pool, helping out whatever was needed done and getting in all the practice they could.

Ernie Bain whose specialty seems to be the diving board gave a demonstration of a number of different diving techniques both comical and graceful. Ernie has not had formal lessons but in the short time since the low diving board has been installed he has developed a style of his own that should take him far in diving circles if he wishes.

Pool superintendent Joe Lemon reports a number of articles left at the pool that should be picked up by their owners, before the season is ended. They include a bath towel, a wrist watch, clothing, trunks and some jewelery.

Every Dollar You Spend "At Home" Helps Our Community to Grow

Just think about it for a minute

A good part of every dollar you spend with our local business goes directly into circulation in our own community in the form of salaries and wages, and taxes which make possible the improvement of educational, health and recreational facilities.

That's why it makes such good sense to spend those precious dollars "at home", especially when quality, service, selection and price of the merchandise and the "style".

The local businesses depend on your support. Just as you depend on them for convenience, and for the contribution they make to the betterment of our community.

Notable points about moving

By ABEL CAUDET

Touring a lifetime almost everyone is faced with the task of moving, be it across town or thousands of miles away.

In most cases local moves within a municipality are both controlled by city governments, and there is no question as to services or claims. It is [illegible] except that when the mover is willing or able to guarantee. Therefore, since household goods are valued possessions, they should be entrusted to only reputable firms.

Most moves, at the least seem to be expensive and many people underpay an "estimate" as a tool for the job and frequently offer the job to the lowest estimator. The Better Business Bureau, in their pamphlet "Get Your Money's Worth When Buying, Moving or Storage" issues a warning against questionable operators who deliberately low-ball estimates as "bait" to get jobs.

Advance estimating by a [illegible] authorization of thirty charges [illegible] to advance. Many companies require a purchase and [illegible] to the moving firm to cover these charges which is in accordance with the regulations [illegible] of authorities the mover [illegible] bill after the goods have [illegible]

In the case that some damage has occurred while the shipment was in possession of the mover you choose have the driver [illegible] specification on the inventory and [illegible] receipt. Have [illegible] as possible notify the mover in writing the nature and extent of loss or damage to the property. [illegible] be for a stated and reasonable [illegible]

The estimate, being only an [illegible] guess, will differ from the final charge which must be collected on account [illegible] with the lowball [illegible] variations of the tariff [illegible] can involve both customer and mover. All reputable movers in Canada obtain their rates from the same tariff.

Items bonded and unbonded means virtually nothing to customers, it is convenient up on the customer to determine the extent of his protection against the hazards involved. Movers liability is usually limited to 30c per pound per article so you can easily see that even a small item of [illegible] couldn't be replaced for 30c nor could a 100 pound table for $30.00. Full Value Protection costs only 50c per $100.00. This rate is consistant in the moving industry.

Another item which should be kept in mind to save embarrassment etc., is the paying arrangements. Under the rules governing interstate shipments, movers will not deliver or relinquish articles of shipment until all tariff charges have been paid in cash, money order or certified cheque except when other arrangements have been made in accordance with the regulations in advance.

These unfamiliar with these requirements are often inconvenienced when their goods arrive at a time when the customer is unable to pay charges in the required manner and the mover is unable to unload and must therefore delivery the goods to a warehouse thus incurring additional charges. These are governmental rules and regulations and the mover is bound to adhere to them.

Should a company be moving you and paying the charges it is wise to arrange

Lt. Governor coming to Old Timers' banquet

His Honor J. Percy Page, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta will be present at the Banquet being tendered the Old Timers of Edson and District Thursday, September 21 on the Fiftieth Anniversary of the granting of a Charter to the Town of Edson.

The name of J. Percy Page has long been familiar on the Alberta scene, originally as a teacher and principal of McDonald Commercial High School in Edmonton later as Conservative member of the Alberta Legislature and most recently as his present appointment as Lieutenant Governor of Alberta.

The fields of education and legislation seem to pale before the fame and respect won by Mr. Page and his Edmonton Commercial Grads on the basketball courts all over the world. With numerous North American Championships and several Olympic medals for their skill and prowess, the Grads" sure full credit for their accomplishments in their sport unceasing search.

The persons hasn't donned on the team was forgotten and the reasons of player and coach every time takes place regardless position or distance the former member of the Grad team travel.

His Honor will arrive at the west crossing between 4:30 and 5:00 p.m. on September 21st. and as guest of the 50th Anniversary Committee we hope the whole town will welcome him enthusiastically especially the school children. Before attending the banquet at the high school auditorium Mr. Page will call at the Town Hall.

Complimentary tickets for the dinner have all been given out. All the paid tickets had been sold but an extra 50 seats have been made available through shifting of a table on that 50 more couples can now be accommodated. These extra tickets are available from Mayor Brunelle only and will go fast.

Finish touches put on rebuilt provincial bldg.

Finishing work has been pretty well completed on the newest addition to Edson's roster of fine public buildings as the official opening date for the rebuilt provincial building nears.

To be re-opened by the Hon. Norman Willmore next Thursday afternoon, Sept. 21, at 3 p.m. the public here been invited to attend the ceremony and inspect the spacious accommodations for provincial government services in the Edson area.

Work on the building has been supervised by the Provincial Department of Public Works and a considerable number of local men have been employed on the project through two winters.

Interest shown in coking coal deposit

By WALT MURPHY

Staff Writer with Grande Prairie Herald Tribune

Coal mines employing 1,000 men and supporting a town of 5,000 persons were envisioned last weekend for the fourth area bounded by the Smoky River and Sheep Creek 80 miles north of Edson.

Dr. K. K. Landes, geologist and university professor, drew a picture of a new town, with Grande Prairie likely as its major supply centre, to a brief visit here Saturday.

In giving details of the proposal he noted the extensive work which has veiled the surveyors [illegible] headquarters of the Smoky since 1957. $400,000 has been spent on the project.

TOWN STREETS OPENING UP

During around town these days one is struck by the amount of work done by the public works department of the town in opening up new streets alleys and other developments.

It would seem that good use has been made of the flood tax relief this year. It will be recalled that there was no great change in the mill rate on local property — the council decided that the greater than usual amount of money available this year should go into public services, roads and streets.

As addition to the town names has become as sizable from the budget due to it not being possible to proceed with the resurfacing of Main Street below 6th Avenue. It had been proposed to not only resurface that part but also to put new curb and black top the apartment clubs now serving as sidewalk.

We heard it mentioned at council the other night, but this new project would like to put its two bits worth in. Apparently to keep the town for the project [illegible] fireproof if we have an open fall.

Below is 16 through town [illegible] beaver and [illegible] it is not much to ex a dozen vehicles backed up both ways from the rail bridge at the intersection of 8th Avenue and Main. An alternate route to the East and [illegible] especially for the heavier vehicles could relieve much of the bottle neck. Later 3rd Avenue West could be opened up over the dam to further relieve the congestion.

Such an action would serve to open up an important commercial and light industrial area of town. But most important from a long term point of view it would help put off the evil day when the Department of Highways decides that 4th Avenue is no longer capable of handling the increasing traffic load coming in off the [illegible].

EVALUATING THE FUTURE

[illegible] to who are living in this area evaluate the impact of the possibilities that are cropping up around us. If the time as far as utilization of our natural resources is concerned.

Last week a curtain of secrecy veiling mysterious comings and goings of people connected with the timber industry in the area south of Entrance has been raised a little bit. Exploration crews have been going into the headwaters of the Smoky river mainly by helicopter during the secret period. As reported in Edson's printed courtesy of the Grande Prairie Herald Tribune elsewhere in this issue some of the details [illegible] form for the first time.

It has been [illegible] established that one western North America's great fields of coking coal — a vital essential of the steel industry — lies eighty miles north of Entrance.

Officials of the subsidiary of U.S. Steel, one of the largest in the world industry which has been carrying on the lands in this area under a [illegible] program north west of here stress that it is not yet certain whether these substantial deposits will be mined [illegible].

[illegible] is also being made in the [illegible] to the closest to the California [illegible] and the outcome of that search [illegible] probable be made in the years of 1963 when the [illegible] completion [illegible].

This is not the first time that coking coal for steel industrial use has caused hopes in this area. A few years ago large samples of the Luscar strip coal [illegible] of that from coal fires area [illegible] other coking properties.

[illegible] industrial growth through the oil and gas industry gives some hope for. A forum to be conducted briefly in Edson will bring interested [illegible] together with the extensive supplies of [illegible] source hold in the wake of jobs for our [illegible].

CAPITOL REPORT

School tax scoreboard revealed

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — The confusion which has logged the provincial government a new education financing program seems to be clearing itself up. Municipal Affairs Minister A J Hooker said last week that figures collated so far indicate 20 municipalities will have to raise school tax rates this year.

To date 208 of the province's 208 municipalities have submitted financial reports to the government. When the rest come through the province will have the whole picture.

Of the 208 that have reported, 20 face tax increases, 53 will be able to keep school mill rates at last year's level and 107 will be able to promote ratepayers with a tax reduction.

As Premier Manning predicted during the last session of the Legislature, there have been plenty of obstacles to overcome as the plan is implemented and there has been no little confusion. But by next year the province should be running fairly smoothly which is more than you could expect if it had been held back for another year of study.

The Alberta Legislature has lost one of its hardest working members. William Floyd Gilliland buried Grant Hall for Peace River raising for the past 17 years died in Edmonton last week at the age of 70. He had been in failing health since July when he suffered a heart attack while attending the Social Credit national convention.

Mr. Gilliland represented a vast area of northern Alberta during a period of rapid expansion. He had to work hard to represent the people in his constituency, and he did.

He was no golden tongued orator or slick, professional politician. He seldom spoke in the Legislature but when he did there was no nonsense. He said what he had to say in plain everyday English and that was that.

Mr Gilliland's popularity with the voters of Peace River probably stemmed from his tireless efforts on their behalf between House sessions and behind the scenes. Just getting around to visit sparsely populated reaches of his far flung riding involved a lot of work. And at all times of the year could see Floyd Gilliland prowling around government buildings calling on cabinet ministers and departmental officials, pleading cases on behalf of his people.

There's been no word yet regarding a by-election to fill the vacancy. Probably it will be held late this fall.

There were changes last week in the top brass of the provincial health department. Dr A Somerville a member of the department staff since 1926 and deputy minister since 1952 retired from his post. His successor is Dr M G MacCallum, who has been director of medical services for the province.

LET US BE FIRST CLASS CANADIAN

Reprinted from The Bolton Enterprise, Aug. 31

The Toronto Telegram has seen fit to suggest that it was strange that the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, in convention at Halifax last month, passed a resolution calling on the Diefenbaker government to adopt the recommendations in the O'Leary royal commission. The O'Leary commission was set up to find out why foreign magazines with phony Canadian editions were getting such a large share of the Canadian advertising dollar, and to suggest ways of bringing at least some of the money back home.

The total advertising in "Canadian" editions of foreign magazines was eight and a half million dollars in 1960. Time in 1960 paid its parent company $1,020,000 in dividends on an original book capitalization of $100,000 while Reader's Digest paid $1,800,000 on 125 per cent. on a capital arbitrarily fixed at $1,200,000, all of it earned in Canada. Millions were paid in earlier years.

In the last several years the Canadian weeklies (of which the Bolton Enterprise is one) lost many their best of their national, or out of town advertising. Some of it was lost to television, but much of it went to Time and Reader's Digest.

How could that be? The protected ad on the big magazines would never be seen in The Enterprise. But the weeklies got national advertising in competition with daily newspapers, TV, radio and other media. If Mr Luce's Time and Mr and Mrs. Wallace's Digest take all or nearly all of the available advertising money there is not to be little left over for genuine Canadian publications. The two miserders have slick (and expensive) sales gimmicks that can't be matched by the country weeklies.

The resolution at the Halifax meeting was regularly passed. There were 125 papers represented at the convention. The subject had been initiated by the president in his opening address and the attendance at the convention was representative having regard to the cost of travel for publishers who are spread across the continent.

The fact that a few member weeklies have criticized the report does not impair the validity of the resolution. Unanimity in a membership of 220 would be strange but there is no doubt that the resolution has the backing of most members.

The attitude of the Toronto Telegram is the really strange thing. The Tely began at lacking the Commissaun even before its first public hearing in 1960. The editor of the Tely's editorial page made a presentation, arguing that anything that could be recommended would be an encroachment on press freedom. Chairman O'Leary shouted "nonsense" and went on to show according to the official transcript that even a Telegram editorial is possibly under the law to [illegible] freedom of speech, said Mr. O'Leary did not include a right to start a panic by telling "fire" in a crowded theatre. He railed and much to the words of the late and jurist Mr Justice Holmes of the U.S. supreme court.

The editor of the Toronto Telegram's editorial page has had a long journalistic career, and it is especially interesting if he is the same B. S. Richardson, formerly of the Ottawa press gallery, who was an official correspondent for Time in the months when its Canadian section had just got going (1946?). If this is the man, could he have been so much in awe of Henry Luce that he would place Time's greedy encroachment ahead of survival of Canadian publications?

There can be over emphasis on "press freedom" and a happy conjured up about censorship. All laws are restrictive in some degree but only the most reckless of editors would say we did not need laws against libel, or the hard tactics of publishers would argue that the public should not be protected against false advertising or that obscenity be universally encouraged.

The O'Leary commission proposed no restriction whatsoever on the editorial content of Time, Reader's Digest or any other publication domestic or foreign if the recommendations become law. Time would be placed on the same footing in Canada as Newsweek and Reader's Digest in the same position as, for example the Atlantic Monthly or the National Geographic.

The restoration of equity among the imported papers would give the Canadian publications nothing this one a better chance of making progress. Everyone in the publishing business in Canada knows that it's a tough struggle to survive without having plutocratic foreigners competing unfairly. This unfair competition enables the foreigners more cash to make our thinking second-class American instead of first-class Canadian.

Legion-wise

Last week we promised you a series of articles on the experiences of 'Old Bill' a vet of World War I, and his son Herbie a second war vet. The series will acquaint you with the various problems of the returned man — a man who in the majority of cases was an untrained civilian prior to his enlistment and was discharged after the cessation of hostilities into a frightingly unfamiliar way of life. He was left to his own devices to find his way back to a useful and reasonably satisfactory station in civilian life.

The problems facing the veteran were tremendous. Most of the land no civilian trade. Many were disabled in some form or another making it almost impossible to pursue the calling of their choice and the majority had the feeling that Canada owed them some thing after having given four or five of the best years of their lives for those King and country.

So here, in the words of the Old Bromide a veteran of both World Wars, are some of the experiences of Old Bill, a typical civilian soldier who was returned wounded in 1918 to rehabilitate himself and plan a future with his wife and young son.

OLD BILL AND HERBY

"So you have asked for it I can tell Well, here I was after four years of soldiering on and before 'Cease Fire' I'm darned if I don't collect a packet. Back home again with the hospital behind me a bum leg and my lungs not quite what they were 'yeh' gas that's right! Well, me and the old lady and little Herbie were feeling pretty good for a bit Then the money got short Gratuity pay wasn't much, back pay a little more, re-establishment unknown and a lousy six dollar a month pension. Find my job for a man like my self was like looking for a needle in a haystack

Anyway, I got a job with [illegible] pay to make both ends meet and that's about all There were a lot of things we did without but there were many things that we boys want ed and felt we needed and were somehow entitled to We would meet in groups at each others places and talk about things over a few beers which was about the limit of our pleasure spending But what could two or three or even a dozen of us do by ourselves. The only thing we were sure of was that we had to get together in greater numbers

And so originated the first Vet organization little organizations of a couple of dozen to about 20, one in this town one in the next village and perhaps 2 or 3 in the larger cities Each outfit was not too sure of what they did want, without proper leadership and some real enlightened by the field of help and understanding from the authorities and general public

Why? Why? was the query from everywhere

Canada had never before had the problem of re assembling such a tremendous body of men into normal living men who were not all normal in that they were suffering from wounds and disabilities received in the hostilities

Eventually, however many of these small groups of veterans became affiliated and consolidated into larger associations and improvements were made in quite some extent

AS I SEE IT

Reverend S HURD Pastor

I begin, in the way the Lord led me, to write 24. Let us take this passage to enhance our faith in Him who called upon the world.

First, He was ready and willing to obey his Master. He was in the way when his Master could use him as an earth to make plans for our lives and the prospect for service then. We consult our own wills and desires and then become upset when the other way seems better. our attitude must be right or our action will be wrong. Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths. He not was on this own errand but the Lord and depart from. And when Admiral Nelson in his early days did not wish he were a nuthal he put the telescope to his blind eye and

There are more so blind as those who will not see. Is you desire to bless and obey God's will for your life?

Secondly, be earthly Prepared for usefulness and service as 2:14 H. ask to see the road that this is [illegible] power to walk also at H. speak, receive and the grace [illegible] We can [illegible] our own [illegible] are going [illegible] apart from God they will [illegible] of God [illegible]

In the Master's day [illegible] into First He [illegible] had left his mind Satan was to go up and down [illegible] to and fro [illegible] Master was not [illegible] Master the [illegible] Christ [illegible] Rode to victory [illegible] Is He Will [illegible]

[illegible] events, was told and [illegible] that visibility was [illegible] and all us [illegible] at home or so [illegible] about the intellectual and spiritual atmosphere in which we live is becoming colder and forgiver [illegible] and brighter and [illegible] ahead.

In Mr Irwin L Strauss, and other who have losing in a world of cold and fear. Mr Strauss was former chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and it was he [illegible] certainly on a cold and [illegible] warning that he would [illegible] on attack appearing in the Saturday issue of the Read [illegible] Digest. The title is "No [illegible] is living, is a must for [illegible] to [illegible] source [illegible] living by the U.S. [illegible] during by anyone especially the USSR [illegible] states the base premise [illegible] The important point to [illegible] world peace and security depends upon a stock [illegible] nuclear weapons.

However he himself in a [illegible] amount of this and at the close of the article says "It [illegible] a's idealist to be [illegible] that the US stockpile of [illegible] nuclear weapons is the free world's only effective deterrent [illegible]

But is a time that world peace and security depend upon a [illegible] of nuclear weapons whether those [illegible] bombs are located in the USA or the USSR? To put it in other way will our little John [illegible] his little brain [illegible] grow up in [illegible] powerful and [illegible] world [illegible] become more [illegible] and more [illegible] methods of killing people in lots of [illegible] at a time.

This view of world security and peace is based upon [illegible] upon the [illegible] unbelief in human nature that says [illegible] is not a man.

All human [illegible] are born [illegible] a world, and our sports [illegible] books that will also [illegible] objects to the ground [illegible] a child's existence is tough [illegible] At first glance, it may [illegible] readily assumed that all [illegible] is dependent upon [illegible] the death of some other living [illegible] The whole created [illegible] Heart does, but the man who [illegible] the bread lives and even [illegible] life and his decomposed body supplies the matter [illegible] which the wheat [illegible]

[illegible] life depends upon [illegible] another else's death

But I believe people [illegible] do not believe that the [illegible] Christ's death [illegible] of substitutional death will [illegible] opposite of peace, and wonders [illegible] war [illegible] night [illegible] matter of life [illegible] death [illegible] reason for [illegible] that keeps [illegible] sinfulness [illegible]

[illegible] in the basic cause of war, and that God continually [illegible] continuous through the life and death and continuous presence of Christ, rather than simply by repair [illegible] relationship to God, and upon a relationship to other human beings which God makes possible

Canon Hooper attends Provincial Synod meeting

RECTOR or St. Catherine's, Edson, Canon A. G. Hooper attends special meeting of provincial Synod.

At Archbishop's Residence Edmonton, on the setting for a special meeting last week of the Provincial Synod of the Archdiocese of Rupert's Land. Then matters felt to the decision of clergy and laity of this Synod. Approval was given to the Diocese of Rupert's Land to elect a Suffragan (assistant) Bishop. Similar approval was granted the Diocese of the Arctic. These bishops will be duly elected and consecrated when final arrangements satisfactory to the Metropolitan The Right Reverend H. H. Clark D.D. have been made.

The third matter of business concerned the establishment of a Provincial Board of Religious Education and the establishment of a training centre for lay men and women in the province. Agreement in principal was readily given to both parts of this proposal.

Provincial Synod is made up of lay and clergy delegates from all the prairie dioceses plus the Diocese of the Arctic. Under normal circumstances it meet every three years under the guidance of the Archbishop Metropolitan (one of the most interesting features of this special meeting was the presence of a large delegation from the Arctic which included several Eskimo catechists and the Reverend Armand Tagoona. Fr. Tagoona is the first Eskimo to be ordained a priest of the church. The delegation from our own Diocese was headed by The Right Reverend W. G. Burch and included in its four laymen and four clergy of the Diocese of Edmonton.

Forming Young People's group

There will be a meeting of all young people, 14 and up, who are interested in starting a Young people's group in Edson on Sunday, September 24 at 8:00 p.m. in St. Catherine's Parish Hall.

LACK OF MILK IN SOWS

Dr. J. A. [illegible] Director of the Alberta Veterinary Services Branch reports that the production of non-milking sows has been complicated in recent years by what appears to be infectious disease that affects a considerable number of animals on the same premises.

It is nothing to [illegible] a breeder to have an individual sow following a normal farrow, milk poorly or not at all. In some instances more than one animal may be affected. Generally the cause can be attributed to such things as over feeding, lack of exercise or perhaps a specific illness such as mastitis or infection of the womb. Good feeding and management practices are still important in assuring good milking sows.

In the more severely observed condition however there seems to be a transient illness in the sow at farrowing time evidenced by a varying degree of fever. The new pig [illegible] and vigorous but [illegible] quiet and [illegible] The lack of milk is the only obvious sign of trouble. Reported occurrences of the same premises in the [illegible] [illegible] unknown cause. Dr. [illegible] has had reports to the Veterinary Laboratory Branch [illegible] that [illegible] have also [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

from Scotia BANK

gives you extra money to spend but helps keep your budget

SCOTIA PLAN CHEQUE-CREDIT

Is The Bank of Nova Scotia's system of "revolving credit". This is how the plan works.

❶ You select the monthly payment that you can afford and then apply for twelve times that amount.

❷ When your application has been approved you receive a book of special personalized cheques.

❺ Each month you will receive a statement of cheques written, payments to be made, and the amount of credit still open.

❼ Each payment you make replenishes your Cheque-Credit reserve, giving you a continual supply of credit.

Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit is life-insured, too, at investment cost to you. Find out today all about Cheque-Credit at your nearest Scotiabank branch.

A TOURIST COMMENTS

ED (CHICAUGO) ABELSON

What is a tourist doing with an Indian name? It was an official name of Indian chief's attempts to counteract a sobriquet attached to him by a pair of teenage girls who witnessed a bit of a smash-em-crash-em called him "Man who fell in a gopher hole" which is self explanatory That is precisely what happened during Banff Indian Days that followed the Calgary Stampede and should be followed by the double fea tured Jasper Frontier Days and Highland Games and Banting Competition.

There is nothing that attracts the tourist's breed and shorter hop, wampum faraway elsewhere as your bright fea sonable My Money said, "Every pale faced from a desire for change, from curiosity from a wish to learn and to under stand"

The Tartans are very color ful and the dancers well known your Highland Fling. The Sword Dance and the Shean Truchus (The Gillie may be faulty) All these are trad itional and have a history to relate back to the well known Roman Prince Charlie The sword of Jasper competitions and frontier Days are a good foundation of something that could become as prosperous as the Calgary Stampede. The rodeo touch keeps it close to home and the Scottish appeal lies in with the motherland has very strong ties.

The color and action of such an open competition make an ideal outdoor camera hunt and will increase prospects all around and shortly pay for itself. So take a potential con sumers comment and get be hind this 100 per cent You will eventually get your invest ment back with an added measure of prosperity.

The fact that children can perform and learn competition on good sportsmanship will be a great asset to the stability of earning a living. It will teach them to respect their neighbor keep them on their toes and develop the sword of Jasper competitions and frontier Days are a good foundation of something that could become as prosperous as the Calgary Stampede. The rodeo touch keeps it close to home and the Scottish appeal lies in with the motherland has very strong ties.

CBX becomes the voice of Hinton next week

On Monday morning September 18, the CBC's Provincial Radio Station CBX will begin broadcasting from Hinton as part of a new series entitled "Alberta Mirror". A team of broadcasters will arrive in Hinton early Saturday to begin producing over ten hours of varied programming from the town.

The Mirror series made its debut in Olds the week of July 31. The visit to Hinton is the fourth and final in the Alberta Mirror series for this year.

The Mirror concept of public service broadcasting which includes Saskatchewan as well as Alberta. Each originated in Manitoba and in the past four years has covered eighteen towns and has this year been extended. Each has its own unique character and personality which the CBX crew hopes to bring out by interviewing the town folk in all walks of life.

To develop its "Know Your Province Better" theme, Alberta Mirror will put as many residents of Hinton and district as possible before the microphones whether they're business leaders or farmers, aged pioneers or school children, housewives or civic dignitaries. There is a place for everyone on the Alberta Mirror series.

Peggy MacFarlane, one of Canada's most prominent female broadcasters, will be women commentator and hostess of the CBX crew. She'll do her Morning Comment program daily from Monday to Friday at 10:30 a m from Hinton and in addition, will record numerous interviews for the afternoon Alberta Mirror Show heard 4 45 p.m.

LOCAL INTERVIEWS

Jim Schramm, popular announcer host for the entire series, will also interview townspeople for the afternoon Mirror Show and groom the local activities on Alberta Almanac heard Monday through Friday at 11 a m. Rounding out the "On Air Team" will be well traveled broadcasters

Bob Bocking CBX Farm Commentator and Glenn Bjarnason CBX's popular sports caster. Dick will cover the agricultural scene in around the Hinton district preparing the weekly for the daily farm broadcasts heard Monday through Wednesday at 12 30 p.m. and for the Junior Farm Club show heard Saturday at 12 30 p.m.

Glenn will be describing the Hinton sporting scene through interviews with local sports personalities for his regular evening sports show heard Tuesday and Wednesday at 5 40 p.m.

All Alberta Mirror programs will be produced by David Cruickshank, recently appointed producer of Outside Broadcasts for CBX, Alberta. A native of Edmonton, David established a successful reputation as an announcer at CBX, and then as a producer at CBW, Winnipeg before his return to Edmonton.

He will have the overall responsibility of planning all programs and bringing them to a successful conclusion. David is very hopeful that the townspeople of Hinton will extend their hospitality and co-operation to his group, as their help is most essential in telling the town's story.

Handling the technical details will be Bob McKay an expert radio operator. Bob will face the challenging task of setting up a mobile studio and moving it from place to place. He must guarantee his producer a good broadcast sound quality without the ad

The CBC broadcast team looks forward to bringing Hinton its own radio station for a period of six days and they express the hope of meeting as many of the residents of Hinton and district throughout the week, as is possible.

Dennis Westrum, CBC Information Services Representative has arranged all advance information on the weekly events and is anxious to answer any questions you may have about CBC broadcasting. Alberta Mirror or otherwise.

While Peggy MacFarlane, Jim Schramm and the other broadcasters are only too anxious to meet the people of Hinton and district there may be times when they are tied up with "on air" chores. Dennis will be more free to help answer your questions.

"Sportsman of the year"

There appears to be a sportsmanship requirements of the "Bridge" Sportsman of the Year Club. A Sandford of Beaver Mines Alberta, has been placed in a category by himself. Having achieved distinction by bringing down a 600 pound silvertip grizzly bear.

The now well known Sportsmen of the Year Club, sponsored by Sicks' Leithbridge Brewery Ltd., has this year added 104 new members to the roster of sportsmen and sportswomen. Most of these have distinguished themselves in the regular classification of bowling, fishing, curling, darts, golf and cribbage.

Eligible for membership are those who make a 600 or better score at bowling, a record catch in fishing, 3 triple 20's in one round of dart tournament or league play, get a ringer in curling, a hole-in-one in golf or a perfect crib hand (die as in Mr. Sandford's case, bagging a third of a grizzly).

Procedure for membership in the club and to receive the Bridge Award is simple. The Brewery invites sportsmen to submit a statement, certified by club president or opponent testifying that on a specific date at a specific place the required score was made. In addition to proof of membership, the sportsman receives a decorated scroll to add to his trophies.

The fact pate of modern living has much to to with the high cost.

The truism many enterprises fail to go forward is that it is much easier to plan to do than to do.

Finds tomatoes growing wild

HINTON—

Camp operator Alfred Heim couldn't believe his eyes recently when he found tomato plants growing in the wild.

Mr. Heim is cutting over the pulp area across the river north of Hinton, that was originally logged last year by pulp contractor George Moreau. He came upon the tomato plants near the former camp refuse dump where they had appareantly grown from seeds thrown out in kitchen scraps.

Three of the four plants were barren, but the fourth had produced full grown tomatoes that already held a hint of ripening goodness.

Mr Heim had picked the tomatoes for proof of their existence, but the hard frost of Sunday night would have finished their growing season anyway.

Drivers regulation being changed for learners

Gordon B. Taylor Minister of Highways has announced that consideration is being given to adding a new class of licence CL for Learners. At present the present time the Operators Licences are classified "A" "B" "C" or "D".

The Department looks with favour on the consolidation of the Learner's Permit with the Operator's License, as it will save a large amount of paper work each year, it will also avoid the necessity of filling Learner's Permits and Operators' Licences separately, it will save the applicant time as he will not have to be re-documented, and it will facilitate the movement of applicants through the centres.

The new plan entails the following procedure

(1) The learner applies for a Learner's Permit

(2) The learner takes the test

(3) The learner passes the test and is issued a Learner's Permit.

(4) If the learner passes the above test he will then pay the $5.00 fee and secure the appropriate license limited to classification "L" or Learner.

(5) The Learner's Operator Permit will be exactly as the Learner's Permit as issued today, which requires that a licensed driver must be sitting next to him while he is driving.

Later when the learner is ready he takes the road test and if he satisfactorily passes this his license would be re-classified from L to D or C or A as the case may be.

The main change involves the payment of $5.00 when a re-examination is required but subsequently all the road tests

The main change involves the payment of $5.00 when a re-examination is required but subsequently all the road tests of the license to persons who have an L or a classification but subsequently fail the road test.

EDSON MARKING 50TH BIRTHDAY

The Edson Leader

The Voice of Edson Constituency

Established 1911 - - - 50 Years Old with Edson

Vol. 9 | Edson, Alberta, Thursday, September 21, 1961 | No. 36

As this week's issue is being printed Edson started to mark its 50th birthday. The school children have been granted a day off and free shows were arranged for the afternoon courtesy of both theatres.

Just as the shows came out, the kiddies lined the streets at 4.30 to cheer the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, J. P. Page. His Honor was scheduled to address the 50th Anniversary banquet in the high school auditorium later in the evening.

With the odd last minute swap of tickets indications were that over 400 would sit down to what looked to be one of Edson's biggest feeding jobs. During the day, and for several days previously old timers have been coming into town for the big affair.

PS to old timers if we don't get your picture tonight we'd be happy to snap one of you for our old time edition if you could come into our office on 4th Avenue.

What's cookin' in oil and gas to be told

Predictions of what is liable to happen in the way of gas and oil development in the Edson area will be the subject of a seminar for district people Wednesday, October 4 at 8:00 p.m. in the Legion hall.

Sponsored by the Canadian Petroleum Association, the meeting will have a panel of experts from most of the companies presently active in this area.

Following short talks by these representatives a panel type of question period on what is liable to happen will be conducted.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend by the Edson Chamber of Commerce who have arranged for the forum.

Heads principals

At its first meeting of the current school year, the Principals Association elected the following executive: Mr W. Eddy, Vice principal of the Edson Senior High School, president, Mr. John Applegard of Hinton, Vice president, and Neil Horne, Vice principal of the Evergreen School (Edson), Secretary.

CENSUS SHOWS TOWN 3108

Announcement of Dominion Bureau of Statistics following this year mens count across Canada shows Edson's population as being 3108.

This compares with the figure of 2560 reported for the last census conducted by the Government in 1956. Official figure from a census of people living in Edson last winter gave the town prospect's population as being 3337.

Edson's normal population is swelled during the winter months and it is felt that a census taken during June reflects the true ebb as far as people are concerned.

The Dominion figure does not include Glenwood or Grande Prairie Trail communities, nor the residents living near the East Crossing.

Square dancing slated for Oct. 1

The Edson Do Paci square dancing club is presently going ahead with arrangements for the coming season. The first gathering will be held October 3 under the capable guidance of the club's two callers Mr Jack Bloome and Jim Reid. New members and older members who feel they would like refresher courses are cordially invited.

Remember the A. H. Dakin School October 3 at 8:00 p.m.

Two in the running for Town Council seats

The Town Returning Officer and they will date for receiving Mr Peter Berdiuk has made it known that September 27 1961 Mr. M. D. Meade, Town Clerk between the hours of 11 a.m. and 12 noon is the deadline for nominations to the town reelection to the Town Council and Edson District School Board.

This year the Town Council have two vacancies. They are Mr W. H. Mills and Mr E. A. Mahon.

The Edson School Division also has two vacancies, name H. Meyers, D. M. Caston and J. T. McNamara. These trustees have not indicated whether or not they will seek reelection.

Another item of interest to voters is the fact that nominations for both Town Council and School Board will be held in the Town Council Chambers on October 16.

Immediate pulp prospects limited

It is unlikely that there will be any serious development of pulp and paper industries in Alberta, only pulp mill at Hinton

Some start on a modest extension of the present developments may be reasonable within the next five years, he said. From the point of view of the electric power industry, the great problem for economic development of the future date is close immediate prospects are limited."

TOTAL STAND

The total stand of conifer was timber in the peace river timbers and the Northwest Territories, Mr Collinge stated is estimated to be 65 billion cubic feet, with more than half in Alberta.

At first glance he said it would appear that this region could supply the raw materials for 17,500 tons a day pulp mill and 17 new print mills, while producing 40 billion board feet of lumber.

In view of this kind of potential he said the impression in the pulp and paper mill would be wait and see about the power, permits like proper to establish the speaker said.

However market conditions are such that the development of even one pulp mill in this area is prohibitive at

GREAT DEMAND

The Canadian exports of newsprint have steadily increased in recent years said Mr Collinge, export prospects for the pulp and paper industry are extremely greater than the demand.

There are therefore still unlimited possibilities and markets for some time to come he added.

Other factors influencing the development of further pulp mills on the prairies of pulp material are more essential supplies of coal and especially water. I am distant and inside markets, most easily from inland supplies," Mr Collinge said.

He said there is a danger that Russia may enter the world coal and pulp export market. This could have considerable effect on the economic position of the Canadian industries.

A few weeks ago I saw a little girl struck by a car as she tried to cross the street. I ran her father race toward her and held her to him as she struggled in the agony of death. I ran all the plans that had been made for her dashed and I saw the look of despair that came over his face. I could only offer a prayer that such a thing might never happen again.

Today my daughter, who is six years old, started off to school. Her curler spaniel, whose name is Scout, watched her leave and wishes he was disbelief in the folly of edicts against.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, a girl with yellow curls, and about the boy across the aisle who makes faces, about the teacher who has eyes in the back of her head, about the trees in the school yard and the big girl who does not believe in Santa Claus.

We talked about a lot of things — tremendously vital and unimportant things.

Now, as this is written, she is seated asleep with her doll ("Paddy") in her arms.

When her doll gets broken or her finger gets cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix them. But when she starts across the street then Mr Driver, she is in your hands.

Much as I wish I could, it's not possible for me to be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her home, her education, her clothes.

So, Mr Driver, please help me to look out for her. Please drive carefully. Please drive slowly past schools and at intersections. And please remember that sometimes children run from behind parked cars. Please don't run over my little girl.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) PATRICK

Search for Talent to feature weekly winner

Arrangements have been completed to feature the weekly winner for Search for Talent in a guest artist on a special program on CFRN TV, according to Allan G. Creighton, general chairman of the Associated Canadian Travellers Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Committee

This new development in the fifteenth year of Search for Talent about, will be welcome news to the five hundred contestants expected to participate in the shows this season, Mr Creighton stated. He pointed out that this feature will in no way interfere with the weekly broadcast of each show on CFRN TV Radio, and will serve to supplement it.

The change from "one man sing" to straight audition has instituted but season has given Search for Talent a new interest, with unanimous support and endorsement from all sides.

Cautious attitude reflected

A Reynolds Metals Company truck driver was recently awarded a citation for having operated a truck for 20 years without an accident. When asked "How did you do it?" he said, "I always yield the right of way."

That reflects the cautious attitude Safety in this instance was no accident Many traffic accidents occur because drivers refuse to yield the right of way They are determined to convince who they regard as their right and less frequently find they are wrong and end up in the hospital

One of the most startling statistics I've seen recently is that the cost of repairing automobiles after traffic accidents in 1957 was 7½ billion dollars That is about half the sum spent in purchasing new cars This is the reason that automobile insurance rates continue to rise year after year Repairing wrecked cars is a matter in many cases of life and death

If we should stop running into each other there would be a lot of unemployment in auto repair shops

Mr Cuna P Padilla, Director of Safety, Fort Collins Public Schools, says "A good driver requires the qualities that are needed to be a good citizen Learning to drive is closely related with learning to live You cannot teach people to be good drivers with out teaching them the same things that make good citizens There is no better or more effective way of learning what it takes to live or certainly in our modern world than by discovering them, things through learning to drive"

Safety is everybody's business Progress toward reduction of accidents is also But the nation-wide effort to make progress The death rate from industrial accidents in 1959 remained at the record low established in 1958 The actual number of deaths 13,800 was the second lowest on record

The cause in which you are engaged is one worthy of your efforts The persistence and perseverance you put in to the effort will save lives and reduce suffering Let me urge you to increase this grace and enthusiasm as you continue the crusade or safety

Edson's birthday

Birthdays for boys we suppose are something like personal birthdays especially when they are around or over the 50 year mark. We know the actual day that the fifty years are up but the process of getting to be fifty takes fifty years.

In that fifty years in Edson scores of thousands of people have lived in Edson for varying lengths of time or were here with the first and are here yet Edson has always had a moving population. The large proportion of railroad people in the earlier years and in some cases frequent transfers made for this. So did the lumber and coal industry which had seasonal work. Latterly oil and gas industry people have contributed to our mobility.

Down through fifty years our town has had the benefit of the constructive energies of many of these men and women who only stayed a few years. Rising young executives on the railway, for instance, frequently put their abilities to work for the benefit of the community before they passed on to a higher position with their company.

The flashes of brilliance were bright while those people lived among us, but those who have stuck it out for the long haul in their jobs, their business or industry, are the ones who best answer the query "What keeps Edson so busy."

As we sit in the editorial chair of The Edson Leader of September 21, 1961, we can not help but think of the first editor, W. C. H. Garrioch of The Leader. Brother Garrioch started The Leader in February 1911 and by September of that year we suspect he was wondering if he was going to be able to hold out and put out a paper every week until the promise of 1911 materialized. At least a score of editors have wondered the same down through the last fifty years. Some of Edson's newspapers lasted only a few issues. Others like The Leader appeared spasmodically until recent years.

Naturally we are inclined to look at our community through the eyes of all the editors who have run their proudly owned, semi-public institution, known as a newspaper, for what they hoped was the good of the town while pounding them with enough grocerm to live on.

A local newspaper is one of the best gauges of a town available to anyone making a survey of what conditions in and around the town are really like. Dull dingy stores for example will usually have competition dull dingy ads — or none at all. City class stores and garages will have ads in keeping with the high standard of service they provide for the community. A paper that isn't afraid to run lots of pictures has a town that has quite a few picture possibilities. In recent years we have been pleased with the looks of the store fronts and public buildings shown in the backgrounds of pictures of parades and other visual attracting events.

Barring unforseen circumstances The Leader of 1961 looks like it will survive for a while. As a matter of fact we are quite pleased with it. Our business community has grown to a large enough extent that it revenue from the advertising service we render almost meets expenditure.

This is far from the promise of 1911, but it is sufficient for our purposes. Because the promise of 1961 is based on more than idealism. We have fifty years of being a live place on the map behind us. We are able to face the future with the confidence of proven experience.

CALLING GRANDPA

My young nephew is an only child and has to have a part in everything that goes on around their home. One Sunday his grandparents whom he seldom sees were having dinner with them and as usual the young fellow was trying to help. When the meal was ready his mother told him to call grandpa and daddy in for dinner.

Big as life and pompous as only a three year old can be he strutted out and began calling, "here daddy, here daddy, here daddy come and get it old boy."

Perhaps we should explain that his favorite chore is feeding the dog.

As the lady paid her bill, she commented, "Food is so expensive nowadays. No wonder the farmers are getting rich."

Life is so illogical, so unreasonable. When you look back on the past, even though it had sorrow, it seems wonderful, well organized, and free from routine tasks and problems. And when you look forward to the future you visualize only wonderful things, like children talking about what they're going to do when they grow up — But what of today? Doesn't anyone enjoy the nowadays? What's wrong with right now? What's wrong with being happy with the things we have, of telling the people we love that we do of approving now, this very minute?

Let's not argue these "Think" and "Think before you speak" slogans too much. They could reduce the amount of work that has to be redone than increase unemployment.

CAPITOL REPORT

Alberta's crop not too bad

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — The 1961 crop season, which got off to a dismal start in Alberta and most of the west, as in the home circuit and looks certain to make a better finish than anyone expected.

In fact, reporting the National Grain Company last week, what farmers are busy harvesting is a miracle crop.

In its final crop summary of the year, the company says crops are coming through remarkably well despite the repeated and prolonged punishment handed out by a hot, dry summer.

Figures on estimated production seem to bear out the grain company's statement. It estimates farmers will harvest 342,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, 37,000,000 bushels of oats, 19,000,000 bushels of barley, 1,500,000 bushels of rye, more than 4,000,000 bushels of flax and 240,000,000 pounds of rapeseed.

The development of the crop, says the report, was one of the surprises of this year's harvest. Quality of the grain is described as excellent. The wheat is predominantly 2 northern, with a good percentage of 1 northern. Protein content is higher than it has been for several years.

Alberta's forest industry may soon be receiving a shot in the arm. Alberta Pulp and Forest Products Corporation Ltd., announced last week that financing arrangements are nearing completion for a $30,000,000 pulp and newsprint mill at Whitecourt, northwest of Edmonton.

The company said work is expected to start on the mill construction and forest access roads within a few days. Plans call for the mill to start producing newsprint within 22 months of the start of construction.

Alberta at present has one pulp mill, at Hinton. If the new one goes through, the forest industry will be well on its way to doubling its important factor on the pulp and paper economy.

There were some signs last week of green on a section of Alberta's over the way roads are no longer treasures.

Premier Manning reported government estimates were probably a little optimistic when they estimated the increased gasoline tax would yield $34,320,000. Earnings so far this year indicate the tax won't bring in that much.

Oil and gas revenues are running a little better than had been expected. But natural resources — such as the $2,600,000 royalties so far in light forest fires — will wipe out the increase.

By the end of the fiscal year, said the premier, the province's deficit will be "pretty close" to the $14,600,000 forecast in the budget.

Government officials make no secret of the fact they are worried about agriculture's future. Basing the years to big revenues from oil and gas, Alberta was the financial envy of the rest of Canada. With plenty of money in the pocket, the province introduced big new health and welfare measures, and poured millions into education and municipal aid.

The programs introduced during the lush years are still with us — and costing more money every year. Combined with the seemingly inevitable increase in the cost of government generally, it is more than current revenues can pay for.

What's the answer?

Premier Manning says the cabinet is continuing a study of possible new sources of revenue. In simpler language, this probably means some new form of taxation, or increases in existing forms.

What makes it tough for the government is that Albertans are not accustomed to carrying a tax load in proportion to the services they demand from their administration. Said Mr. Manning, "We're going to have to take a long, hard look at the whole picture."

Cities? Just Give Us A Good Town

Not long ago a rustic upstart of ours had off on a city slicky which had inadvertently reflected in our friend's place of publication as a town which is actually to rated as a city.

In all seriousness we suggest that our fellow editor is missing a good thing by insisting that his city be referred to as such.

There is many occasions that town has become a much more attractive thoughts soon for a place than the word city. By that we mean attractive to people who want to spend homes and raise children, to those who want to start a business, and try to create of their own — and even to many large industries that are looking for sites for new works.

A city no longer carries the magic suggestion of opportunity for success, wealth, culture and good living that it once did. Today the word conjures up pictures of metro reaching traffic, boat long drives just to get from your home to where you work, living in a house that is basically just the same as ten thousand others around you, a lawn like unto a handkerchief, no room for children or dogs to play safely and a life time mortgage to contend with. You are just another set in an ever-crowded ant hill.

Against this dreary city life, a good small town for some reason or other — we recommend — offers just about every good thing a big city does and many, many more advantages.

The only advantage you can give the city is that it does offer live theatre and conference facilities but most good towns are close enough so that their citizens can drive to the city for theatre and similar entertainment in about the same time as it takes a city dweller to cross his jungle of traffic.

But the town resident has even greater specialties within a five minute drive. What show equals a slow drive along a country road under a full harvest moon.

What collection of world famous art can equal the color of one of our western sunsets when you sit quietly on some hill top and watch the western sky imperceptibly change through a magnificent range of brilliant colors no artist has been able to capture on canvas!

What equals the dramatic impact of the color drenched autumn landscape with a blue gossamer haze hanging on the distant hills? What can arouse a man's awe and shrink his swollen ego like looking at the sky on a cloudless night and knowing that the myriad of stars he sees is only a tiny fraction of those that can be counted by the 1 and Palomar telescope, which in turn can be only a tiny fraction of space?

Who can watch the Northern Lights without feeling their eerie beauty, regardless of what he knows about them being caused by electrical charges thrown off by the atomic furnace that is our sun?

To the city resident such sights as these are either unknown or else rarely seen and far more often remembered.

Those who find nothing in such scenes are to be pitied and perhaps they deserve to live in a city much as we hate to pronounce such a sentence on any one.

A world man of Peace

We have our head in universal grief at the death of Dag Hammarskjold, and in pray er that his untimely passing will not be the beginning of the end for the great peace organization of which he was chairman.

The world has lost a truly great statesman and citizen. We hope the repercussions of this great man's passing will not adversely affect the small communities in which we live. The events of the great wide world are felt everywhere when peaceful negotiation fails and nations resort to war.

GREEN ACRES

By R. C. LOWE
District Agriculturist

Early Care Pays

The importance of using good management practices in handling young pigs cannot be overemphasized. Some farmers in this district are raising 200 pound hogs on the market in little over five months while others are boarding their hogs for nine months or even more. As a pig gets closer to his first birthday before leaving home the profit of them is any left) from raising him becomes less and less. This is due to extra labour, more feed required per pound of gain and probable lower carcass grades.

Repeat experiments in both Canada and the United States have definitely proved that the heavier a pig is at weaning, the quicker he will reach market weight. The same experiments have also shown that pigs which are kept growing rapidly on well balanced feed (approximately 16 per cent protein) until they are about 120 pounds have the biggest proportion of lean meat. Meat and bacon are developed in animals to a greater degree during their early growth period.

In view of these facts, pig producers cannot afford to overlook the importance of creep feeding sucking pigs, says Alberta's Live Stock supervisor, A. J. Charnetski. The loss of the sow's milk starts to diminish when the little pigs are ten days old and are in need of more food for their rapidly growing and developing bodies. At this stage a dish of skim milk and another of cracked wheat or rolled oats (raw porridge) to which has been added fish feeding oil and a little sugar is a very adequate supplementary feed. Towards weaning time this should be replaced by a commercial or home mixed weaning pig ration.

The importance of providing (guaranteeing) with a supply of fresh water is an other point which is often overlooked by pig producers Mr Charnetski points out that, on the basis of per pound of body weight, the intake of water in suckling pigs is greater than that of mature pigs. Water is necessary for proper internal cleansing and eliminating. To ensure that the pigs have an adequate supply of fresh water, their troughs should be kept inside the creep and cleaned daily. Young pigs that have as much clean water as they can drink usually make more rapid gains and are more resistant to disease.

Local bakery invites all to open house

Anno Knoop and staff of the Edson Bakery are extending an invitation to all district people to attend their open house following extensive remodeling and modernization of their premises on Main and Third, on Friday, September 26.

[illegible] would not be an exaggeration to say that the most significant [illegible] that increased production would be possible in the bakery was the addition of new equipment so that the Edson & District Bakery [illegible] that has built the firm's business with dependable service. To all [illegible] the steadily increasing demand for [illegible] products [illegible] contracted with a concrete block and smooth finished brick the new addition makes the ideal plant for the spotless cleanliness that the firm's reputation demands.

Coupled with the modern facilities, such machinery as an automatic rotating baking oven has been installed bigger capacity mixing machinery and other modern production facilities.

Edson contractor Frank Nosternig handled the construction of the building. Plumbing and electrical work was installed by Koebel Co. Ltd. and Alberta Mechanical Contractors looked after the heating and steam installations.

The ladies of the Auxiliary to the Edson Legion are serving coffee from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Join with some of the delicious produced by the bakery chefs of this local industry.

A treetop hideout tops

When the children had finished their tour Anno then called me to look at it with him briefly. I exclaimed "What are you going to do with it?" Will you use it as your hideout or something more important? Nobody can tell us here."

And what an ideal place it proved to be! The school holiday, but summer it was known for the children. Those among the good green boughs high above the reel of noisy child world hide for an hour or half an afternoon munching an apple or cookie, utterly at peace and oblivious to the toil-ons of earthbound existence.

What fun it was! What a lovely hiding place! And you know the longer I live the more apparent it becomes that I too must have a tree house. Oh, not one built of boards straining in a tree but one high above the tedium and difficulties of ordinary existence to which I may retreat for comfort and renewal.

I need a look-out position from which to consider matters in their true perspective a place where great issues may be viewed from every angle and where little things dwindle to proper insignificance.

I need a place, sharp I can open wrists and attain the homemade bothers of my typical cables and count and recount my blessings I am beginning to understand that I must seek often the cool green [illegible] of my tree house in order to survive.

There were no distinctive lipstick flavors when Grandpa was a young man, and he says when you kissed a girl, all you could taste was girl which was all right with him. he said, because he knew whom he was kissing

A BIG CARROT FROM THE LINDGRE GARDEN brought two pleased boys Duane Lindgren (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lindgren, and Dale Griffiths, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Griffiths, into the Leader office last week.

All is quiet at Camp 33
HINTON

The population at Camp 33 was reduced from about 75 workers to practically nil last week as another season of pulp cutting came to an end at that particular camp Cutting operations at Camp 71 started on April 3rd, almost four months to the day from the closing day A crew of between 65 and 75 cutters was maintained in order to cut the 23,000 cord contract Most of this crew of hard workers has now been transferred to camp 33 where they will resume their work after a brief period of rest.

Another era of activity will commence in the near future at Camp 33 with the start of the hauling season Huge trucks will join forces, with the four that have been hauling since early August and they will be on a round the clock schedule It is expected that all the wood will be out by Christmas.

Camp 33 is under the supervision of District Superintendent Jim Clark, assistant district superintendent Lyle Landsay, foreman Helge Nelson and strip-boss Steve Orlesky

We offer congratulations to the crew on a job well done at Camp 33 and wish them the same success at Camp 23

North Western's Woodlands Operations

HINTON—
By STANTON HART, Assistant Woodlands Manager

The position of North Western Pulp & Power Ltd. with respect to the large forest resource of its pulpwood lease area can be illustrative purposes, be compared to that of the manager of a large trust fund.

The pulpwood lease area, held under agreement with the Crown, is the bank account. It must be so managed by the Company, with the consent and approval of the Provincial Department of Lands and Forests, that its "dollars," in the form of growing trees, remain at a constant level. The Company's pulp mill at Hinton must live from the "interest" on this "capital" of growing trees. The "interest" is the net number of cords of pulpwood that grow each year on the lease.

The science of Forest Management concerns itself with insuring that the "capital" yields a steady and consistent "interest" forever, without having to dip in to the "capital reserve." This is known as "sustained yield forest management."

The pulpwood lease area which is well-covered with mature timber, contains approximately 3,000 square miles of land, most of which is productive growth. North Western owns the cutting rights on this area, not the land itself. Another 2,000 square miles of land is held under option for a limited amount of time This is known as the "Reserve Area" and is being held for the Company by the Government in the event that possible future mill expansion should require a larger basis for wood. On the reserve area, the government retains the right to sell to other operators any timber except that which is most suitable for pulpwood.

The pulp mill at Hinton receives its wood supplies from several different sources, only one of which is from its own logging operations. In the Edson area the Department of Lands and Forests administers several forest management units, operated on a sustained yield basis, on which small operators are licensed to cut timber for sawmills. Another unit, in the Berrien Lake area, which are sold to the government on a bid basis to lumber and tie operators. Cutting areas on North Western's operations usually consist of two men working with one horse. Normally, one member of the crew will fell the trees in the area or strip them, and then remove the limbs. The second crew member will skid the trees out of the bush on to the road known as "landing," cut them into lengths of 100 inches and then, aided by his partner, pile the logs neatly and ready for measuring by the camp scaler.

Gasoline driven power chain saws, owned by the cutters themselves, are used for felling and bucking and an axe is used for limbing. Piling on the landing is done with the aid of a "pulp hook." In areas where the footing is too soft to allow for the use of horses in skidding, small tractors have been used successfully

All cutting is paid for on a piece-work basis, the volume of wood produced by each cutter being determined from measurements taken by the camp scaler of the wood piles in each crew's assigned area. Crew members are each assigned a number, which they write in the lore ground in order to open and release their seed in scarification.

Weather and ground conditions being what they are, the pulpwood lease area of the pulpwood produced in the large camps is hauled during the winter months when frozen ground conditions permit heavy equipment to traverse over the most inaccessible areas. Winter roads in road cases the pulpwood logs are hauled on trucks by means of power driven deadhead arch equipped with a 45 ton like pulpwood trailer. Trucks vary in size to suit the terrain and may haul from 8 to 25 cords of wood per load During the winter months hauling is carried on both day and night by the mill woodyard at Hinton. The trucks are unloaded at the mill with large cranes equipped with barker type slicers and capable of lifting six tons of pulpwood a three quarter cord load for loading

During the year following the hauling of the wood from a given area, that area is scarified. This procedure amounts to a general stirring up of the ground, and is carried out by means of large tractors equipped with wide, rake like, front-mounted blades. The purpose here is to expose the mineral soil which lies underneath the limbs and other logging debris after cutting, and is thereby provide a fertile seed-bed for new growth.

In a spruce forest this new tree growth is a result of seed being blown by the wind on to the cutting area In the Lodgepole Pine forest the seed is produced from cones in the lagging slash on the ground These cones require the heat generated from the sun striking the bare ground in order to open and release their seed

The early youth of North Western

By ROBIN HUTH

Mr. Ruben, Chairman of the Board of North Canadian Oils, tells us this dream until it became an eventuality. After interesting St. Regis Paper Company, third largest paper Company in the world, many summer meetings, employing North Canadian Oils, St. Regis and the Alberta Government lead to the decision to take out a 2,000,000 acre timber lease and a 2,000,000 acre reserve with a 15 year option. This area roughly comprises from Edson to Jasper Park, and from the Coal Branch in the south to 50 miles north of No. 16 highway.

On June 17th 1951 St Regis and North Canadian Oils jointly announced plans for the financing and construction of a bleached sulphate pulpmill in Alberta. The name chosen for the new Company was North Western Pulp & Power Ltd.

Later four men in a jeep decided on the location of the pulp mill site. Mr H V Hart General Manager of the North Western Woodland Division and Mr Jim McArthy, Vice President and Chief Engineer, both of St Regis, along with two others, selected the long sweeping bend in the Athabasca River for a plentiful water supply in approximately the centre of the lease.

Surveyors started clearing the corner to climb to look at a new camp location there. Feeling the need for a hot cup of coffee they continued on to the Yellowhead Highway 15 miles to the west. A quick investigation proved that this was undoubtedly the end of their search, and climbing stiffly out of the jeep, they walked into the old brown stone hotel to celebrate with steaming cups of coffee.

POPULATION EXPANSION

In May of 1955 construction workers moved in and Hinton's population exploded from 100 to 2,000 persons.

Bunkhouses and a kitchen for 1,800 men were quickly built near the mill site. Tents and shacks suddenly appeared in all sides of the highway from Edson to the west. Hinton assumed role as the major supply center of the area. Here merchants with goods turned towards a future of modern commercial prosperity. Individual business men board huts.

Parallel with the influx of the outside workers came the vanguard of the pulpmill staff, the Forestry new. Their function at this time was to carry out timber cruises of the area. From the data gathered initial management and cutting plans evolved.

The Forestry personnel set up in office and living quarters in a bogged camp half a mile east of the mill site and through the summer and fall they brought in their families, put in temporary water and sewer lines and banked tiny cabins against the oncoming winter.

The winter of 1955-56 was one of the coldest in the history of the Province. Plans made in the fall to bring the scattered community together with hayrides and other social events were forgotten as people spent all of their time fighting the cold. Temperatures of 40 and 50 below zero sent the frost creeping into the ground until the temporary sewer lines froze and cracked.

Mothers hesitated to allow babies to crawl on trailer floors where the frost made itself felt through the shoes and stockings of the parents. Coal stoves, propane and water were considered in a new light as they became difficult to obtain. The first winter was a frightful chaos out of which the people of Hinton strained for the hope of spring.

The spring of 1956 took a long time to break the seal of winter's fetters. Finally on June the end of the winter came quickly as the ice plate will not warning upon all their fears and the country banks turned green.

With this the Administration Building had been completed and the Forestry Personnel moved from the tourist cabins to fill a small part of the new town hotel structure.

Two pulpwood camps had been built and a few thousand cords of wood had been cut and hauled to the woodyard of the mill. The Woodlands Department was now operating and the personnel of the Company quickly swelled with the hiring of woods supervisors.

As spring warmed to summer, the town and the mill progressed rapidly. Within the Company, the Industrial Relations Department was organized to handle the 1,200 pulpwood cutters needed immediately to fill the woodyard with the 175,000 cords ordered prior to the start-up of the plant. Supervisory personnel of the Engineering and Mill Operations Departments began arriving in.

By November 1st, 1956, the [illegible] complete administrative [illegible] supervisory) staff were assembled. A comprehensive [illegible] orientation program was organized by Mr. Wayne Smith, St. Regis Training Director from Pensacola Florida. Each morning and afternoon, the staff [illegible] involved in what is now part of the Forestry Office to begin the department heads and senior supervisors explain how their sections or departments fitted into the overall scheme of the pulpmill.

Meanwhile the Industrial Relations Department was busily interviewing applicants for employment. Each application was acknowledged and carefully investigated. Teams of operations supervisors travelled east and west to interview prospects.

By December, the operating crew was hired and ready to begin training. A step-by-step study of the operations followed. Manuals were written and issued. Detailed process flow charts were prepared. Tours were conducted whereby the process flow charts were minutely traced. Classroom discussions were organized.

Finally, the construction crews finished their work and moved out, and the operating shifts were ready to begin a thorough, start up equipment check-out.

These days, a scant five years ago, seem to be a long way in the past. Perhaps because so much happened. North Western suffered the throes of start-up agony caused by new machinery, untried innovations, and large numbers of untrained workers. During the first two years those who discovered they didn't like to [illegible] pulpmill or live in a small town moved out. Turnover was high and production was low.

Now the wheel has turned and the turnover is down to a very low percentage of total personnel while daily production is at an all time high.

The pulp and paper industry will expand in Alberta. As other mills move in, they will look to North Western as the pioneer who has come before and broken trail for the others to follow.

Where lies the blame?

By J. CRAIG

Your MP Reports

In the years 1949 1960 the Ohio Turnpike Commission collected details of automobile accidents which occurred on the turnpike and involved death injury or property damage amounting to over $100.00

A study of the findings is extremely interesting and enlightening. Seven out of ten were one car accidents of which half were non-collision. Of the other three out of ten accidents involving other vehicles the opposites were treated and human life in transit were unknown.

Let's take a look at a breakdown of the circumstances

Driving too fast on snow or ice	15.8%
Driver asleep or sleepy	14.3%
Driver inattention or carelessness	8.9%
Defective tires	7.4%
Mechanical failure	7.2%
Improper passing or failure to yield	7.0%
Vehicle stopped or moving slowly on traffic lanes	4.8%
Fire	4.6%
Driver drinking or intoxicated	4.0%
Improper parking, backing or starting	4.0%
Animals birds on roadway	3.8%
Object dropped from overhead structure	3.7%
Exceeding speed limit	3.2%
Driving too fast for condition of vehicle	2.8%
Other	8.5%
TOTAL	100.0%

A study of the 7 reasons list reveals that by far the majority of the accidents were the result of human failure. Alarming isn't it?

Yet after … approach to mandatory defense in dental … it is … Each year we drive safer and more … but no matter what is invented or discovered it … of the vehicle who is responsible for the safety … on the road.

… I am simply living proof … the United States 250 … each year as a result of … accidents, or existing in … and others through no fault … to be the deaths …

More than 100 years ago the law in Toronto permitted pigs to run loose in the streets as … set as garbage collectors, and there were so many that visitors nicknamed the place Pigtown.

200 district pioneers honored charter night

September twenty first nineteen hundred and eleven was the date when Edson received its charter to become a town. To commemorate this occasion and pay tribute to the pioneers Edson held the largest testimonial dinner ever staged in our district.

The banquet was held in the school auditorium and filled to capacity with young and old, with the younger generation showing great respect to the courage, faith and determination of the pioneers.

The famous RCAF band under the direction of W. O. Woods provided appropriate selections throughout the evening, climaxed by old and familiar melodies and the joining of hands as the auditorium assembly hall rang with Auld Lang Syne.

Heroic efforts fail to save 3 month infant

The community was saddened to learn late Thursday that heroic efforts to save the life of little three month old Carneius, son of Mr. and Mrs. John de Gier had failed.

Found suffocated from a plastic covering on the mattress in his crib by his mother Thursday the baby was rushed to St. John's Hospital where Dr. P. W. Cohen performed an emergency heart massage. The baby's heart revived and restricted breathing resumed.

It was then decided to take the infant to the University Hospital by Edson Ambulance. The highway was cleared and Robert Jay rushed the baby, with the doctor and a nurse to the city in record time. The infant did not regain consciousness however.

Mr. and Mrs. de Gier have five older children. The sympathy of the community is extended to them in their bereavement.

Four nominated for two council seats

Returning Officer Peter Serdiak reports that nomination papers for four candidates for the two Council seats coming vacant this term were received prior to the deadline Wednesday noon.

Running for Council positions are M. D. Meade, school principal; M. A. "Slim" Collin, merchant; J. E. "Stan" Gelmici, jeweller, and Abraham Goldstick, merchant.

The two seats being contested are presently held by Councillors L. A. Mahon and W. Mills.

Two seats on the local school board were filled by acclamation by Thomas D. McGreer, district engineer for the Department of Highways, and John T. McNamara, insurance and real estate agent.

To hear gas-oil future

Petroleum industry activity in the Edson area will be discussed at a public meeting to be held in the district on October 4. Area residents have been invited to attend an oil and gas seminar, sponsored by the Edson Chamber of Commerce with the co-operation of the Alberta Division Canadian Petroleum Association.

The seminar will be held in the Edson Legion Hall at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday, October 4th. Refreshments will be served following the meeting. Arranged to acquaint district residents with the petroleum industry's activity in the Edson area, the seminar will feature speakers representing various companies who will discuss pertinent topics and answer questions regarding them.

With the Churches

THROUGH THE Study Window

By Rev. C. C. Armstrong

Years ago Dr. Alexander, of the University of Alberta, when lecturing on Roman history, used to point out the change in the struggle between the patricians and the plebeians. At one time the major struggles were between the aristocrats and the commoners. Now the struggles are between the "haves" and the "have nots." This is true whether it is individuals or nations who find themselves in opposing camps.

Dr. O. A. Wrench of St Louis, Mo., director of evangelism for the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod gave some challenging facts, pointing out the special obligation that falls upon us who live in North America. We need to realize that as many of the things we take for granted as our rightful possessions should be viewed from a different perspective, that of the obligation to share. This is what he had to say:

"If the total population of the world could be compressed into a community of 1000 persons, the special obligation would be most apparent. From the contrast, Sixty persons would represent North America; 940 the rest of the world."

"The 60 would have half the total income of the community, the 940 would share the remainder. The 60 North Americans would have a life expectancy of 70 years; the rest, 40 years. The 60 would have 12 times as much electric power; 22 times as much coal; 21 times as much gasoline and 15 times more personal goods than all the rest. Also while 58 of the North Americans would claim to belong to a church, only half the community would have heard of Jesus Christ."

Dr. Alexander said the struggles are now between the "haves" and the "have nots." Dr. Wrench has stressed the attitude of sharing both of our possessions and our faith, and the obligation that is ours.

What would our common lot of Edson be like if only 28 of the families claimed to belong to a church, and if 200 families had never even heard of Jesus Christ. We need, on occasion, to see ourselves and our community in the perspective of the world situation. What better opportunity can we find to gain a new perspective than by sharing with Christians throughout the world in World Wide Communion Sunday, October 1st.

AS I SEE IT

Reverend E. HURD — Pastor

Several years ago an old man living in New Jersey discovered about $3,000 in Family Bible. The bank notes were scattered throughout the Book. In 1874 the aged man had died and one clause of her will was as follows:

"To my beloved nephew Steven Marsh, I will and bequeath my Bible and all it contains with the residue of my estate after my funeral expenses and just and lawful debts are paid."

The estate amounted to a few hundred dollars, which were soon spent and for about thirty five years his chief support had been a small pension from the government. He lived in poverty, and all the time within his reach there was the precious Bible containing thousands of dollars, sufficient for all his wants. He passed the Bible by. To His eyes rested upon it while parking his trunk, to move to his son, where he intended to spend his few remaining years, he discovered the unknown riches which were in his possession. What thoughts of regret must have come to his mind if he only had opened that Bible years ago, he then might have used the money to great advantage instead of it the treasure lie idle for thirty-five years. And he might have had it and enjoyed it all that time.

This is a sad story. But there is something infinitely sadder than the experience of this man it is the neglect of the Bible by God's people. Our God has given to His people a costly treasure in His own Word. In this Book of books the riches of the wisdom and knowledge the love and grace of God are made known. All the child of God needs spiritually is to be found on its pages; all wants are there supplied. And yet these riches put at our disposal by a loving Father are unknown and unused riches. Instead of being enjoyed and in using them multiplied, they are neglected.

Oh, the neglected Bible! May we arise and possess our possession

Something for all

By REV. V. B DOWDEN

This column is for the fisherman, the baseball player the golf fan the tennis fan all of whom, for one reason or another, find themselves incapable, due to their numerous activities, of ever happen[ing] God or hearing anything about Him on Sunday, that day of rest from work, that day of escape from church I am doubtful whether you will read this article, but I suppose one can always be optimistic.

Do you smoke? Do you drink? Do you dance? I do and somehow or other, these things in moderation don't seem particularly wrong to me. Do you hate people? Are you selfish? Are you impatient?

Are you envious, malicious, and jealous? I am, and these things do seem wrong to me. Our Lord was crucified for these reasons.

Therefore I cannot help but think that perhaps these things are wrong and they prevent me from being truly the good person that God intends me to be if I am going to be a Christian. I must learn to conquer all that destroys a holy relationship between man and man, and man and God.

Yes, do have another cigarette, now where was I? Oh yes! God is a God of love. He hates evil. Why then you might say, if He is all powerful doesn't He crush evil in the world? Well, God has made us free creatures, free to succumb to evil or to conquer it.

And believe me, to conquer evil is work! And who wants to work? We are called on by God to do our part, for we are fellow workers with Him in the struggle to overcome evil. Evil men murdered the Lord of Life, but God raised Him from the dead. All of which points to the fact that even Satan that instigator of all evil in the end does not triumph over the Creator of Heaven and earth.

When we struggle to fight evil, when we close our lips to gossip and slander, when we close our hearts to envy and malice, when we close our minds to Satan's fervent entry and open our beings to the love of God we have touched out and touched God.

Two more days to Sunday! Let's see now when I get up at noon I think I'll work in the garden, nothing else to do!

People make anniversaries

It was wonderful to watch the quiet delight in the eyes of the oldtimers at the huge banquet in their honor on Edson's 50th anniversary last Thursday evening. Reminiscing handshakes and waves of the hand-slow smiles of recognition as the faces known in earlier years came into focus from past association.

Having His Honor Dr. J. F. Page as the guest of honor was appropriate as our Lieutenant Governor is a long time Northern Albertan and his address was well received by old and not so old timers. Best wishes and congratulations for having arrived at our golden Jubilee were conveyed in messages from many more.

For some of our more elderly citizens it was a bit of a chore to get over to the school auditorium, but there were others who came from much further in response to the committee's invitation. From such places as Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Athabasca, Saskatchewan, Vancouver, Victoria, Penticton, Kaslo, white Rock and Washington State.

Lights burned brightly in the homes of long-time residents as they played host to many visitors and many sober talk stayed up long past their regular retiring hour. "It was worth it, they tell you enthusiastically, pushing back their shoulders to hide a weariness they don't wish to show.

Pioneer families with names that mean so much to Edsonites with lengthy local connections: Leyden, Judge, Jonnson, Moore, Shepherd, Gold, Herbut, Reid, Primer, Stevens, Sarsen, Sweetberg, Smallwerth, Wilson, Swanson, McQuarrie, Smith, Thompson, Hardacre, Jones, Southam, Bilton, Marshall, Whiteman, Ansell, Lemon, Rutger, Franklin, Madge and many, many, more.

Your reader-cameraman tried to get representative pictures of old timers as time did not permit getting all those present. Elsewhere in this issue will be found the pictures of those we got more or less clear shots of. The oldest timer present, Mr. Jack Smith, who came to the Wolf Creek district in 1907, escaped our lens. Mr Smith still runs the general store at Wolf Creek.

We would like to pay tribute to Hon. Chairman H. A. Smither and especially special chairman Mayor W. H. Brunelle and his committee who did such a splendid job of organizing the banquet and the other thought-ful arrangements that made the evening such a memorable one.

We hope that many of those present last Thursday will be spared to be with us again when we celebrate our sixtieth anniversary in ten years.

TOWN IS ALIVE

With the close of nominations for the two Council seats not being contested this year in returning Coun-cillor C. A. Mallon and Mr. H. Mills, incoming district Returning Officer Bertalik reports four nomination papers received from citizens willing to undertake the duties of Coun-cillor.

In an off municipality year this shows that our citi-zens are active and interested in how the affairs of their town are to be run. All too often local elections are allowed to go by default through lack of interest. This hasn't been the case in Edson in recent years.

It is a healthy thing and shows our town is alive

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

As a dog lover and dog own-er, we have been badgered by a dog catcher, who insists that we must keep our pet confined to our own premises or pay the price ($10 for his release).

Well now this has set me to thinking and I can't help but wonder why the Town Coun-cil wants the dogs confined to the owners premises.

What harm do they do when running at large? Whom do they annoy? Other people's dogs don't bother me, I'm a dog-gone the control repre-sents me and all the other citizens in our town, I don't want to see animals that are family pets chained and pen ned up and I venture the opinion that very few others in town do either

So—unless our Councillors and Dog Catcher, have valid reasons for their actions and are backed by the majority of the taxpayers, couldn't we please get rid of this one darn horn in our otherwise easy to live in town

To Mayor Bud Brunelle
Chamber of Commerce
Tri Service Rodeo Committee
and Citizens of the city of Edson:

We wish to thank you for your cordiality and warm friendliness extended to us as "Finalists of the Year" dur-ing your rodeo.

We shall always have a warm spot in our hearts for Edson, Alberta, and as far as we are concerned there will never be a rodeo like the one put on in Edson

We have been home since the 13th of August and have slipped back into the groove making our trip to Alaska and wonderful country seem like a dream.

We have many pictures to remember our trip by. There are some nice ones of the rodeo, the parade, and an es-pecially good one of his hon or the Mayor & Mrs. Brunelle and your self. If you plan your rodeo, please send us some of the posters and bro-chures and we will display them in an obvious place in our village.

Our neighbors who have just returned from their va-cation in the Edmonton, Jas per, Banff area tell us that this is the second year they have stopped for a meal in Edson at the restaurant & gas station, run by the man and wife who drives the ambu-lance for the city of Edson. We know the people were so nice to them.

The Editor
Dear Sir:

In this season of Thank-giving most Canadians can find something for which to be thankful.

For victims of muscular dystrophy, however, each year is worse than the last. As if they were under some evil spell, these persons find the substance of their leg and arm muscles slowly and mysteriously changing from muscle tissue into fat. Medical science is desperately try-ing to discover why such a thing should happen for the tragedy of MD is heightened by the fact that it mostly affects children.

Tax agreement may cause session

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — Members of the Legisla-ture may be called into a special session later this year unless a satisfactory change in federal government policy lets them off the hook. At the time of writing it appear-ed a session will be necessary this year to implement the new federal provincial tax agreement, which goes into effect at the start of the new year.

Premier Manning has been conferring with federal officials, hoping to sell them on the idea that Alberta can pass the neces-sary legislation during the regular session next year and make it retroactive to Jan. 1. Apparently Ottawa has been cool to this. If Ottawa won't change its stand the House will have to be called into session so the legisla-tion will be on the books when the new tax agreement goes into effect. So far as the agreement is concerned, it probably won't make any noticeable difference to the indi-vidual taxpayer.

Until now, Ottawa has collected all per sonal and corporation income taxes and paid grants to the provinces in lieu of them. Under the new agreement, Ottawa will re-linquish a portion of each tax. This means the provinces free to move in and collect their own income and corporation taxes. This is what Alberta will do in effect, but it won't mean any increase in income taxes because the province will levy only the same rates Ottawa does. And Ottawa will con-tinue to collect the taxes for the province, so Albertans will still only have to fill out one form. Furthermore, this will make it unnecessary for the province to duplicate Ottawa's tax collecting organization which the federal government has already established.

Two more counties will come into being next year, raising to 20 the number in Alberta. Cabinet orders in council were passed last week to establish the counties of Strathcona and Parkland.

Strathcona county will take in the east-ern Municipal District of Strathcona and the newly local School Division, both of which border Edmonton on the southeast. Paint-earth will be made up of the MD of Paint-earth and the Castor School Division.

Planners are good that more counties will be formed before too long. As a system of local government, it is catching on in a big way. And the provincial government makes no secret of the fact that it believes the county system is the best form of municipal government.

As the system works in Alberta, the elect-ed school board ceases to exist once a county goes into operation. Instead, a committee of the county council administers the school system. It means the elected councillors, who have to raise the money to operate schools, also have a say in the way it is spent. It eliminates the school requisition on council.

When the system was first introduced, there were howls of protest from many quarters — particularly from teachers and school trustees — who felt the school system would get the short end of the stick. But government officials say it hasn't worked out that way at all. In most cases, they say, it brought about another administration.

The people who live in counties obviously think they are all right. The County Act provides for a vote of ratepayers after four years to determine if they want to keep the system. So far, none of the plebiscites held have gone strongly in favor of the system.

LET'S HAVE A SALES TAX!

By TIMBER McCRACKEN

On September 1st, 1961 a Retail Sales Tax Act became effective in Ontario. Of course the cause was education. The government said so.

Ontario's cash was not a match for its many needs. The demand of rising pupil-hood and their parents' ever-rising aspira-tions for ever-more education called for more money than Ontario could raise. Ottawa was not about to make more money available to Ontario. Ontario must raise more money itself. The only way it could raise more money was to tax its people. The question was not whether to tax but how to tax. Ontario's government had to find a way to tax its people that would raise the money it needed for education.

Ontario's government had to find a way to tax its people that would raise the money it needed for education.

Tennis anyone?

A Short Snort by Timber McCracken

One of the revolting developments of our advanced technology is the exhorbitant cost of attracting ourselves and our offspring during our increasing leisure time. It is no longer possible to have fun without money. Time was when all you needed was a ball and a bat. Youth in the early 19th century had to be content with a hoop and stick. Even as late as the 1920's a good time could be had by all with a jug of home brew and a jalopy. Today, however, the sky is the limit. Golf, tennis, boating, skiing, sailing, hunting, fishing, flying, and even bowling have become the playthings of the rich. Only the poor are left to watch television.

Take tennis, for example. Not so many years ago, a tennis racket was a simple piece of wood with a few strings. Today it is a complex piece of machinery with enough gadgets to make a Cadillac look like a Model T. Tennis balls, which were once made of rubber and wool, now have pressurized centers. Tennis shoes, which were once sneakers, are now specially designed to give the wearer the feet of a mountain goat. Tennis clothes, which were once a pair of white flannel trousers and a sweater, are now a complex assortment of color-coordinated garments that would make Christian Dior look like a piker.

Even the game itself has undergone drastic changes. Originally, tennis was played on a grass court. Now it is played on clay, asphalt, composition, or on the ol' canvas mat. Scoring, which was once a simple matter of counting fifteens, has become so complex that even the players don't know what's going on. Tennis balls, which were once used only when warm enough to be soft enough to be hit, are now expected and given. Tennis shoes, which were once worn only by the fairer sex, are now worn by both sexes. Tennis clothes, which were once worn only by the fairer sex, are now worn by both sexes. Tennis balls, which were once worn only by the fairer sex, are now worn by both sexes

Panel discussion and speaker enliven H&S

By MRS. V. MARTIN

The first annual meeting of the Home and School Association held in the A. H. Dakin School was well attended. After the singing of "O Canada" Mr. V. Mcknight president of the Edson Home and School welcomed the audience and also the visitors Mr. D. L. Campbell Assistant Director of Vocational Training for Alberta Mrs. Stellmacher recreational director of Home and School and several visitors from the Seba Beach Home and School Association.

Mr. J. Brack on behalf of the mayor of Edson welcomed everybody especially the new teachers and the new parents to the town and also mentioned the fact that at present there are two vacancies for School District Trustees. At the end of nomination day only one nomination had been received Mr Brack felt that this was a shame and that the Home and School Association might be the proper body to see to it that interested nominees would be available for these important posts.

Mr A. Jardine superintendent of schools also welcomed the new teachers and hope that they as former teachers would enjoy their stay in Edson with the hospitable Edson people.

A letter from Mrs. Stellmacher expressing her good wishes for the work of the parent-teacher of the Home and School was read. She advised that the Home and School Association should endeavor to co-operate as much as possible with each other, with the confederation and on a provincial level. Only thus would they be effective.

Mrs. Mcknight talked of the forthcoming council meeting to be held in Jasper on October 14th and asked for volunteers to attend this meeting. Mrs. F. Mahon, D. Moir, and F. Martin expressed their willingness to go.

The treasurer's report was read the present balance being $44.21.

Mr. Neil Horn of the program committee introduced the panel speaker for the evening moderator, Mr. A. Jardine. Mr. D. L. Campbell assistant director of vocational training of the Province of Alberta, Mr. C. Mann president of the Seba Beach Home and School, Mr. J. Scott, Edson councilor and Mr. M. D. Meade, principal of the Edson High School.

Mr. Jardine said that we had to hear an expert of vocational training which is very much coming to the fore these days and invited Mr. Campbell to give an outline on the subject.

Mr. Campbell started his talk by wondering at himself as an expert of accepting the definition that an X was an unknown quantity whilst a sport was a drop under pressure. He continued by saying that Edson's anniversary year of Edson particularly was a good time to study the subject under question.

It is a time when people are inclined to look back on "the good old days" and a good opportunity to compare "then" with the "now". The last 50 years has shown a tremendous change in our physical living conditions. Fifty years ago to make a cup of tea involved a major effort (get the wood, split the kindling, light the fire, fetch the water) today the same task is effected by turning a tap and either plugging in the electric cord or turning on the gas. People have lived in this recent area from the time of horse power through to mechanization of most things.

Fifty years ago 20 per cent of all jobs were unskilled labour and jobs today only 20 per cent of jobs are open for unskilled labour and there was a continuous trend to a demand on the unskilled job field. The total number of jobs has increased. Nineteen per cent of these are for unskilled personnel, 34 per cent for white collar workers, 38 per cent for technical personnel and 23 per cent for professionals. In England the rate of skilled technicians to unskilled ones is seven to a certain to one for us in Canada in the same year the ratio was one to one. Why? A large reason for this is parental attitude which hovers between the two extremes of "Nothing but a university degree is good enough for my child" and "nothing is good enough." But Nothing is not good enough. The other reason is a lack of facilities. The training facilities for skilled technicians and tradesmen are limited in Alberta. There is an excellent institute for Technology in Calgary and one is to be built in Edmonton there are facilities for the training of X-ray technicians, lab technicians, nurses aids and also in the field of secretaries.

The trend now is to the erection of vocational high schools which would have an emphasis on vocational subjects and also a limited academic program. These schools are to be used mainly by the high school graduates but could also be attended by the unemployed the disabled and people having jobs who wished to upgrade their position.

Mr. Campbell then proceeded to give some details of the courses available at the Calgary Institute for Technology and the entrance requirements of the various courses. He stressed that in many courses, the entrance requirements were governed by the requirements of the industry in question and the abilities of the student to finish the course chosen. He closed his informative speech by saying that now was the age of opportunities and a big chance in the technical field. Mr. M.D. Meade then raised several points of interest. He stated that usually he is able to tell at the grade 9 level whether a child is able to matriculate or not.

A large percentage of children are not able to use both the academic teaching necessary for matriculation but on the other hand a large number of these same children also fall short when presented with a non-matriculated subject. Some of the entrance requirements for the technical institute were just as high as those required by university.

Mr. Meade presented the he admitted, cloudy view of the ability of the average job seeker today and educated term but not a proportionate increase of trainable people to step into these jobs.

I also asked Mr. Campbell whether we would have to continue to send our children to Edmonton or whether there is any chance of training them closer to home. Mr. G. Mann raised the same question.

How are we going to send 75 per cent of our children away to technical schools? Mr. Campbell in reply talked about the recent Federation Bill C-60 in which the federal government offers to pay 75 per cent of construction costs of vocational high schools, the provincial government will pay another 15 per cent and the municipality would be left with only 10 per cent to pay in order to receive those funds the restrictions would have to be finished by March 63.

Several places in Alberta have taken advantage of using these schools. Conditions to be fulfilled to receive these loans are a high school population of 1000 students, at least 4 vocational courses must be offered, the school must not be used for general educational purposes and a specified space per student must be available.

Mr. Campbell said that the erection of a technical school is very expensive. The present school in Edmonton by now costing 12 million dollars but it might be possible to add a wing to existing school facilities and offer increasing vocational subjects.

Mr. J. Scott urged the Home and School to investigate the possibilities of C-60. Questions were then raised from the floor. Mrs. McKnight thanked the panel for their efforts and also thanked Mr. Meade for writing and sending 600 invitations to the present meeting and Mr. Jardine and Binetic for their help in the publicity for the meeting.

Mr. Garber, who had recently been to Chicago, brought the meeting the good wishes of the Kratzmans family whom he had met in his stay in that city.

The meeting closed with the singing of the queen and refreshments were served. Mrs. M. Kerfyuruk were the attendance prizes.

THE LEADER HASN'T ALWAYS been called "The Edson Leader" as this picture of 1913 shot of one of the Leader buildings brought in by Vic Lundquist shows. During this period the Leader was formally known as "The Western Leader and Peace River News." The thing that strikes us about this picture is its clarity and experience of the sign painter's art on the signs. The word Western was later incorporated in other papers, but eventually the Edson Leader reverted to its present title.

GREEN ACRES
By R. C. LOWE
District Agricultural Chemic l Control of Weed Results

A brand new roofline, almost identical in appearance to that of the convertible is a striking style feature of the 1962 Pontiac - economy and Laurentian two-door hardtops. Pontiac features a new lighter weight automatic transmission with the optional Astro Flame 250 h.p. engine

A recent demonstration showed that chemicals can be completely eliminated with the proper application of herbicides and a cultivation program. Such plots showing the results of chemical weed control and the results of hand farming, the use of various kinds of commercial fertilizers and future crop requirements will be conducted by personnel and local farmers during a recent tour sponsored by the Lac St Anne Agricultural Service Board.

Alberta's Supervisor of soils and weed control, Gordon Hunter said in the tour reports that the application of 10 pounds of dalapon per acre of plots sprayed in the fall and bound to be completed with two cultivations at least 7 days apart, will control the grass weeds in the infested fields. This year the same field will probably require hoedikes of oats to the acre. Mr. Hunter says that results did not bear out the claims that while 6 ounces of MCPA had little effect on hemp nettle. It produced very effective job. Perhaps one of the most spectacular results of chemical weed control was the almost complete removal of sow thistle from another field of oats with 8 ounces of MCPA. Excellent thistle control was also obtained from using Trop con. Plus CHEMAGRO mentioned in bottles undisclosed rates. This chemical did not affect the barley or the wheat.

Mr. Hunter of this tour also reported results of planting and the results of brush sprays. Chemical brush sprayings controls using approximately 1 gallon of 2,4D brush killer to 40 large volumes of water has now become part of the brush removal program at the Lac St Anne Service Board.

Many settlers boards are holding similar tours in an endeavour to see first hand the weed problems which confront the farmer and to help find a solution. Weed control time

A tree grows in Alberta every 5 secs

And time for a short count around and reach 30 year about. Pine, four, three, two, one. Add one tall tree

Yes sir, a tree grows in Alberta every five seconds That's a fact A fully mature and ready to cut tree is added to Alberta's great forest resources twelve times every minute the warmer months of each year. Just allowing for an period but to keep it moderate, a balanced diet of fresh air, pure water, plenty of sunshine, and perhaps a dab and paper from time to time, these millions of trees have been and always will be between them to add to the forest resources of one nature and man and not without an average of lucky, reducing the loss

But all the trees, every where in Alberta's rich forest lands are adding a bit to the wonders every second day.

That twelve times a minute increase is based on the normal growth of both soft and hard woods in the province. Not every tree grows at the same rate, but the average is established and known.

Of course every tree that is added to Alberta's forest resources twelve times every minute is not a commercial tree. Many of the trees are of species that have little or no commercial value. But they are there and they are growing.

Perhaps one of the most important commercial species is the lodgepole pine. This species is found in many areas of the province and is the first tree to establish itself on burned-over areas. Lodgepole pine is also the most important species in the pulp and paper industry. Other species of commercial importance are white spruce, black spruce, jack pine, balsam poplar, aspen poplar, balsam fir and tamarack.

Alberta's forests are a renewable resource. Through careful management plans for cutting and reforestation, Alberta's forests will be there for generations to come.

Alberta's Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. Lucien Maynard, has said that the province's forests are a crop to be harvested, not a mine to be worked out. Forests are a crop that can be harvested year after year, if cutting is done on a sustained yield basis.

Mr. Maynard has also said that the province's forests are a crop that can be harvested year after year, if cutting is done on a sustained yield basis.

speaker and the Dept. of Land and Forests head in the 1:10 delegates at a dinner at the Alberta Forest Service Ranger School Friday evening.

Expressing complete confidence in the democratic system and its future Mr. Willmore said that it was the responsibility of groups such as the CIF and leaders in industry, to meet the challenge.

He commended foresters for the part they had played thus far and pointed out that they had led the way in helping to change the old concept of "cut and run" prevalent in the early days, to one of proper utilization of forest resources.

In Alberta the entire forest area was under management according to the sustained yield concept, he said.

You are in danger unless

Early this year, a man we'll call Tom Willis and his wife drove from a side street into a thoroughfare without stopping. An oncoming car plowed into the front side of the Willis car, tearing it around the intersection. Mr. Willis was speared by the steering wheel but survived.

Mrs. Willis flew into the windshield, then out the door and against the pavement where she skidded several feet. The mutilation of this woman from being thrown out of the car was the most ... I've ever seen," wrote the investigating policeman. At the bottom of the report he noted briefly: "Would have lasted had she worn a seat belt."

During the last holiday, police from all over the country estimated nearly half of the traffic accident victims would have survived if they had been wearing seat belts. Thus, the evidence in favor of seat belts has become so overwhelming that a person who doesn't wear one is unnecessarily risking his life.

A conservative estimate by safety officials is that you are twice as likely to survive a crash if you wear belts. But Cornell University Crash Injury Researchers have come up with even more impressive odds. Belts increase your chances of surviving a crash by eight times. Or they concluded from a survey comparing fates of persons who wore and did not wear belts.

Here's what they say:

As the use of seat belts increases, so do testimonials from persons indebted to belts. Typical are those reported to the Indiana State Police:

"My Thunderbird rolled over and, shielded on its top by less than 40 inches high. Sustained slight scalp wound, passenger only bruised hand.

"We hit a railroad signal head on. Belt kept me in seat. Passenger would have gone out the right door which opened. Neither of us had single injury."

"Car struck large steel post, tearing out all of left side of car. Continued out of control Went through fence and struck a brick house. No injury, a red ... arm from broken glass and slight bump on my head. Belt kept me from being thrown out and saved my life. Best $4.00 I ever spent."

The most dramatic case was that of a salesman returning from Boston Harbor, Michigan, to South Bend, Indiana via U.S. 31 early one morning. "I was traveling about 70 to 75 mph. Approximately 3 and one half miles north of Niles, Michigan, I fell asleep at the wheel. I went off the road for about 80 feet, down an eight foot embankment, rolled over three times and while the car was upside down sheared off a telephone pole. Needless to say, the reason I'm able to write you the lines is that I was wearing a seat belt.

Unfortunately among the three happier stories, each one tragic were in which the victim had twits in the car but did not have them fastened. Such was the case of a woman in California whose car was rammed from behind and thrown up over the curb. She flew out the door and was run over by a bus.

In view of such evidence that proves shoulder eyes day, how can anyone fail to equip his car with seat belts? Why is the public seemingly apathetic vainly about 4 per cent have belts.?

Objections to seat belts. Contrary to an old fashioned belief, you're safer remaining in a car than be thrown out. According to ANOTHER COLUMN IS ADDED to the Rundumins and Repair dragline which is being assembled for Calgary Power Ltd. near its Wabamun Thermal Plant west of Edmonton. The giant machine, the base electrical load for a transmission and distribution system covering 75,000 square miles of Alberta. Next year, this electrically driven machine will be stripping overburden from the company's coal reserves nearby, exposing coal which will provide fuel for the third steam generator currently being added to the Wabamun Plant. When completed, the dragline will have a total weight of 1,700 tons, including ballast boom and bucket. The top of the machine at its present stage, is 70 feet above the ground. The dragline's structural steel boom when added, will extend beyond the operating cab almost four times the distance covered by the boom of a standard 60 foot crane such as the machine seen operating to the right of the dragline. Its 33 cu yd bucket will remove 50 tons of material on a single load at a working radius of 215 foot. The walking shoes on which the dragline will move will measure 50 feet on length. These shoes will be motivated by cams, one of which can be seen in the photo just behind and below the operating cab. Internal machinery is to be protected by two large square air conditioning units, already installed on each side of the dragline. It is expected that the huge machine will be completed and ready to move from its erection site this November. Some idea of the size of the dragline can be gained by comparing it with the figures standing below the operating cab to the left of the photo.

Chamber sponsoring political forum

As has been the practice in the past years the Edson Chamber of Commerce are once again sponsoring a political forum to give interested members of the community the opportunity to meet and hear their candidates in the forthcoming election

The forum will take place in the Legion hall on Tuesday, October 10 at 8:00.

President Paul Jacobs of the Chamber will introduce the four candidates who are contesting the two seats coming vacant this year. The candidates are M. A. "Slim" Collin, J. E. "Stan" Gelinier, A. Goldstick, and M. D. Meade.

This is an opportunity that all thinking citizens of Edson should take advantage of to hear the views and plans of these men, who have offered their ability and time to serve for our town.

It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of ratepayers for it is the annual chance to see that our good local government continues.

Election day has been set for Wednesday, Oct 18, at the Civic Centre from ten o'clock in the forenoon until 8 p.m. An advance poll will also be held for those who will be absent election day Thursday and Friday, Oct 12 and 13, from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

No election will be necessary for the two trustee positions on the local Edson school district board. Returning officer Peter Serdiuk has declared T. A. McIlreer elected by acclamation and J. T. McNamara re-elected by acclamation.

The two council seats being contested are those held by Councillors L. A. Mahon and W. R. Mills who have decided not to stand for re-election this year.

JACK SHIPTISKI

Former Liberal president to contest nomination

It has been finally confirmed, that Mr. Jack Shiptiski of Rochfort Bridge will contest the Liberal Party nomination at the fall convention to be held later this fall.

Jack Shiptiski was born at Portage la Prairie, Manitoba in 1908. He lived in Saskatchewan for a number of years and moved to Alberta in 1930. He is highly respected as an honest and capable man by all who know him.

He has been an elevator agent, for twenty years and is familiar with the problems facing the farmers today. He understands the framework of the buying and selling systems under which the farmer works. He has definite and good plans which, if implemented, will facilitate the handling and marketing of grain and produce.

Jack Shiptiski served as secretary of the Jasper Edson Liberal Association from 1953 to 1956. He gained a reputation as a man who gets things done. He was elected as president of the Jasper-Edson Liberal Association in 1957. During his term in office, as president, he was impressed with the sincerity of the party workers.

He condones a stop to the rising cost of living and a more serious view of the findings of the royal commission. Many people who encouraged him to run for office are impressed with his objectives concerning unemployment and unemployment insurance. His completely new approach to this problem is of utmost importance to every working man and his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shiptiski have three children who have gone to university and are currently working in their respective professions.

Edson young fellows see NHL stars

The hockey game between Edmonton Flyers and Toronto Maple Leafs was watched by fifty boys from the Edson Elementary Schools on Friday of last week. From all reports the boys enjoyed themselves and were still talking about the game several days later.

The boys were taken to Edmonton by H. Mahon, N. Johnston, A. Goldstick, J. Hook, J. Allan P. Giornette, J. Williams, V. Chersa and N. Horne.

Through this paper we wish to thank the people who took the responsibility of driving the boys in the city and back and to R. Mahon for making arrangements for the tickets.

CAST OF 60 IN EDSON MUSICAL PAGEANT PROJECT

A few short months ago the Edson 50th Anniversary Committee agreed to the production of a pageant, sometimes referred to as the Edson story, in commemoration of the town's 50th birthday.

Today Edson no longer has a simple pageant but a new Canadian musical by Ringwood and Lamberteau.

Mrs. Gwen Pharis Ringwood, a former Albertan residing in Williams Lake, B.C. has written a number of plays and short stories. Her story "Voyager Brother" was given in the form of a series play on CBC Radio.

Based on historical material gathered by Mrs. Marg Ahlf, Ringwood and Lamberteau came up with a story depicting the spirit of the frontier community in the days of 1909 to 1918. In the space of those few years, what with land sale booms, the construction of the railway and the opening of the Grande Prairie Trail, Edson became a town that made the West sit up and take notice. During this time Edson had its stories of perseverance and courage of happiness and sadness and too always a bit spicy as well as many downright funny. These are brought to life in the music, song and drama of "Look Behind You, Neighbour."

In order to produce a show of this calibre it was necessary to advertise through press and radio, the need for singers actors painters directors, ushers musicians and many others.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings the mixed chorus practices under the direction of Mrs. Vera MacLean with Miss F. Cesarelli at the piano. At the same time in another part of the town dramatic director, Mrs. A. Jardine rehearses two more groups an evening in spoken parts. Since this is a musical break break into song from time to time. Mrs. P. [illegible] has a century ago.

Edson is there to play the piano accompaniment.

After school the children taking part practice their songs under the able direction of Mrs. H. Moore.

The cast of 60 and the many others involved in production are giving hours of time and energy in order to have "Look Behind You Neighbour" ready for stage on November 2, 3 and 4.

The show is full of surprises full of fun full of music and lyrics especially written for Edson and district.

Here is our chance to see Edson as the pioneer might have seen it a century ago.

Kinsmen hold zone meeting

Edson Kinsmen headed by local club President John Switzer attended a zone meeting at the Athabasca Hotel Jasper on Sunday afternoon.

Chaired by Deputy Governor Pat Hungenberg of Hinton, the meeting was also attended by Governor Bob Georgo of Red Deer. Bob is a charter member of the Edson Kin Club and was back on home grounds.

Kinsmen also attended from the Drumheller and Edmonton clubs as well as from the host club at Jasper. Problems affecting the organization of the changed boundaries which had eliminated the city Kinsmen from this zone were discussed.

Only club in this zone not represented was the one at Mayerthorpe.

"Jenebelle" an imitation skeleton was exhibited and this new trophy will spark interclub competition as a challenger naming the team open to decide possession of the relic bush.

WHERE'S YOUR BOY TONIGHT

Local Vandalism causing dangerous conditions

By YOUR CALGARY POWER MAN

During the last couple of weeks large numbers of street lights have been broken by boys who seem to make it a point to break as many as they can each night they are walking.

Three of the five Mercury Vapor lights recently installed at Parkland Lodge were broken.

Not only do these fixtures cost a lot of money but the act creates hazardous conditions for the older citizens who have to use the sidewalks.

We are appealing to the parents who are also receiving benefit from having their streets lit on dark nights, to help us keep them bright.

Ask yourselves, "Do my boys have an air rifle and do they use lights for targets? What are they doing when they aren't home?"

Not only is there possibility of having to pay damages but you may be the one who falls down because of no lighting, or damage may be done to your property.

We also request that those people who are living near street lights to watch them closely and notify your power company or the Town Police when you are your light is not being broken.

A bright town is a SAFE town. Thank you.

Edson Art Club begins season

The Edson Art Club is a boat to begin a third season of activity under the direction of the University of Alberta Extension Department.

Once a month the group will receive instruction from Mr. Henry Charles, who will conduct lectures with the faculty of Education in Art this summer and weekly the group will meet when "Home work" will be undertaken as set down in the first year curriculum for our Community Art Classes.

Those who would like to learn to draw and paint as well as advanced Art Students are urged to attend a meeting in the Craft Centre Wednesday, Sept 11 at 8p.m. This is an organizational meeting only. Subjects to be discussed Wednesday evening include curriculum fees, materials required and in general plans for the remainder season of the Edson Art Club. A special invitation is extended to beginners and to newcomers to Edson residents interested in this most rewarding leisure time activity.

Weekend accident

Early Sunday morning 15 miles east of Edson two local men, Alder Gustafson and Mike Ameero left the road while driving in Mr. Ameero's convertible. They were rushed to St. John Hospital and later removed to Edmonton hospitals.

East District Doin's

By FERN ICE

Pat Beasley and Mrs. Harold Thomas drove to the city Friday afternoon to meet the latest addition to the Beasley family, a daughter who arrived at the Royal Alex Friday, Sept. 29. Big sister Patricia has been a guest at the home of Mr and Mrs. Marlin Jackson during her mother's absence.

Robert Hill, accompanied by a fellow member of the RCAF, paid a brief call to the district last week. Stationed in Edmonton for a short time, Robert was allowed a few hours to visit with his sister Mr. Ken Thomas and Mrs. Alta Forbes.

The flu germ has been lazing them low, temporarily that is the past couple of weeks. Severe headaches muscular pain and chest cold prominent of the old grippe bear grandmothers, declared with turpentine and goose grease, with the mustard plaster thrown in for good measure.

Allen Forbes spent some time confined to bed with a severe case of pleurisy.

Snow Wednesday night that continued through Thursday halted threshing operations on several farms. Temporarily we hope.

Recently had our first look at the interior of the newly remodelled Commodore Hotel. Couldn't find a familiar landmark to guide us to our favorite coffee counter, so followed the crowd and discovered the change was well worth the effort. Very modernized. We like it.

Overheard a couple of young fellows discussing the impossible task of rounding up a few head of wandering critters that apparently broke out of confinement and headed for the tall timber, or was it a deep dark swamp? Cowboys there's your chance to get some real live action, earn a few bucks and practice up for next year's rodeo.

A WI sponsored dance Fri day night at Carrot Creek was a success socially and financially. O'Tremba's orch extra provided the toe tapping music for an attendance that reports a good time.

It's a hard life, in a matter of minutes your correspondent caught had columbus for relaying to us into detail on one special news item, then was warned to keep a close lury but out of the fish fools. Tsk, tsk, you just can't win.

Don't forget the October 13 shindig scheduled for Carrot Creek with the ever popular O'Tremba orchestra in attendance Friday, Oct 13. Under that should be easily remembered, but don't let it throw you, superstition went out with hoop skirts.

Sunday callers at the Jerome included Charles Irwin Dear Patton Allen Forbes Mr and Mrs. H Heintz and family.

"Passed to you Joe"

By JACK CRAIG

The other day Joe came in to my office to check on some information. I had given him I was doing some heavy thinking about the safety theme for the month, Safe Driving, and in no time at all the conversation had progressed from seat belts for automobiles.

Joe took a look at some of the literature on seat belts "Advertising," he said, "another gimmick to boost sales, and away he went, still unconvinced of the necessity for this form of protection against injury and death on the highways. It isn't unreasonable for Joe to think along these lines. Most of the articles that we have read on the subject are put out by manufacturers and distributors of the belts. A few technical publications have had their say at us, but by and large the great er volume of publicity has been done by the makers and sellers.

I hope Joe comes around again soon. Through the kind services of my favorite medium I have an article on seat belts, and the necessity there of, in a journal which is the mouthpiece of our nation's doctors and surgeons. I'm sure it will make interesting reading for my skeptical friend. Much of it is data of a technical nature.— "One gravitational unit equals one pound of force divided by one pound of mass—" phrases like "magnitude of decelerations." "shiplash injuries to the cervical spine" etc., but Joe is a technical man anyway and he'll lap it up.

My wish is that he will read through to the end, because in the last few lines is the most important statement of all, viz "However, lives will not be saved - unless large numbers of the profession, and the public at large, accept these devices as necessary and wear them at all times."

Joe's chair is waiting. It should be an interesting session.

HATTONFORD

Mrs H Lawton has been a patient in the University Hospital Edmonton for the past ten days. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Rain, turning to snow on Wednesday night of last week certainly stopped all threshing and combining but with any breaks at all most harvesting operations will soon be completed.

Congratulations to Mr. Jeanette McPhee and Mr Leonard Rogers also to Miss Margaret Rogers and Mr Rod Wiseman and their recent engagements.

Mrs G Lees and Mr and Mrs R. Ralston of Edson visited with Mr and Mrs R Wiseman last Friday evening. Mrs. Ralston and Mrs. Lees also attended the shower for Mrs Currie at the home of Mrs O Ford.

Mr P Reschuik narrowly escaped serious injury last Monday, when the shoulder of the road on which he was sitting in his parked truck to allow a load of pulp to pass gave way, causing the truck to roll down into the ditch and come to a stop against a tree. Mr Reschuik was none the worse for his experience, but severe damage was done to his truck.

On Friday evening, Sept. 29 her 20, Mrs O Ford on behalf of the local WI, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. W. Currie. About 30 guests were present and all enjoyed a nice social evening before the gifts were presented to Mrs. Currie by her little niece Patsy Ferrier. Mrs Currie graciously thanked everyone for their lovely gifts. The serving of a delicious lunch brought the pleasant evening to a close.

WHAT NO MOTHER?

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Douglas Fisher, CCF Member of Parliament for Port Arthur, says that Canada has no mother.

Unlike our Australian and New Zealand friends, we can't accept this business of a mother country," he told the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference in London

No mother country" Douggie is a big boy now, and it's time that someone told him the facts of life.

Canada didn't just grow up from the ground, or condense in a cloud of vapor. This country was born, and it has a strong family resemblance to its Mother-Land

Canada inherited its Parliament from Britain. Canada inherited the flexible and finely balanced system of responsible democracy which grew from 1,000 years of struggle and compromise between king and people.

What about the vital principles of common law that guide our judges and legislators? Did we invent them in Canada? Did we invent safeguards against false imprisonment that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty?

Hardly We inherited these things from Britain.

If it were not for the political organization once known as the British Empire which reached across the sea for gold and glory Canada wouldn't be here. At least, it would be a different Canada altogether.

English-men, Scots, Irishmen and Welshmen, mostly English-speaking men, beat the French and then took them into partnership.

Britain is the Motherland, and if Douggie Fisher doesn't accept that fact, there is something wrong with his head The family inheritance of parliamentary democracy is worth treasuring. We should remember where it came from

Your mother doesn't lose her status just because you leave home Even if you don't love your mother, you can't wash her out of existence

Personally I have an affection for Britain. I love that green smoky island My parents came from there, and I lived there briefly, long ago. Mr. Fisher — and others like him — don't share that feeling. Why should they? But if he thinks he is speaking for me, he has made a mistake

Of course Canada has run its own house for a long time, and old Mother Britain has lost much of her strength

Douggie Fisher makes me think of a big lad about 40 years old, who pays a visit to his 80-year-old mother and flies into a temper tantrum about whether or not he is going to eat up his nice porridge

Prisoners pile bush in Whitecourt area

Prisoners from two provincial jails battled forest fires yesterday in the attorney general's department, said Alberta government officials.

The bush camp program is another new in Alberta and expected for a trial camp at Calgary.

Most of the camps consist of tents on wooden platforms scattered throughout the province. However, one camp has no tents this spring were the bile trailers and is expected first put into operation to operate throughout the province. M. A. Letersky, chairman of the Alberta Corrections Board, said.

The prisoners work on clearing areas, cleaning up deadwood and clearing forestry roads.

There was only one escape At a camp outside Calgary, a prisoner was noticed missing at night The next morning he returned after spending a few hours celebrating in the city He was returned to jail.

Each of the camps is staffed by three guards, two of whom are on duty at all times The guards are unarmed as they are in the jails.

CAPITOL REPORT

Pearson still opposes nuclear warheads

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — Officially, it was a campaign trip But national Liberal leader Lester Pearson made all the moves and gestures of a campaigning politician during his swing through Alberta last week He laid no opportunity to blast the reigning Progressive Conservative party. The future, he said, are campaigning instead of governing.

Some time ago, he complained, the Soviet Union exploded a vast bomb and the Conservative government committed Canada to the fence forces to the use of weapons which require nuclear warheads for maximum effectiveness. But the government still hasn't told Canadians whether Canada will in fact get the atomic muscles for its armed services. Mr. Pearson reiterated the Liberal contention that Canada should stay out of the nuclear club.

Fittingly, the national leader's tour of Alberta included a visit to the only power in the province that can be called a Liberal stronghold. That place, of course, is Lac La Biche, which elected Mike Maccagio, the only federal member of the Alberta Legislature At Lac La Biche, Mr. Pearson was the main speaker at a reception called to nominate a Liberal candidate for Athabasca riding in the next federal election.

Jules Van Brabant, the mayor of St. Paul, Alberta, got the nod from the 300-odd delegates He was well over Richard Hall of Athabasca, former Liberal MLA. It was a good day for Mr. Van Brabant He also was re-elected mayor of St Paul by acclamation too

On the same day, incidentally, Mike Maccagio was also re-elected mayor of Lac La Biche by acclamation. It came to think of it, is Lac La Biche really a Liberal stronghold?

Physical Education in your high school

By MR. FRANK KIYOOKA

EDITOR'S NOTE—

For the first time the Hinton Jr. and Sr. high school is entering a comprehensive physical education program in the elementary grades 1 to 12. What type of programs is being offered? What are the aims of such a program and how will it affect the students, parents and the community as a whole? These are questions that should be answered and understood in order to appraise and appreciate the values of a subject of this nature.

Many parents reading this article will possibly recall their school days and the PT or Physical Training classes they have experienced — dark, ill-equipped rooms; nothing ever learned. Perhaps the boredom of doing dull, meaningless exercises turned the child's love of activity into a keen dislike and even a hate.

For many, PT classes were periods when weather permitted, and when an old, damaged softball was battled about.

The teacher of physical education was not specially trained. The teacher usually taught those things he knew best, such as ice hockey or baseball. Today specialized teachers of physical education are given a thorough background of educational training. It is as important to have a good programs of PT to have a well qualified teacher as it is to have a qualified man to repair one's car

At the university a student takes three years of physical education training to receive a BPE. During those three years the student learns subjects as varied as anatomy and philosophy

In order to be qualified to instruct in a high school the student must take an additional year of training in the Faculty of Education, thus the graduate specialist is not only prepared to teach skills but is given a philosophy and understanding of "how and why." Perhaps more important than just being able to teach a skill such as basketball the teacher has the proper philosophical and scientific principles to guide and direct the children under his or her care.

What exactly are the objectives of a physical education program? According to W. M. Ralph Laporte a noted authority in education five general objectives are,

1 Contribution to the Physical and organic growth and the development of the child

2 Contribution to the social development of the child as a result of stimulating exercises physically and mentally

3 Contributions to the development of safety skills that increase the child's capacity for protection in emergencies both in handling himself and assisting others.

5 Contribution to the development of recreational skills that may be used as hobbies for leisure time hours both during and after school

It's evident that the objectives of a physical education program go a great deal deeper than just merely building and teaching of games. What should be understood by the parents is that an exercise is always a means to an end — and not an end in itself. Basketball, swimming et al are the means. Wholesome character and soundness of mind and body are the ends The job of the physical educator in schools of today is not merely to build muscles or to teach basketball — but to educate individuals with the same aims, high ideals and objectives as any other phase of education.

In order for the parents to understand what the physical education program is directed toward — it is hoped that the brief explanation just given will assist them to see what is behind the program that their sons or daughters may be participating in

Want a week or full little vacation before the CFL season's end? Then you won't have to take any time from work

Here's how Get in touch with the friends you've been wanting to visit — choose one and plan a football weekend You don't have to be a big alumna or a rousing quarterback to enjoy it When you're part of football crowd and the game is worth seeing

First, you or your friends reserve rooms for head quarters at a hotel or motel near the game Then arrange to meet before the game for a get-together and hearty lunch Visit with your friends through the gam then for dinner and the entertaining The next day, after this holiday away from home you can all start back

Plan your trip for leisure both ways Pick a game (or games) that you can get to with a reasonable drive, check a road map and note a few spots you've never seen Then, going to the game and coming home the next day, get off the main road long enough to see them.

Call or write your friends now and arrange your football weekend and reunion You'll wonder why you had n't done it sooner

Several of the guests made good use of the nice weather to take trips to visit friends and relatives or just to travel with the prize for distance going to the Mattiesdicks' who made it to the Maritimes and the Eastern States

On the other hand it was a pleasure to welcome visitors to the Lodge from several Canadian provinces from New York and California and even from as far away as Australia It would seem that our new homes have created a very wide-spread interest — of those visitors were enthusiastic remarks

The odd taste of colder weather cords makes a comfortable place here for a drive and seven new guests and returnees have moved in since the First of September with several more having made their decision to do the same thing in the coming month

Various groups around town are getting organized and we can look forward to a revival of those interesting events of films, sing songs and other entertainment we so much enjoyed last winter And with the family so much larger and more competitive in all games what a winter this should be

Martha Rebec in her book "The Healing Weeds" tells us that for many years she was an invalid, confined to her home. Then there came an opportunity to spend many months out in the open, at a primitive camp, under the care of an experienced guide.

At first she had to remain very close to camp, but with returning strength, she ruined the desire to wander far there and farther afield. But she did become lost in the dense forest.

We love the guide, told her what to do if lost in the woods. First, she was to sit down. After she sat, and while sitting, she was to try to puzzle out where she was. If she stood up, and wandered around while trying to find out where she was, she would only get confused.

Surely this contact is good for others. The Bible reminds us, time and again, of the value of a time to "get our bearings." "Trust in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him," is a synonym; word sure, meant to save us from a feverish, frightened and confused effort it proclaims also that God comes to seeking for us, and is the Saviour who comes to our rescue.

But a person who is lost must come to a decision if there are no guiding landmarks and if no map or a available, he must stop where he is. However, if there are landmarks, trails or streams he may follow these. The problem is difficult still also carry a map and compass.

A traveller on the Alaska Highway went into the woods to do some fishing. He tried to return by a different route, and got lost. For two months he wandered, following a stream, but totally unaware that the stream would meander for nearly a hundred miles before joining a larger river. Eventually he found his way out, half-starved from a diet of nothing but berries, and ruefully had to confess "I had no map."

People who try to go through life without prayer, without the guidance of God, and without the "map" of the Bible will inevitably become lost. Those who do without these things are often guided by the landmarks provided by Christians and the Christian church.

The city set on a hill can be seen both by those without a map and those who have one. The light shining in the darkness shines for all whether they are believers or unbelievers.

However, it will be seen most clearly and most steadily by the one who has listened to the word "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near."

In John 3 1-8 We read: There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee Ye must be born again.

8 The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but thou canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

The non-Christian might argue: "If God is so great and good, how can he send anyone to hell?"

You can be sure that God doesn't send anyone to hell! He is deeply grieved when anyone fails to accept his salvation. God even gave his only Son so that all who believe in Him can be saved. He intends that all should believe and none should perish. He wants all to spend eternity in fellowship with Him. A person's own refusal of Christ is what keeps him separated from God.

Nicodemus was a good man who was respected in his community. Yet Christ made it plain to him that he could not enter the kingdom of God until he became right with God through belief in his Son Christ. In this same message today for all good and respectable men and women who believe that their own acts of right living will save them. Everyone who needs to and wants to be saved can be saved through faith in Christ.

And if you are a Christian this Thanksgiving day you will no doubt find your way to your local church and there by your actions, that you are really thankful for your salvation. This was the example set by Christ. Are you a follower of His?????

Ugh!... Castor oil! What a horrible taste! When I was a youngster I was allowed to have an orange with my prescribed doses of castor oil, and will you believe it when I say that today, everytime I think on an orange I can taste that awful obnoxious castor oil. You maybe say it is all in the head, but there it is! I can therefore sympathize with people who say that childhood practices have still way on into adulthood, and can effect upon them. Now, to be relatively short-life-time, I have heard many people say 'Oh' Church work, yes I went to Church when I was young; three times a Sunday, and really, don't you think that was enough Church to last me the rest of my life.' As I say, I can quite easily feel sorry for this person; poor soul! You see, to say now that we have to build up a certain number of times of Church attendance and then suppose that that's IT, to have a completely false view of what the Christian's duty is it might be a nice, innocent way of looking at things and as long as one is a child but hardly the view of the mature Christian.

I know people who go to Church twice a year Christmas and Easter! Perhaps Anglicans in particular are prone to this, awful condemnation. These half-hearted people have an immature view of who God is, what the Church is, and what they are.

God is the Creator, Redeemer, and Sustainer of all life; the Church is the Body in which we are nourished and strengthened in the Christian life, we are the children of God. You will see that every thing we do centers around knowing who and what we are. Otherwise life is mean aimless and we go around in circles, not really accomplishing anything. You are a child of God and everything which you do should be wrapped in love certain realization. I AM A CHRISTIAN, and I am called upon TO Be ! AS ONE. Gosh! this orange tastes good the castor oil taste seems to have disappeared

The Age Aberhart seen through eyes of oldtimer

A CBC broadcast about the late Hon William Aberhart has been prepared by Mrs. Marjorie McEnaney and has been scheduled on CBC Trans Canada Network for Wednesday, Oct 4 and will be heard in Alberta at 8.30 p.m.

Mrs McEnaney interviewed an old timer H. E. Nicholls who arrived in Edmonton from England in the spring of 1907. This young man, fresh from the Bankers' Branch of the Money Order Department in the British Civil Services, homesteaded at Clyde, 30 miles north of Edmonton.

He tells of the impact made on the agricultural population of Alberta by Mr. Aberhart and Mr. Manning at the time of the Great Depression in 1933, when farmers actually owned money to the Hudson's Company on cattle shipped from the Peace River, because the selling prices of the cattle were not sufficient to cover the freight charges. Young pigs were butchered because it was uneconomic to raise them even at the grain prices then prevailing—such as, barley $8 low-grade wheat 10c, and No 2 wheat 20c per bushel at the local shipping point.

In the country, the farmers were desperate in the towns long lines of unemployed waited at soup kitchens. The U.F.A. government seemed to be paralyzed. Aberhart alone had a message of hope, and promised to do something about it.

Mr. Nichols, who had always been interested in the study of economic and financial matters; and with exceptional opportunities to do so because of his employment, made a study of Major Douglas' writings commencing with "Economic Democracy" in 1920, and "Credit Power and Democracy" a few years later.

Convinced that Mr. Aberhart would supply the leadership which up till then had been lacking, he co-operated with other like-minded members in the U.F.A. and a strong current of money reformers grew up within that organization, and when Mr. Aberhart decided to take political action, they gave him their full support.

Aberhart's statement, that a scientific distribution of more purchasing power would solve the crippling depression, struck a responsive chord. The farmers knew there was no shortage of goods, nor shortage of crops; the only thing short was money, and they rallied mightily to Mr. Aberhart's support, in spite of the official opposition of the U.F.A.

CALGARY POWER LTD.
SERVING THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA

What a dark, lonely place the average farm used to be! The glow from an oil lamp might be seen shining faintly from the window of a farm home . . . otherwise all was in darkness. Do you remember the messy job it was to wash lamp chimneys and to fill the lamps with coal oil, or having to pump a gas lamp, only to have a moth fly into the mantle and you had to start again?

Today, electric lights in barns, farm homes and yards . . . street lighting in even the smallest towns are true beacons of progress. Today, the motive power for the electrical servants you take for granted is brought to you at surprisingly low cost by Calgary Power. ELECTRICITY is now lighting your way to better, more comfortable living indoors and out.

Junior Forest Warden Supt. now at Hinton

"A forestry man through and through," might be the words used to describe Mr Terry Whitely. Mr Whitely, who came to Hinton with his family in August, is the province's first Provincial Supervisor of Junior Forest Wardens.

Up until now the three Junior Forest Wardens groups in Alberta have had sponsoring organizations. In Hinton and Edson they are sponsored by the Optimist Clubs with the club helping the boys to defray expenses and helping to give the adult guidance and supervision needed.

Recently the provincial government decided that the groups, and others which will eventually be organized in various forested parts of the province, should have help and instruction from the Department of Lands and Forests.

Mr Whitely's job will be to help in setting up these groups, and to give whatever assistance he can at all times. Hinton was chosen as his headquarters because the only Forestry Training School in Alberta is located here.

A native of England, Mr Whitely has done forestry research work in Great Britain before coming to Canada. He wasn't long getting in to the Alberta Forest Service and worked in Edmonton for a time before going to the South area.

He can't talk enough about the need to teach youngsters how to get the most out of nature and the natural forests and his quietly persuasive voice and authoritative movements will certainly go far making him a friend of all the boys he will be working with.

He feels that boys, particularly in towns or cities, miss much of the joys of growing up with a feel of nature and responsibility for the forests that have been entrusted to them.

Mr Whitely said the aim of the Forest Service is to help clubs to get started all over the province with as few as six boys needed to form a club. Local sponsorship is needed from the boys parents and other interested adults to form a local council who will guide and manage the affairs of each club.

Adult supervisors can be elected from the council who will actually supervise the club's weekly meetings and organize and carry out the training of the boys.

The idea behind the movement is to educate the youth in conservation of replenishable natural resources of forest and wildlife. To teach them how to behave properly in the bush and to come to know and love their forest heritage.

The obvious first rule taught is fire prevention and fire fighting. They are asked to spread the lessons they learn to their friends and school mates so that everyone will become more aware of the need for caution when using matches, cigarettes and campfires in the bush.

The Junior Forest Warden movement was organized by the Canadian Forestry Association in 1920 to help combat public indifference and carelessness which were rapidly creating a serious forest fire threat in British Columbia.

As Junior Field Officers of the Association, Junior Forest Wardens, were pledged to conserve the natural resources of that province, and to carry the message of forest fire prevention to their schools and communities.

Today these school age Wardens are recognized as one of the most effective agencies of forest protection in British Columbia and their training methods have been adopted in Alberta, Ontario, the Maritime Provinces, Newfoundland, the Yukon Territories, Australia, New Zealand and the United States.

Since Warden training in Alberta, specialized the program does not conflict with that of any other youth organization. The movement has but one goal and that can be summed up in a phrase - "The Conservation of Youth and renewable natural resources."

Junior Forest Wardens train in camps a wide field with courses and proficiency badges offered in forestry, woods travel, mapping and weather lore, fire fighting, conservation, first aid, tree identification and basic training in signalling methods.

It's program is designed to encourage responsible thinking and provide good, clean outdoor life for young Canadians at their most impressionable age.

Any boy between the ages of ten and sixteen having obtained the endorsement of his application form of his school principal, teacher, forest ranger, RCMP officer or club leader may join the movement.

The training given to these wardens is intended to create an interest in the conservation of our natural resources so that the young boy registered for this program will not only have the pleasure of performing a useful service now but training will also help him shape his own destiny and that of others when he reaches manhood.

Molly was faithful

By FERN ICE

The night was as dark as when darkness caught up with them. They nonchalantly the inside of a black cat, ran a puncture and Molly the 1929 model A had develop ed a generator trouble with the result that her headlight were no more effective than a couple of burnt out candles.

Dad and my brother had borrowed the old girl from us oldies right we named every bolt in her (aptly old body) and were coming home from an unsuccessful job hunting foray.

Molly was faithful, slow and steady but she usually took us there and on occasion managed to get us home again so we weren't too put further when my folks ugged not bark at the specified hour.

Supper had dried to an unpalatable crisp by the time they came clanging in, but they ate it with relish and didn't seem to notice any thing unusual maybe the were used to my feeble efforts at cooking I don't know but the story they related while they choked it down was equally hard for me to swallow.

It seems they had be en driving from farm to farm looking for a job threshin ing when darkness caught up with them. They nonchalantly switched on the rear mounted front lights and proceeded slowly on their way With the darkness came an increase in precipitation In fact it was raining so hard they could scarcely keep Molly between the ditches paralleling the gum bo roads

Just as they were slipping and sliding down a steep hill an object loomed before them The driver applied the brakes in the approved fash ion but we had neglected to tell them to show it into re verse should the necessity a rise for a quick stop Naturally Molly didn't realize what was expected of her so she kept going

Thump, thud, moans and groans filled the air They had hit a living creature The front end of the heap was off the ground Molly teetered noticeably as her occupants cautiously climbed out to investigate

As they groped their way around front someone kicked a lump mass that let out an ear splitting bellow of rage sure as shooting they had run over a bull that weighed more than Molly and passengers combined The poor critter was flat on his back with his feet hopelessly entangled in the underparts of Molly's structure

I don't richtly remember how they managed to free the animal but once he had his feet under him he let out of there without waiting for an apology

Molly didn't suffer any serious injury either but her drivers were so afraid for would doubt their story this almost had us convinced that they were exaggerating a bit

CLOTHING FOR CHILDREN

As the child grows older he wants to help himself His clothes should give him the opportunity to do so The age at which a child can manage his clothes depends upon the child, the training he has had and the clothes are made To help him help himself, choose clothes with front openings wherever possible Roomy neck open ings or elastic knit bands slip over the head easily Few and easy to use fasten ers Buttons should be round flat, or medium marbel size and have grooved edges Buttonholes are easier to manage than loops of thread of fabric Hooks and eyes and snaps are hard for children to handle

Elastic inserts at waistline rather than hard sashes, or hard to fasten belts Belts and sashes, if used should be attached to the garment so that they cannot be mis laid or lost

Easy to reach pockets, or inside sure They are conven ient for actual use and offer good training for the child. Some mark of identifica tion to help the child distin guish the front of the gar ment from the back

Allow room for growth

For comfort and economy choose clothes with features that provide for growth but don't buy over sized clothes If a school child's clothes are awkward or different from his friends, he feels self con scious, and shy Clothes which are too big can limit movement as much as those that are too tight With

ANSWERING QUESTIONS ON GAS AND OIL In the area around Edson the panel of petroleum industry representatives above had the satisfaction of appearing before a full Legion Hall last Wednesday evening. Most of the explanations centered around the hydrocarbon extraction plant at Windfall 43 miles north of Edson and how the Pine Creek and Beaver Creek gas would be introduced into the Windfall formation to keep up the pressure to assure maximum use of the field. Sulphur extracted in the process would be stored above ground and the "dry" gas exported to the U.S. markets through the large pipeline built this summer. No estimate of the potential of the many lease holdings in the immediate Edson area were given. On the panel were: (l to r) Moderator Bud McDonald, of Clarke Oil and Refining; Ted Baugh of Canadian Fina; Carl Jones of Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas Co.; Chris Christiansen of Pan-American Petroleum Corp.; Don Wolter of Triad Drilling Co.; Jack Dreger of Shell Oil; and Gerry Borch of Sinclair Canada Oil Co. The evening was arranged by J. N. Marks for the Canadian Petroleum Association to which most oil and gas companies belong.

Winter works projects applied for by Town

A larger winter works program for improvements around Town will be undertaken if all nine projects applied for by Council last week are approved

Totalling $21,000 of which the Federal and Provincial Governments would share about $7,300. To get this amount of work done about $13,700 would have to be put up by Edson ratepayers.

It is proposed by Council that the various projects be spread out over the whole of the season in which this employment creating arrangement runs. Winter works when approved can be started after October 15 this year and can be carried on as late as April 30

The nine projects are:

	MATERIAL & PLANT	LABOR	TOTAL
Cemetery Pools	[illegible]	156.40	300.79
Renovate & Extend Grandstand	[illegible]	906.70	2,807.00
Office and Washroom Works Yard	1,500.00	1,500.00	3,000.00

He drew the audiences attention to the rapid growth we have seen in the past few years, and how he had grown along with this progress by serving his community on the local school board, Surprise Lake Camp for young people, and other community projects.

Mr Collin said he did not wish to make any rash promises as to what he would accomplish should he be elected but pledged his time fair judgement and consideration to each and every problem that should arise

Mr Gelmer was the second candidate introduced He was born in Edson and received his schooling here Mr Gelmier mentioned that he has been in business for 13 years and considered this gave him a good footing in dealing with people and the public

Mr Gelmer said he felt that it is a citizens duty to offer his services for the betterment of the town and promises to work for the benefit of the town and its citizens Also if elected would make time to listen to any room plants of requests that may

Christie-Adams families joined by marriage

A wedding of interest to many friends in Edson took place in St. James' Anglican Church in Edmonton on Saturday, September 30 when Judith Ellen Christie became the bride of Lawrence Edward Adams.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Norgaty before an altar decorated with [illegible] and [illegible] flowers and [illegible] candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of [illegible] organza over [illegible] taffeta with matching [illegible] sleeves. They carried bouquets of [illegible] and [illegible] flowers.

Mrs. Christie chose a teal blue sheath dress with gold accessories and carnation of Talisman roses. The groom's mother chose a navy blue sheath with pink accessories and carnage of pink roses.

Edson Young People's membership soars to 75

The largest attendance so far in the Edson Young People's Group turned out on Sunday evening in the Parish Hall. Seventy-five young people took part in the hour-long evening dedicated [illegible] and drank pop until 11:45. The reason for the interest of the night was that the following day was a holiday and it was supposed that parents would not mind their children having out a little later than usual. This however, is not the normal hour of closing, any other Sunday evening anyway would finish at 10:30 P.M.

However, Mr. Dowden has heard complaints from several sources because many of the teen agers do not return home at the hour prescribed by their parents. He would like to assure all parents that this difficulty will be brought up at a meeting in the near future, and the young people will be asked to fulfil the requests of parents, for a definite hour to go home.

Mr. Dowden would like to [illegible] the parents that the young people are in the hall they are having fun in an orderly manner and there is no need to worry. Why not evening [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Choosing our governors

Once again with civic elections coming up on Wednesday, October 18 all over the province, potential voters are being urged in weekly and daily newspapers, on radio and TV to "Vote as you please, but please vote!"

It is a plea that is brought out and polished up with each municipal, provincial and dominion election improvised on or used as it is. It gets a bit tiresome sometimes to the section of taxpayers who have no intention of going to vote and who do nothing more about the situation than complain about rotten government at every level.

It doesn't bother the ones who plan to vote anyway. They realize that it isn't directed at them.

Tiresome or not it is a plea to citizens of a free country to exercise their democratic right and vote for the candidate they think will best represent them. It is a right that persons living in enslaved countries would give a great deal, even their lives for. Right now in many countries of the world people are doing just that, giving their lives for the right to live as free men and women. We read every day of the wall in Berlin that separates families and friends, that is a symbol of enslavement and despair, where desperate people have lost their lives in attempts to gain the other side and the freedom to choose their governor.

We say it can never happen here and yet the freedom that was bought so dearly in the two Great Wars could be lost and can be lost in the apathetic attitude of citizens who don't care enough about who is elected to their governing bodies to bother going to the polls. It is not only a right but a duty and one that every eligible voter should hold as a personal challenge to help choose those who govern him.

We have chosen the word governors and mentioned it deliberately three times in this editorial. It shouldn't possibly need saying, but in a very real sense those who stand for Council or other local administrative bodies are our governors within the limits of their office. Take for example a council that's up after dogs. You may like a dog — even think it should run about a bit. But if the majority of your Council favor a dog catcher picking him up when he's loose then you'd better have a talk with your dog.

If you feel strongly about the control of dogs, or any other civic policy then you should take an active interest in local politics. Your local governors or administrators for three years at a time can raise or lower taxes. Their policies can affect you where it really hurts. Your pocketbook. If for no other reason you should keep a sharp eye on what they're doing.

About the same time while people in many lands were publicly worried about whether, in the near future, all these and people on the face of the earth might soon be fried in a nuclear blast, The United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization was announced its plans for asking all nations to contribute several millions of dollars to save the statue of Ramses II and other priceless relics of Egyptian [illegible] from being covered by the rising waters of the Nile [illegible] the Aswan [illegible] dam.

CAPITOL REPORT

Special tax agreement session

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — Premier Manning made it official last week the announced that a special fall session of the Legislature will begin on Tuesday, November 28, the day after the annual caucus of Social Credit members.

The session will be for one purpose and one only — passage of legislation necessary to put the new federal-provincial tax agreement into operation.

As it is wanting to groups that might want the government to consider other legislation at the same time, Mr. Manning said he will be "very reluctant" to open the session for anything but the tax bills.

He said the special session shouldn't take any more than two days. While it will be opened with a speech from the Throne by the governor, there will be no full dress, formal opening. That will be saved for the next regular session, slated to start on Feb[illegible] 27.

While the need to call a special session is somewhat unfortunate, Alberta may be getting six more rights than some provinces. It is not that some provinces have already called their special sessions and passed broad enabling legislation to implement the tax bill. Now the question is when this will will Ottawa. If active federal officials are just now drawing up a uniform bill they'd like all provinces to pass. So the provinces that acted narrowly may have to go through the process again.

Premier Manning had a few words of explanation about the new tax agreement. What's happening is that Ottawa is stopping, to per cent of personal income tax for this year, and will drop one per cent per year until it vacates 20 per cent. It is also relinquishing some points of tax on corporation earnings. This leaves the provinces free to move into the income tax field. They can pick up the 10 per cent Ottawa drops, or they can take more than 10 per cent. Or they can reduce taxes on theory, if any exist.

As for Alberta, Premier Manning made it clear that for this year the province will not only pick up the 10 per cent, so there will be no increase

But he was careful to point out that no one can say now whether the provinces or Ottawa may have to boost income taxes during the next few years. This could be significant for Albertans, because the provincial government is facing an acute revenue problem and has been reading about for a new source of income. An increase in the provincial portion of personal corporation income taxes might be the easiest way out.

No matter what happens, though, Albertans will only have to make out one tax form, because Ottawa will continue to collect on behalf of the provinces.

And here's another interesting angle. If the province sits back and waits for Ottawa to increase income taxes the amount which goes to the province will increase automatically. Even if the percentage remains unchanged, the province's share in dollars will rise if the gross amount collected by Ottawa is increased

At least three candidates will be in the running for the October 30 byelection to fill the seat left vacant in the Legislature by Al nominating conventions last week the Liberals chose Wilmot Freeland, lawyer and farmer. Social Credit picked E. F. Hom[illegible] a farmer, and the Progressive Conservatives nominated Hal Bissett, a lawyer.

The Deacon's column

By REV V B. DOWDEN

The Edson Young people's group has found me many things things which have crafts item to see hope... periods for our Tuesday evenings. Niel — I presume that the people who read this column are principally adult. I must pass on a few comments of this type to you.

First of all, you will under stand that the reason for starting this group was to provide a medium of social intercourse for teen agers, who love to mix with each other in a supervised setting and simply to have an evening of fun. I know the group would be relatively successful because after all America is a dreaming and But I had no idea that it would be the great success that it apparently is.

The group of teen agers are really good young people. I cannot help but draw the conclusion that since they are given an outlet in an orderly fashion much comes out that is bad but even suspected. In this I am sure you as parents and Sunday School teachers may heartily agree. This was much borne out by the meeting and the suggestions came from these young people that the remaining food be conveyed to the Welfare office on Monday morning for distribution to those who were hard up.

Again we are collecting jars for membership which may amount to a goodly sum as was suggested to me that we give, later on some of that money to the Rotary Society or the Polio Fund, or some organization of that nature to raffle was even proposed for this purpose).

It all points to a deep concern of these young people for our fellow man. To nurture and develop this Godly concern is to help young people grow into mature and useful citizens. It is to diminish selfishness and to increase a realistic concern for the cold, the hungry, the oppressed in this world, and thereby to follow the example of our Blessed Lord Who left us deeply the pain of the world.

God grant that both these young people and you who read this column may continually know that the duty of man is to Love the Lord thy God with heart, mind, soul and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself.

An analysis of the PE in your High School

By FRANK KIYOOKA

As mentioned in an earlier article the primary considera tion of a physical education program should be well qualified leadership. What is the actual program? How does it aim to fulfil educational objectives? This article will attempt to determine the answers to these questions.

Upon close analysis the physical education program would show three distinct levels or sections. They are,

1 The regular P.E. class program (usually during school hours)

2 The intramural program organized for after school hours)

3 The interschool program (also after school hours)

The regular PE classes are taught during school hours and are the most important part of the overall program. It is during these classes that students learn the theory and basic skills. The classes are organized on a basis whereby one third of the class time is skills devoted to the theory of various subject. The remaining two thirds of the class time is spent learning, and practicing the fundamental skills.

Each school year is divided into four to six week units. Each unit represents a different subject. For example here is a section of the boy's program: Touch football Sept. and Oct., Volley ball, Nov. and part of Dec., Basketball, Part of Dec. and Jan. etc.

Each grade has different subject units so as to take into consideration the individual differences for the various grade of children. In the lower grades (7 & 8) emphasis is placed upon the learning of the fundamental skills in the brain, games. On the other hand in the higher grades, (10 11) accent is placed upon skills that are of a more individual nature with immediate carry over values; such as badminton, golf, modern dance, etc.

The classes are usually separate with the boys and girls learning different things. However where circumstances and facilities permit co-educational classes are taught.

At the end of each six weeks each grade is given a written theoretical examination plus a practical physical skills examination. The unit marks are accumulated and averaged so that at the end of the school term each student has a precise grading based upon knowledge physical skill, and mental attitude.

This through the regular PE is the intramural program, which gets a thorough theoretical background in a variety of subjects that range from basketball to gymnastics.

The secondary level in school PE is the intramural program. Here participation is on a voluntary nature. The purpose of the program is to provide for opportunities for the student to put the theory and skills learned during regular PE classes into practice. The program runs parallel to the Regular program (eg) if touch football is taught in the regular classes then an after school touch football league is in operation.

All the participants are assigned to teams. These teams elect a captain who are under the supervision and control of the intramural council. The council consists of a body of elected students whose responsibility is to organize and supervise the week end events, etc. A record of the activities carried on throughout the school year and skills.

The entire program is under consistent supervision. The games are organized and administered by the students. The motivational rewards are worked by on the form of medical crests and trophies.

The intramural program should have:

1. A trophy for the best All round girl athlete."

2. A trophy for the best "All round boy athlete."

3. Individual team crests for the winning boy's and girl's teams.

4. Team uniforms for both the boy's and girl's league teams.

The Hilton High School organizes various clubs in connection with the intramural program. Each club is organized and administered by the students. Hilton High School is organized on a house system. There are many reasons why this system is used in Hilton High School to acquire these clubs. If there is any one reading this article who is interested and would like further information, please see Mr. Lloyd Johnston Jr. the Physical Education instructor, or Mr. Hinton Jr. the High School.

The final and total level of the PE program is the interschool section. This level serves to give those students who are more skilled a chance to compete with students in other schools of similar ability. The teams should be all star teams of the intramural League. These students who are selected for the school teams are expected to provide leadership for the other students in the intramurals by service, coaching and team captain.

The interschool players are required to maintain academic standings in conformity to their abilities. This is usually determined by a committee of four; the Principal, two regular teachers plus the PE teacher. If the student is not meeting his or her capacity then the student is automatically dropped from the team or teams until evidence of improvement is shown by the student.

Boys teams are composed of boys from grades 10 to 12 while girls are eligible from grades 10 to 12.

The interschool players are required to maintain a high standard of conduct on and off the playing floor. The student is impressed with the fact that he or she is a representative of the school in this manner the interschool program develops leadership qualities for those students who are perhaps more talented.

It is the school that is the source of the majority of the future sports captains and citizens. It is here that the emphasis should be laid. It is here that full co-operation and understanding of parents and communities is required. The opportunities are nearly unlimited with careful planning leadership and co-operation.

HOUSEPLANTS

Light Another different most people have with house plants is the lighting. Each house plant has its specific light requirements. Where this is not provided failure will result. Either light can be supplemented, it is best to grow plants which will do well with the existing lighting system in the home. The following is a list of house plants which require light which may be provided in most homes.

Bright — Sunlight Coleus, Geranium Cactus Crassula Thurio Cacti Jade Plant

Medium Amount of Sunlight African Violet and Begonia rex, window in east, west and north window in room Dieffenbachia, Kalanchoe Begonia, Caladium, Spider Plant, Rubber Plant Hoya, Peperomia, Sheffflera, Maranta Palm

Practically No Sunlight — Ferns, Sansevera, Aspodistra, Chinese Evergreen Dracena, Philodendron, Privs, Baby Tears, Wandering Jew, Aluminum Plant

Temperature and Humidity

Many house plants are natives of hot humid tropical climates and do not thrive in dry air House humidity in winter goes down dangerously low for house plants Even with a bottle of heating water on the stove, the humidity seldom comes up to ideal plant requirements To overcome this lack of humidity, smooth leaved plants should be washed or sprayed with plain tepid water as often as possible Excessive use of plant "shine" is not good for plants

Ordinary room temperatures of 70 to 75 degrees F are suitable for most plants Avoid placing plants near cooler hot air outlets, radiators or drafts Hot damp plants can survive such conditions In pots The most troublesome and destructive insects are spider mites Perhaps it is because of the fact that they are noticed after the damage has already been done These are spider-like insects hardly visible with start their infestation on the under side of leaves Later on a fine webbing is seen at the axils of the leaves and plant tips Eventually, the leaves yellow and drop off Other insects which may cause damage although more easily detected, are plant lice and scale insect The best way to check plants closely at least once a week If insects are present use a spray containing Malathion It will control all these pests

Feeding water and soil is not sufficient to grow beautiful house plants The plants need to be fed regularly (approximately every two or three weeks) with a fertilizer that will supply nitrogen phosphorus and potash Most of the flower shops handle a variety of good fertilizers which may be obtained

These things that come to the man who awaits seldom turn out to be the thing he's waiting for

THE STARK BEAUTY of snow on bare trees caught the imagination of Philip Gimbarzevsky and resulted in this picture This was the snow that fell a week or so ago that delighted kiddies and left parents saying, "It won't last." Now we are beginning to wonder if this will be a repetition of the "cold winter of 1956."

It was just an accident

Kraft paper like penicillin was discovered by sheer accident.

At one time all wood pulp was cooked with caustic soda, subsequent bleaching, the whole being to use it for the manufacture of paper suitable for writing and printing purposes. For such papers the pulp had to be well cooked . . . to get rid of most of the lignin which precluded the pulp from being bleached white.

One day workers in a hardwood pulp mill retired, and shortly noticed the pulp to which they were unable to bleach it because so much lignin remained, so rather than waste the pulp they ran it through the paper machine hoping to dispose of it as cheap wrapping paper. The paper subsequently found that it produced a paper of a much greater than anticipated strength, to before.

Appreciating the possibilities of such a paper they set about making it commercial ly, naming it kraft which is a Scandinavian word meaning strong.

Kraft paper as now used in wooden Canada, the USA, New Zealand . . .

Although the discovery of kraft was an accident they had to have ingredients in order to make it. We have researched 153 days without success and finally had to pull together and go for an other 153 days and keep going from there. We have done it so far there is no reason we cannot keep it up.

Impaired or not impaired

By JACK CRAIG

Often used and well worn is the phrase "don't drink and drive." If you drive at all but are the impaired kind and don't mix, are properly handling a machine, heavily frequented from the death and injury of those drivers who do not heed such words of advice. The evening of October 31 may turn into another street [illegible] time for Edson's Annual Hallowe'en Parade.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Christie a turn out of fifteen musicians lifted the walls of the new Centennial School.

The first rehearsal proved to be very satisfactory as Edson has a fine selection of musical makers. It is hoped that anyone else having an instrument will come out Sunday after noon at 2 p.m. at the Fire Hall to join.

There is a shortage of instruments, so anyone who has not been on that alike for awhile please take a look.

The first appearance of this newly formed group will be at the parade on November 3 and 4.

THE SEAGRAM TOWER for sightseeing, shown above will provide tourists visiting Niagara Falls next summer with a panoramic view of Horse-shoe Falls, American Falls, Welland Canal, Lake Erie, Lake Ontario, the City of Buffalo and, on clear days, the city of Toronto — a distance of 40 air miles.

To provide spectacular view Niagara Falls

Tourist visitors to Niagara Falls next summer will be able to enjoy almost the same spectacular view of the famous cataract area that previously could be seen only from the air, or from the Canadian shore.

The unique Seagram Tower for sightseeing, which is now well into the second phase of construction, will provide a spectacular bird's-eye view from its location atop the escarpment at the brink of the Falls. The Tower at 460 will take visitors nearly 500 feet for a total of 600 feet above the floor of Horseshoe Falls.

When completed the Tower will resemble a seven-storey building, surmounted by a cylindrical jet graceful concrete column. The 150 column will have contained two elevator shafts, but now been completed by Byers Construction Company, of Montreal. The second construction phase, the building of the seven storey superstructure is now well underway and, according to present work plans will be ready in time for the influx of 1962 tourists.

Linden Climbing Crane

In the Tower construction will be a massive Linden lattice crane, which will be supported by a braced

Safety Features

As a protection against fire hazard each of the two stairways and each of the three elevator shafts is separated from any others and each is completely concrete encased.

Thousands of steel reinforcing rods went into the 500 foot white Tower to provide strength. The 40-foot base is constructed of concrete and steel and each of the three elevator shafts, each weighing 200 tons, rests on huge concrete piers sunk to bedrock. Each of these piers is 60 feet in diameter.

Construction work at the Tower base is carried on throughout the winter months, although it is more hazardous because of the cold. To prevent the concrete from freezing, it is mixed with hot water and steam, and then protected by canvas and insulation.

Pusch - Schmidek wedding vows exchanged at Edson

Edson United Church was the setting for the wedding on September 30 of Robert Pusch and Gertrude Schmidek. The church was decorated with bouquets of mixed flowers for the occasion. Rev. C. C. Arrowsmith performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pusch of Barrhead, Alberta, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schmidek of Edson.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. D. Mellgren.

Given in marriage by Mr. Fred Heinz of Hinton, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of nylon net over taffeta with full skirt of fine of acetate and nylon lace. The bodice was embroidered with cup sequins and bridesmaid pearls and featured lily point sleeves. Her chapel length veil of silk illusion net fell from a tiara of rhinestones and pearls trimmed with acetate lace. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty Roses.

Adeline and Linda Pusch were their sisters' bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in cabernet colored nylon taffeta with floating panel at the back in shades of salmon and blue respectively. White accessories completed the dresses and they carried bouquets of pom pon Lollipop Shades. Punch was flower girl for sister's wedding and was sweet in a dress of nylon chiffon with full gathered skirt and side panel of nylon lace. A head piece of white daisies complemented her dress and she carried a basket of rose identical to those carried by the bridesmaids.

Groomsmen were Mr. Ryan Leclerc of Edson, Alta. and Mr. Herman Preve of Rocky Alta. Ushers were Robert Pusch, brother of the bride, and Walter and Wilfred Schmidek, both of Hinton.

Leaving for a honeymoon to Prince George and Vancouver via Grande Prairie and Dawson Creek the bride donned a wool suit in blue and brown plaid topped by a full coat of green cashlar with green accessories.

On their return Constable and Mrs. Schmidek will make their home in Hinton where the groom is a member of the town police force.

Our many weather changes seem to have made it a rush here lately in these weather and some not so good but all had an enjoyable time.

With the T.V. having been on its best behaviour lately and the odd song being thrown in the entertainment is living up and our recreation and hobby rooms seem to be busy all the time.

Two more guests have arrived to make their home with us and the registry is becoming more numerous as the time comes home the thoughts of another winter comes up.

Have you looked at your newspaper lately? Have you noticed the difference? Have you seen the new, modern trend in the newspapers of today?

In this National Newspaper Week of 1961, we'd like to tell you that we are striving to make better community newspapers, that we are working to make better newspapers to keep pace with our communities, and that we think is worth more to our communities than newspapers today is one of the greatest services to your community. Bull's eye for 'Hunters'

A Short Sto

BER McCRACKEN

Maurice Poyntz-Bu... a mighty hunter. He knows where the docile deer drinks, where the belligerent bull elk hoofers the mossy mossy mules. He needs no guide. At every opportunity he is in his vast playground fishing or hunting. On opening day each hunting season he bags his elk. Think this is the end of hunting for Maurice Poyntz-Blanc, the splendid sportsman? Suppose he is satisfied with a single shot seconds after sunrise on opening day? Don't be silly.

None of his myopic companions are capable of hitting the broad side of a barn but they are sportsmen and friends of Maurice Poyntz-Blanc so he obligingly assists them by using all his skill and knowledge to track and trick the still unwary animals managing to stalk and kill enough to fill the remaining open tags in the party.

are afraid to leave the imagin ary shelter of the camp but they are not truly safe there either. The puzzling part is that of a man accidentally killing another with that guided mu sle usually called a cur he may be charged with man slaughter, but if he kills him in the forest by gunfire he is comforted in his grief and asked to be a little more care ful next time. If one wishes to commit a murder and can entice his victim into the woods he may then shoot him with impunity.

Occasionally one of Maurice Poyntz-Blanc's friends does succeed in dropping an animal and when he does the odds are about fifty-fifty that it is an out of season cow (elk) But Maurice is equal to this emergency

He jumps into his jeep rushes home, tomes the head of his own legally shot bull into the back, tears out to the check point where no search is made of incoming vehicles returns to where the cow has been dressed, decapitates the carcass, throws this head away in a gully, places the antlered husband's leg on the severed head and all drive to the check point with their "proof of ass This may not be fabrication

This is better than leaving the carcass to rot as many ac cidentally shot cows are. There is always the possibility that a ranger may find it, extricate the spent bullet and have it send away for ballistic examin ation. When the report comes a search of the records is made and all owners of that caliber of rifle, in the area at that particular time, may be asked to test fire one slug into a sack of cotton waste.

Convictions have been ob tained in this manner but many times the bullet passes through the slaughtered cow and no clue is left. Perhaps such hunter should be asked to shoot one shell at a bag of cotton waste to help the rangers in catching cow killing culprits. Of course the hunters would then extract the bullet before abandoning the dead animal.

GARDEN CLEAN-UP

Before plant disease has ards in your garden next year by taking action now, advises Dr W. P. Shoesmith Associate Professor of Plant Pathology at the University of Alberta.

Plant protection from the many diseases that abound in the year is a season long job, he says. Seed treatment in the spring, spraying during the growing season when there are signs of trouble their effects, and clean-up in the fall to prevent overwin tering and infection are all part of a combination of con trol measures.

The greatest concern is that many of these organisms are so adapted to our condition that they can exist comfort ably through the winter if we give them a chance. That chance will be considerably reduced if we can know an appreciate their tactics.

Although some plant di sease organisms are need lessne and others overwinter in the soil, many of our com mon garden diseases carry through the winter on the stems and leaves of dead plants, says Dr Shoesmith. Fungi and bacteria are th common culprits. These spores are somewhat differ ent from the summer spores in that they have a tougher coat and are better able to withstand our dry, low tem perature conditions.

Some common diseases car ried over on garden refuse are bacterial blight of beans, bacterial canker of tomatoes, anthracnose of beans and fun gus blight of peas. Then there are the mildews, soft rot of potatoes, grey mold rot of let tuce, and the scleratinia rots of carrots, brown celery, and other vegetables.

Burning is the best practice where feasible. Where not, the diseased material should be gathered and re moved from the lot. Diseased leaves of shrubs and orna mentals should be similarly destroyed. Rose leaves with black spot, diseased peony and chrisanthemum leaves and stalks, and mildewed leaves of all sorts on various orna mental, come within this ca tegory. Remains of healthy plants can profitably go into the compost heap but di seased material should be burned or otherwise disposed of.

Parents disturbed

The midnight closing of the Edson Young People's group last Sunday evening has war ranted complaints from a few parents. It has therefore been decided to close all Sunday evening activity at 11:00 p.m. and then parents need only worry where their young ster is at about 11:15 p.m.

Once again Mr Bowden has informed by some parents that their children were told to be home at a certain hour he announced in the hall at the beginning of the evening that such teenagers should leave and be home at the stipulated time

Obviously, it is difficult to please the group when every one is enjoying himself but the solution to the whole problem will be helped by the closing hour of 11:00 p.m. Only on very special occasions will this hour be enhanced.

In order to let parents know a few weeks ahead of what is planned for coming weeks, a program will be announced in this paper. The first such pro gram is as follows:

Sunday, October 22 Dance ing in the Parish Hall from 8:30 to 11:00, a photographer from the Edson Leader will be present to take pictures of the group, membership cards will be issued on payment of fees of 25c

Sunday, October 29 — A Halloween dance from 8:30 to 11:00 masquerade door and dance prizes, cost, 25c single

Any suggestions to improve the Club will be gratefully re ceived and any correspondence should be addressed to Box 273, Edson.

ROSEVEAR

— ROBERT C. RUARK in the New York Telegram

A thing he does when I was talking to Mr Bernard Baruch the other day and seeing the pleasant old gentleman hale ... remembered he has what ... no 80-acre farm mainly ... officers ought to ... determined from him ... for 11 ... uns and ... worked, but ... a bit of ... duffer if handled right.

I've been feeling fairly guilty of late about even the idea of hunting and fishing. There's a guilt complex running loose a tremendous sentimentality about game, and blood sport, and every time some pimply young bonehead hangs down a play 8-iron with a sawed-off 22 it makes an inspired murderer out of the guy who used to hunt rabbits for sport.

Mr Baruch has been a quail hunter all his life. Eng ... and ... Mr Macmillan is a great gun on a genuine moor like Eisenhower still hunts quail (when ... and Mr Herbert Hoover is an passionate a fisherman as ... ever was. But I ... to meet. As a matter of fact most of the true adults I know practice some sort of killing with gun or rod and perhaps that is why they are rare adult. The ... are boneheads, or ... when some ... first ... man slew a rare bunny with a rock, man has sought to unmask his lust for blood.

The fact that the act of hunting also feeds the man is incidental. Animals have always preyed on other animals for food, but man imparts an extra quality of sport into the business of feeding the growling belly.

But people are becoming so public-relations shy of shooting animals that even the commoners natter at the word "weapon," and try to trans ... the primordial within them ... deny that the gun was not originally meant to kill things. This is obviously foolish, because guns and all milk tary plants and rockets and such like gimmicks are derived from kill things.

There is really nothing wrong with the use of guns as ... knows. The weapon is all right. The knife was meant to ... but the gun was meant to kill. So was the bow and arrow. ... be less it was the rock before ... been recently ... effete in our regards as ... ourselves that as modern ... boy ... somewhat hostile ... other a sparrow with ... confused chick's baby ... gun down an ... lady for ... ducks.

The wrong lies in the people who use weapons. An animal is immoral if his function is ... to run back and forth over ... lady ... happened ... New Jersey ... other day. A pair of shotguns ... disciplined implements of wrath when ... couple of frustrated young ... back a companion's face ... eyes in the course of turf in ... season by a stray ... shot.

But I see nothing immorally wrong with using weapons correctly for hunting and fishing. Animals do not die of old age and are not usually taken and destroyed in other ways. ... animals genetically for food ... but subject them to cruel tortures ... for ruthless sport.

Mr Baruch has ... to be ... dead in credits for pursuit ... and the ... of the bobcats ... with edible ... to a dead ...

400 Hintonites turn out for C of C civic forum

La the local Legion on approximately 100 eligible and non eligible voters turned out at the Monday night Civic Forum in her Council and Hospital Board candidates introduced themselves and gave their reasons for running in the civic elections on Wednesday.

President Bert Forde of the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce did a very commendable job as chairman for the evening introducing first the Hospital Board and then the Council candidates, in alphabetical order.

Some of the candidates merely introduced themselves, promising to learn to the best of their ability and to do their diligent best at all times if elected.

Mrs. Margaret Hamilton ... no previous civic work ... would devote time to ... and approach the position with an open mind and a co-operative spirit toward each member of the Board. She felt she could be trained in an administrative role in her and in Hinton which she felt was growing.

Mrs. Ruth Hand the only candidate for the new Hospital Board position referred to experience on another Hospital Board and on the Hairdressers School Association. She felt it important that a nurse be added to obtain more terms to the Board and was in a position to do so.

Two candidates for the Council were Frank Tatarin and Harold Don admitted they had had no experience in a public office of the type but were efficient, hard workers for They pointed out as that the were men who had made a success in their respective businesses and felt they had the clear thinking attitude necessary for members of the governing body in a town like Hinton.

The other two new candidates for Council were Brad Hart and Mrs. Chisholm told the audience what they could be expected to stand for. Mr. Bradwell pointed out was in the Public Works department which he felt had been poorly administered and which he felt he qualified to speak on having worked for it for a time.

Mr. Chisholm had several planks in his platform one of which had been to look into the possibility of a recreation complex which is listed to provide only the most essential projects in Hinton. This would include a campground with ports as well as a golf course.

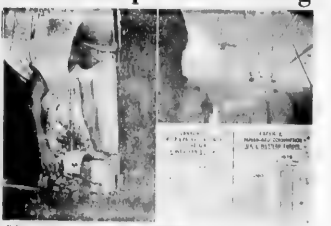
Efforts Needed to Keep Trade Growing

Higher Exports To U.K., Europe Benefit Canada



Pulpwood harvested by farmers, other woodlot owners, and the pulp and paper companies and afterwards converted into pulp, paper, and paperboard, is moving overseas in increasing amounts this year.

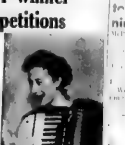
In the form of Canadian newsprint, it brings the news of the day to readers in London, Edinburgh, and many other cities and towns in the United Kingdom. As Canadian pulp, it serves as the raw material for hundreds of European products from German magazines to Italian milk bottle caps and from Belgian books to Dutch cardboard boxes.

The trade is already impressive — and growing. Last year Canada's shipments of pulp and paper to Britain and Western Europe totalled some $125 million. In terms of volume, this was the equivalent of about 1½ million cords of pulpwood.

The seven-nation European Common Market continues to grow rapidly, and economic growth and increasing increased demand for forest products, including pulp and paper. Recent estimates compiled by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, forecast the boundless possibility that the U.K. and Western Europe will be using 30 million creased particularly in the pulp and paper field.

Pulpwood bolts, cut from farmers' woodlots, are loaded into a truck for transportation to the pulp and paper mill. This is only part of the harvested wood that will be converted into pulp, paper, and paperboard. Increasingly, the pulp and paper industry is looking to the farmer for its supply of wood. Canada's pulp and paper industry has been expanding rapidly.

Canadian girl winner in Italy competitions



IONA REED

Iona Reed, Twenty-one-year-old Sudbury girl who is Canada's entry in the World Accordian Olympics to Rome Italy Saturday, September 16th was placed third in a field of 28 entrants from as many countries.

Miss Reed competed at the world renowned Coupe Mondiale at Palanza, plum Lydgen's Palomino and Pinto Lorey's Cherry Dixie No. 2.

Four years ago she competed in the Coupe Mondiale when it was held in New York. First place honors that year went to Donald Hain and hobbys as well.

The final speaker was councillor Don Sutherland who is running for re-election. Mr. Sutherland said little about himself, dealing with Council accomplishments and a lot about what might be expected in the future.

Chairman Forde then called on Mr. Clark Fleming secretary manager of the Board of Trade to explain why could vote in the Wednesday election.

Following a ten minute intermission for coffee a question period was conducted by Mr. Forde which brought out many points of interest to the population of the audience.

AS I SEE IT

Reverend E. HURD — Pastor

For best conditions of life how quickly the days are passing and how poorly I am using the only time I'll ever have. All day it has been in the morning mind what have you accomplished these past twenty years?

Two Years and about it. Two years ago I had no future hope. I existed in somewhere or other. Today I am living. Today I am free from confusion, with confidence in myself, with nothing in between. Tomorrow shrouded models are as that time in life when you think on a week or two you're going to feel better. This how I discovered I'm not middle aged. I have friends accepted the fact that in a week or two I'm not going to feel one bit better.

Acceptance whether it is today's 1946 cat and a pool health and a place in life wages one on the way to the manner creative living faster than anything else. When we two persons excels surveillance the things that must be and are, we wear down a flight of many seemingly insurmountable day Acceptance a beautiful, powerful and satisfying word.

Perhaps of even greater importance than the necessity of

By REV V B. DOWDEN

I have a huge pumpkin at my home. On the left my small daughter of the parish has promised to make a pie from the pumpkin and I am told he saw the shell for Halloween festivities at the end of the month no doubt many people will be doing likewise. Pumpkins are part of God and all harvest and my parishioner who gave me the pumpkin was the gift of the parishioner to Mr. McLeod. Today's article has to do with pumpkins afternoon in thank God for the bounty of the harvest. Being a city born and bred individual I can truly say that I have never felt before this year the true spirit of a Harvest Festival. When one is amongst men and women who obtain their living from the earth and also depend up totally upon the earth, including both its fruits in due season, we feel that our duty to God is to give thanks. Him for the things of harvest. Is there a sense of what all this means to you which is not always present in city communities where people work in offices, shops or factories.

So the Edson parish he is thankful also the Festival of Harvest Thanksgiving, to come when we have been especially aware of the beauty and depth of God's love for us in the bounty of His creation.

Even at that I am of time, to be considered how many and women who work in the soil and see this spring from their seeds, can possibly doubt that God is real. Likewise I am at a loss to understand how a woman who has borne in her womb a child can fail to realize that the behind it all truly and that God is the creator of life. Who works testing in vitro, no one has been able to birth but only those. He alone is the product of the soil who alone can create the soil out of nothing.

If we would fully appreciate the wonder and mystery of God's love for us we would live in a state of constant praise and thanksgiving to Him. When we are not in the mood for praise and thanksgiving we are out of touch with God and with ourselves and are failing to offer Him the sacrifice of praise that is His due. Let us ask God to help us to offer Him such a sacrifice of praise that will be fulfilling to Him and to us. If you had reason, either spiritual or material, to be grateful, good friend, invite others to join with you in thanksgiving to God for all His goodness to you. Let us make the most of the opportunities that are ours to worship God and to praise Him for all that He has done for us. Let us not be content with anything less than the best that we can offer to God.

If you have not made a decision to accept Jesus Christ as your personal Saviour and Lord, please do so now. Let us not be content with anything less than the best that we can offer to God.

Let us not be content with anything less than the best that we can offer to God.

Let us not be content with anything less than the best that we can offer to God.

Let us not be content with anything less than the best that we can offer to God.

Edson's pioneer story goes into final rehearsal

Push pass practice to the peak of perfection is the watch word for the nightly rehearsals of the story of Edson's earliest days. After weeks of practices all around town by the cast of 75 under the direction of Mrs A Jardine the musical comedy "Look Behind You Neighbor" was put together Sunday under the knowing eye and ear of the man who wrote the music, Mr Chet Lambertson.

Scheduled for presentation in the Edson High School Auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov 1, 2 and 3, opening night, Thursday will see an important array of VIP's to witness the launching of what could well become a widely popular Canadian musical comedy.

"Old Bill and Herbie"

By The OLD SWEAT

Well son, when we finally stopped talking last time you were waiting to hear from me again I think it's time you let me listen for a while. Give us your idea of the Branch and its activities today. Just as you see it.

Okay Dad here goes though I may not express myself as well as you fellows.

First of all, I would say that the saying "The Legion needs you and you need the Legion," is true indeed and every ex-service man should give thought to the question of becoming a member.

I would say that most would not hesitate if they knew the score. Members being the basic requirement, then it follows that the more members and I mean men with honest intentions of being good members, the stronger your Branch will become.

This is where you and I, Dad could get into an argument. There are far too many men in the Legion today who would like to take the Legion to fit themselves, rather than fitting themselves to the needs of the Legion.

Secondly, as I understand it, the Legion is trying to go ahead and become more community minded. The Lodi here is not zero minded. The Lodi could become a good member but and it follows a good Branch you will never be an asset to the community. If you can't live up to your organizations ideals you will never live up to community ones.

And thirdly I think we all very sad, reckless older persons the words World War I and World War II without any thought of what they really almost like saying "Number 6 Inc. stops at 10th St corner."

There is no remembering who we fought what we fought for and what there were left in their wake. We are all too busy looking after our own affairs, forgetting that our affairs are vitally affected by the points I mention.

One of the aims of the Legion, is to prevent further wars by reason of our knowledge of them what they can do and what they are like. Things you and don't bother to remember with any depth are the very ones which could affect you most.

However all in all I like the present Branch and its work I like the comradeship the working together as a team, the wonderful feeling of calling favors obtained from having helped a comrade along the road of life

You know fellows, I think I've talked long enough I see Mom is mustering from the kitchen that dinner's on, so let's go in and pay complements to her home cooking. God knows I really appreciated it after I got back home in 1945

Next week Dad and I will collaborate to give you a history of the Poppy our Legion Poppy Campaign and other subjects pertaining to Remembrance Day

MANGE IN HOGS

Rubbing or scratching along with a skin condition should make one very suspicious of mange. Hogs don't rub often for the fun of it. The reasons for mange, lice, dirt or skin disorders from other causes. With mange the pig rubs due to the irritation caused by mange mites burrowing in the layers of the skin. Serum oozes, and forming a scab or crust causing further irritation. This serum collects dirt and is often mistaken by the owner for sunburn or just a dirty skin.

The first lesions usually appear on the head of the hog around the ears, eyes or nose where the skin is more tender and the hair thin. From there the condition spreads over the neck, shoulders, back and sides and may involve the entire body. Mange lesions first appear as reddened areas but become thickened, wrinkled, scabby and darkened. The scabbiness is increased through the injury from rubbing to relieve the itchiness. The skin in the region of the eye is often the first to show evidence of mange and is often thought to be only dirt.

If the condition is neglected the pigs become unthrifty and stunted. At the early stages of mange rubbing may be noticed before the skin shows much change. In any case a mangy pig that is rubbing, often in preference to eating, is not going to make the best gains or show a good feed conversion ratio. In other words, it costs money, often wasting a lot of it.

The disease is usually spread by contact but it may be transmitted by intermediate objects such as brushes and brooms used for brushing infected bedding, walls, posts etc. against which infected pigs have rubbed. Mange mites can live for a week or longer off the body of a pig which is the basis for a thorough cleanup of the premises as part of the treatment.

The mite is scarcely visible to the naked eye. To be certain it has to be examined under a microscope. The female mite after being bred, burrows into the outer layer of the skin depositing 10 to 25 eggs in the burrow from one to three weeks. She then perishes in the burrow. The egg hatch in 3 to 10 days and the young mites reach maturity in another 10 to 12 days. Upon reaching maturity they migrate to the surface of the skin to mate, either by way of the burrow or simply by forcing their way through the roof of the burrow.

A positive diagnosis is made by finding the parasite by microscopic examination of skin scrapings. It is important that a good sample be collected. It is advisable to obtain the scrapings from a most affected lesion and mites are more easily found. A knife can be used for scraping off the material and it should go deep enough to cause blood to ooze a little to be sure of getting the outer layers of the skin. This should be put in a small bottle or jar with a tight top or cork and taken to a veterinarian with a microscope or sent to a Veterinary Laboratory, along with data on symptoms number of pigs affected, etc. This may aid in a helpful diagnosis in case the skin condition is not due to mange.

Several drugs are suitable for treatment. One of the most convenient and effective is Lindane. This should be used strictly according to manufacturers directions because like most insecticides it is poisonous under some circumstances. Nor should it be used on pigs approximately 30 days before slaughter. Pigs sure sprayed gives deeper penetration of the drug, which is desirable to get the best results. Applying with a brush or cloth can be quite effective too.

In total loss cases the animal can be scrubbed with soap and water first to remove a lot of loose scab. This will permit the drug to get at the mites better. Treatment should be repeated in approximately two weeks to get mites that may have hatched out in the burrows. Heat has to be provided when spraying is done in cold weather to prevent chilling with pneumonia probably following.

Treatment of the pigs with out cleaning up the premises is like trying to kill mites in the bedding on the floor, etc. is a discouraging procedure. Remove all the bedding, scrub the walls with a strong lye solution, or spray with Lindane.

Crude oil is a fairly effective mange treatment applied with a swab or brush. This is useful where only a few animals are to be treated. Unused crude oil is a good treatment for little pigs.

When nursing sows are treated with Lindane it is wise to wash the udder and nipples with soap and water half an hour later before the little pigs are allowed to nurse, as younger animals don't always tolerate most insecticides the same as more mature stock. Pools of Lindane or its solution on the floor should be eliminated too.

A good skin tonic to put these pigs back into shape is to feed one teaspoonful of raw linseed oil per 100 pounds of pig for two weeks

Truckers able register for winter hauls

Gordon E. Taylor Minister of Highways, announced this week truck registration forms will be available on and after Wednesday, November 1st in the Highways Building Edmonton and in the offices in all of the District Engineers at Medicine Hat, Lethbridge Red Deer Calgary Grande Prairie Peace River Edson and St Paul. All persons desirous of purchasing must register not later than December 31st, 1961.

The registration forms must be completed in full in duplicate and both copies must be turned in at the point of registration or returned to the Department of Highways Highways Building Edmonton Truckers in Edmonton area are to bring them directly to the Highways Building where they have been checked entered and numbered in the Edmonton office one copy will be returned to the trucker and this copy must be presented to the Engineer on the job when the trucker answers a call for work. The registration forms must be completed by the trucker before a Commissioner for Oaths.

It is essential that the registration forms be completed in every detail. If 20,000 has been set as the amount of earnings per worker and no less there is an unusually heavy registration it is expected that the amount will be reimbursed through the system.

The truck registration system to be originated in Alberta, four years ago and is designed to share the work around, the geared dump truckers who are wholly dependent on dump trucking for a living it is not a guarantee of employment but rather an endeavour to give as many truckers as possible some cash income during the winter months.

Only one truck per owner may be registered and the plan is not applicable to people who use the dump truck as a side line and who are not dependent for their main income on the dump truck.

Last year large areas and some professional men and men who had substantial business endeavoured to register a truck. Such attempts are wholly unfair to the program and can only be looked upon with disfavor by all of the people of the province who recognize this program to be an endeavour to provide a little cash during the winter months to those who need it the most.

Truckers who are not ready to go anywhere in the province wherever the work is, should not register. Truckers who are not prepared to answer a call and to go to work whether the land is long or short should not register. If a registered trucker is called and does not report, it will be assumed that he does not need the work during the winter

How to cut your gas heating costs!

CHECK YOUR INSULATION

A poorly insulated house is a heat waster! Loose fill insulation in the attic may be shifted during repair work or moving stored items. Be sure there are no bare spots in your attic for most heat loss is through the ceiling. In some homes additional insulation will greatly reduce the heat loss. Why not check YOUR home to be sure?

REPLACE DIRTY FURNACE FILTERS

Dust-laden furnace filters restrict the flow of air, and can cause overheating of your furnace, serious loss of heat to upstairs rooms and wasted fuel costs. All types of filters should be cleaned regularly, and replaced when necessary. (While you're at it, see that your furnace motor and fan bearings are lubricated as instructions indicate.)

TIME FOR STORM WINDOWS

Your home, like you, needs to breathe. Don't turn your house into a "sealed box," but avoid gaps in windows and doors which cause drafts and waste heat. A little weather-stripping usually does the trick! You paid for the heat in your home, keep it there, where it belongs

A PROPERLY ADJUSTED FURNACE SAVES FUEL

The gas company service department is ready at all times to assist you by adjusting heating equipment to maximum efficiency. With your furnace in your home, you are in the world! It's yours at reasonable cost and when your heating system is operating efficiently and you avoid heat loss caused by lack of insulation, drafty conditions around doors and windows and plugged furnace filters, you get full value for your heating dollar.

Strong Civic words

Pre election campaigns are often of the unusual and sometimes unscrupulous variety, but seldom do we hear one like that at Penolka. It just goes to show that contrary to what many ratepayers think, all is not evil and dread among Council members, that there is often dissention and sometimes open warfare among them

This handbill was circulated around Penolka by Council member Elmer Pendleton While it apparently did not have the backing of everyone it very likely caused a bit of unrest in the minds of some of the councillors who were mentioned in the dodger and who were candidates in the election Certainly no candidate would be very happy to have his name linked with such a bill

However, two of the men mentioned on Mr Pendleton's "slate," Mayor Debs Nelson and Councillor Arthur Wesley were elected in the recent civic elections The third man elected was Fred Auten

The handbill went as follows

STOP LIAR LISTEN!!!

Mr Ratepayer

There are things that should be done in Penolka ...

2 A general overhaul of the Public Works Department.

3 We should have a general Superintendent or Town Manager

4 There is too much of our tax money goes down the drain

5 The gravel which we got this spring cost us too much for the quality of the gravel which we received. In fact it was mostly clay Better material was available at less money and could have been delivered on the spot and we could have inspected each load for quality as it was delivered

6 Two police out of the three we hired in the last three years have been dead beats. One was the Chief of Police

7 I have had two years of hell with some pussy footers and "yes" men

There are many more matters that could have been mentioned

Signed ELMER R PENDLETON

The handbill concluded with the names of candidates for mayor and councillors whom Mr Pendleton considered would be good for the town of Penolka

Penolka is noted for being a progressive town Perhaps it is just such forthrightness that makes the difference If citizens don't feel strongly about their local government their town eventually suffers

From the results of the recent election Hinton doesn't suffer from the malady not at present anyway

So deadly serious

Pen would disagree with Lia Wat, at least that is by the well known Victoria columnist G E Mortimer For the most part Canadians appear, to newcomers from Europe especially, as a "glum lot." In visiting with several people lately on this same subject one person said, "Yes, here a young man who is even keen to work or school is considered to have a slight weakness in the head I often hear one boy or wedding very beautifully too, and it is a wonderful sound to hear first thing in the morning But our young people frown on such displays of happiness"

Another a man whose youth was spent in Europe said he would not forget that when he first arrived in Edmonton he and his friends started to sing softly in every parlor and were told they must stop "Funny, isn't it? they don't want us to be happy" On leaving their parlor the young immigrants stood together and began sang only to be told to move on by the police

This life is deadly serious" attitude must have killed the much of talent of many of our new citizens are to be singing as they worked, now confine their [illegible] songs to gatherings in their own [illegible] where they can sing without being considered [illegible]

How much talent is being lost and how much is [illegible] among the young people whose parents [illegible] uninhabited countries"

Dear Sir

While out to hear the four candidates nominated for the coming election we were very pleased to hear Mayor Brunelle state the Town Council meetings are open to the public and he encourages each and everyone to attend so it is the taxpayers money which is being spent

This brought to mind an other matter the Bill rate is 65 20 of this goes towards Education If a person wishes to present a problem to the Board it is necessary to make an appointment This of course must be pre-arranged However WHY is it necessary for this person to sit in the outer office until this appointed time and WHY is he generally asked to leave after his problem has been discussed ??

On occasion people wishing to just sit in on the meetings were found quite a barrier by the outside secretary in the outer office

Grant you there are problems the Board needs to discuss in private With such cases could they not meet earlier and do this"

The School Act Section 171 Subsectional states

Every meeting of the Board shall be OPEN and the Board shall make reasonable provision for public accommodation this does not mean in the outer office Subsection 7 The chairman of a meeting of the board may order the withdrawal or expulsion of any person whose conduct at the meeting has been such as to interfere with the proceedings of the meeting

Perhaps it has been since more on the part of the public that more interest has not been taken in the affairs of education or perhaps it is the attitude of the School Board

Nevertheless, as has been proven this past year with our open Town Council meetings the public in general

Television viewers located within a hundred miles radius of Edmonton may take heart with the latest findings of a signal strength survey conducted by CBLT channel 5 Edmonton.

The new station which began transmission October 1, has disclosed that reception of channel 5 should provide viewers with an excellent picture provided that a proper and [illegible] is used

Reception outside the normal [illegible] is satisfactory requires an outside antenna, a [illegible] on the antenna increasing as [illegible] from Edmonton increases. The results of a [illegible] indicated in [illegible]

Considering the two Edmonton stations, a channel 2 antenna will not usually perform well for Channel 5 and vice versa, except in those cases where a wide-band Yagi antenna is used. This antenna used to capture or viewing channel 3, 4 and 5 on the same antenna, but even a unit such as this has limitations, and can be used in only specific areas of Alberta.

Survey results have indication that different types of Yagi antennas will offer the best possible reception in certain areas of the province, and not in other areas.

Consider, that the receiver is working properly, on one of the other channels, this usually means that the antenna system is at fault the following general guide should be used that a word of warning! Check with your local serviceman or antenna man Misadjustments could cause serious damage which only a serviceman can repair, and the cost involved would be far in excess of the original set-up problem.

Poor resolution or a fuzzy picture can often be corrected by adjusting the fine tuning dial of your receiver, and moving the position of the antenna If this is unsuccessful the receiver tuner may require adjustment – a job for a qualified serviceman

A snowy picture is due usually lack of sufficient signal Changing the antenna position or the distant control from local to long [illegible] it may be provided on the receiver may help the problem Should neither adjustment clear the snow a serviceman should check the receiver for possible tube defficiencies or other minor faults.

If poor sound quality is encountered and adjustment of the antenna fails to alleviate the problem the tuner should be likely at fault or there are internal problems within the receiver that only a serviceman can repair

The problem of multiple images is usually encountered in city areas If indoor antenna adjustments are not successful, then outdoor antenna should be called in many cases [illegible] are the results of a [illegible] that has been reflected from a [illegible] The selection of a proper [illegible] in a direction which is [illegible] signal and rejects the [illegible] is the only solution

IP CHANNEL 5 WANTED

To aid viewers who are not receiving the Channel 5 signal clearly, but are able to receive other television signals, the following general data has been prepared as a guide to cover the types of picture degradation that can occur Owners are advised not to attempt any repairs other than front panel adjustments on their receivers or their antenna Misadjustments could cause serious damage which only a serviceman can repair, and the cost involved would be far in excess of the original set-up problem.

Viewers in the north and south of Edmonton are advised to use a separate Yagi antenna for each available channel. Such an antenna must be positioned perpendicular to the broadcasting station with only a few degrees leeway for error. Since Edmonton's two television station transmitters are 10 kilo. apart, the difference in the absolute perpendicular is more than 3 degrees and separate antennas are required

FOR AREAS WEST OF CITY

A better solution is available to residents living to the east and west of Edmonton. A single wide band antenna, which serves channel 3, 4 and 5 will suffice Since transmitter sites are both located in the same general line, the setting of the wide band antenna to the perpendicular of both transmitters can be readily accomplished.

Viewers living to the northeast, northwest southeast and southwest, can not be offered the same rule of thumb to follow. For either the separate antennas or the wide band antenna may be needed To answer which antenna is the most effective, check first with your [illegible] serviceman or antenna dealer

Stay awake and live

The whys and wherefores of our driving is a subject which is continually in the thoughts of practically every adult in our corner of the world. Items have been written on this topic, words by the billion have been spoken. Tests, research, experimentation have had their part in this very important matter. The causes of accidents have been propounded and discussed. Some have been accepted, some have been rejected. But it is reasonably safe to say that human failure is a primary cause of accidents.

Inquisitiveness, lack of skill, poor judgment, physical defect, intemperance and all failings on the part of drivers. Investigation of highway accidents has disclosed one rather surprising factor in that of every 10 accidents on high-speed roads three are caused by sleepy or sleeping drivers. The reasons for this condition are numerous, but the thing of greatest importance to us is how to correct or eliminate these causes.

The tips given below have been tested by experience and proved valuable. Follow them and you will stay alert and out of trouble.

Get plenty of fresh air. Take a breather once in a while if you smoke heavily when driving.

Move your eyes around. Don't focus on one point. Check the gauges and mirrors frequently.

Chew something—gum, beef lozenges, fruit-flavoured candy.

At regular and frequent intervals check your car: Tires, lights, mirrors, wipers, brakes, windshield. Ensure that they are all in good working condition.

Follow these hints and you will enjoy many miles and years of happy, accident-free motoring.

CHOOSING A HOUSE TYPE:

In many cases the winter months are spent pursuing house plans, types of building materials, paint colors, etc., with the view of building a new home next spring or maybe just someday. The following are some comments from our Home Draughtsman, Specialist about the various types of house you can build

A. Two-Story Design:

1 Low Cost per square foot. 2. Take advantage of small lot or space. Despite the popularity of one-level homes, there are still many advantages to two-story living. Contrast, sponsor and for privacy, a two-story home remains one of the best buys. It's cheaper to build per square foot than one-level house, you still get more floor space under less roof and over fewer foundation walls.

B. Expandable Design:

1 A smooth working design. 2. Leaves room for addition. No matter what style of home you build, it's wise to plan for expansion. By building a house that will expand gracefully as your family and budget grows, you pay only for the space actually needed.

C. One Level Design:

1 Eliminates stair climbing. 2. Ease of maintenance. A house that's low to the ground can take full advantage of the view and outdoor living. A one-level home may also be as dramatic as any you can build.

D. Split Level Design:

1 Good Separation of activities, in split-level design activity areas are well separated, and yet living, working, and sleeping areas are not far from one another. Also, there's no real basement, as lowest level is pulled out of ground where it counts for as much as valuable first floor space.

Two dances this Friday

HINTON—

There will be ghosts and goblins galore this Friday, October 27, when two different organizations sponsor Hallowe'en masquerade dances.

The Junior Forest Wardens are sponsoring a dance in the Legion Hall with music by the Trumps. The Athabasca Valley Hotel ballroom will be the scene of activities for the annual CHSP masquerade.

Both groups are urging patrons to turn out in costume as there will be prizes at both dances for the most outstanding or outlandishing get ups. The CHSP are not only urging patrons to attend in costume, but are levying a two-bit fine on anyone who turns up in every day dress.

They should be fun and a good way to start the week end.

The main causes of motor vehicle accidents

No one can say exactly how many motor vehicle accidents are due to a particular circumstance because most accidents have a combination of several circumstances.

Below is a summary of the more important contributing causes compiled by U.S. authorities for the year 1950.

ALCOHOL. According to reports from city and state traffic authorities, drinking among drivers and pedestrians is a major factor in motor vehicle accidents.

About 16,000 of the 32,000 fatal motor vehicle accidents involved a drinking driver and one out of every four persons killed on the road had been drinking.

Speed too fast was a contributing factor in 31 per cent of fatal accidents whereas "improper driving", other than speeding was the principal factor where injury and property damage were sustained but no deaths occurred.

SEX. The gentle sex have a better average than men in the rates relating to the number of drivers, but a longer table, in relation to the miles driven.

Age. Drivers up to age 24 representing almost 44 per cent of the total driver population were involved in 53 per cent of the accidents.

TIME. Night driving is considerably more hazardous than day driving. The rate from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. was 8, but from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. almost twice as high while between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. a peak rate of 23 was reached.

The worst month of the year was December

CONDITIONS. Close to 40 per cent of the accidents occurred when road conditions were dry and the weather either clear or cloudy.

VEHICLE FAILURE. A small percentage of accidents, about 2½ per cent, were caused by car failure, brakes or lights not operating effectively.

All in all it appears more clearly every day that the remedy for reducing accidents on the highway lies with us the drivers.

The fifty megaton bomb has become a reality to all of us recently. And yet, in a way, it is not real at all. We [illegible] how much [illegible] it could cause, nor the extent of awful being. We hang on desperately to a move. It hope that it will never be dropped near us. We say to ourselves that a load of love would never let such horrors happen. We soothe our troubled hearts with the fact that God would not allow innocent people to suffer as that way.

Yet, I would like to ask Who are these innocent people and where do they live? Perhaps we could say that children of the world are innocent. We find it hard to find [illegible] among others. Certainly not in our country.

We have told God to move His own business and leave us to ourselves. We are a pleasure mad society. We seek only material gains. We measure success by the standard of the Canadian dollar, or social achievement.

As I see it, God will "mind His own business" when his clergy strikes unless we collectively turn to seek God's face now.

Hinton high school Physical Education needs

A survey of present needs and possible future developments

By FRAN KRYGOSKA

What are the immediate and future needs of the Physical Education program of the Hinton high school? What are some of the considerations that should be kept in mind in terms of these needs? This article will attempt to present a brief overview of the present needs with an eye to future developments.

The primary requirement of an effective P.E. program as previously mentioned, is the availability of qualified personnel for organization and supervision. The next requirement is the availability of proper facilities, out of doors and indoors. The final necessity is the availability of an ample supply of proper equipment.

The following is a brief look at the facilities and the needs at the Hinton Jr. and Sr. high school. At present the high school has no gymnasium. The physical Education classes are using the facilities available in the Central Ward Elementary school.

If one looks into any of the [illegible] classes in session, it can be observed with some [illegible] that the present facilities are inadequate. [illegible] the present [illegible] is [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Trick or Treat

BER McCRACKEN

Hallowe'en is nearly here again and the tiny hollow witches goblins and other ap paritions that don't always ap pear in spring, their annual appeal for long evenings full of chills and thrills. The approaches to this will not differ from those of previous years.

The little folks are hanging over the chair to install their costumes and are trying to decide what they are going to be for Hallowe'en. Bigger plans are being formulated by the adults - fancy fix and wide dragging, pillow slips and pota toe sacks fitted with gas en crusted food until exhaustion forces them to plod wearily home to find beside their own dinner before dropping off to sleep.

Some do not understand the idea that it could be con sidered safe - a celebration as for EASTER and unmask connected the children to ask for candy These kid still not be afraid of Jupiter or Mahajan

The moose read the game regulations too

The new Game Regulations are so confusing as to make crooks out of honest people. A hunter set forth recently, full of vim, vigor and good intentions. After a comparatively short interval he spied a beautiful bull moose. The hunter pulled up and took aim but something kept him from pulling the trigger. He set the gun down and tried to figure out what was stopping his trigger finger.

Finally believing it better to be safe than sorry, he hunted out his regulations and read. Then with a feeling of frustration and downright dismay shouldered his rifle and walked away.

A bull elk — he could have shot and stayed within the law, but a moose was out of bounds until the following week.

And what was the moose doing all the time? Standing there bold as brass just daring the hunter to take a crack at him.

Another hunter almost made the fatal mistake of shooting in a closed season south of the highway in moose 12 he would have been a b but this poor maxed up stranger was north of the main thoroughfare and in forbidden territory

Luckily for him he realized his mistake before he made it — so although he avoided committing a crime he also missed out on his moose.

One is very likely to become so hopelessly entangled in red tape that he either gives up in despair and throws away his rifle or shoots first and reads up on regulations after

In the latter case he would be here to read them himself if someone would appear on the scene to read them for him with the red ink thrown in for good measure

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL

This is a serious matter

HINTON—

Facts as slips and falls, held by the National Safety Council including both industry and public, quote just a few of the following items of interest. Falls kill 68 people in North America every day.

In the United States and Canada, falls are responsible for 22 per cent of all accidental deaths

1958 1960, the Company had 82 lost time injuries from slips and falls with a total of 1062 days lost, an average of twelve days for each accident.

Since January 1961 we have had 31 injuries from slips and falls Twelve of these were lost time for a total of 178 days or an average of 15 days each.

"Slips and Falls," is a phrase which may be too easily shuffled off in each of our minds as being too simple an item to cover too much thought on. Yet this phrase applies more directly to everyday accidents with everyone than any combinations of more dramatic type injuries combined

From the simple act of tripping over one's own shoelace, or slipping on the back door step to the more serious acts of overpowering on a slippery highway behind the wheel of your car or slipping a quick drink while driving, they all end up in one of the two ends, injury, too often requiring hospitalization, or death The latter term is very final in anyone's book of debit and credit, but the former can and should be dealt with Every citizen, man, woman or child except in cases of defect, acquired through disease or birth, has five physical senses Use them

There should be little need of pointing out the towering cost in time and money lost with injuries incurred while working or playing This does not include the mental agony suffered by the victim and family, which cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents.

We are too often prone to say "That's too bad but then it couldn't happen to me." Don't tempt fate, brother this short term has little regard for anyone, anytime, because all too often a work in unmoved victim provokes his or her own accident Awareness has always time and again that few accidents, have happened without good cause So, the next time you go flying out to your business especially on those coming winter months, remember that patch of ice on your doorstep It is going to be a round for a little while, don't scamper it. It's not likely to be none you! Remember "Slips and Falls" sounds morally, but often they are guilty

And now for your question regarding Poppy Day and Remembrance Day. First let's take Poppy Day Perhaps I had better deal with this first bit.

Go ahead Dad Tell us some thing of the Poppy's history

Well, there are two or three partially authentic stories that periodically appear I will give you the factual one from known records Although the Poppy was certainly immortalized by John McRae in his poem "Flanders Fields" it was not he that was responsible for the poppy as the symbol of Remembrance.

The person who brought the poppy to the notice of the League was Madame Guerin, "The Poppy Lady of France" She used it to raise money to assist French children, orphans of the war and veterans in hospitals.

In 1921 she offered the idea to Field Marshall Haig and the British legion adopted it in the same year she brought the idea to Canada and the GWVA took it up, then when the join ing of veterans into the Legion came about the Poppy remain ed by unanimous vote Thus today and for the future the Royal Canadian Legion is proud to be the sponsor of the Flower of Remembrance" the Poppy

Now Herbie its your turn Her we go minute This one's for you! I heard Dad was going to continue but I'll take a bet further

Let's turn away for a few moments to something other Where? To Hiroshima? Out of the blue sky of a lovely summer day fell the most devastating instruments of war on this poor town of some 340 000 souls Two thirds of the population were killed instantly or died within a short time When the final roll call was made 136 211 were counted still among the living many mentally crippled and sick in retain the marks for the rest of their lives if they lived A great many of these died later Hundreds of who they were living souls in one and 1 One more of the horrors the threshold in fact) of war

That was just one instance Multiply it by 17, 300 or 1000 and what have accomplished? Do you or I wish to see that here" Oh yes If you hap pen all right! Therefore whether the occasion was war fainted or not for ever is any it is but one more reason why we should fight continuously for Peace and the curbing of war

OK so now we get back to the question The Poppy is our national insignia of Remembrance and Remembrance is needful that we may ever learn the objective before us Not to plot for or dwell on the horrors of war and its brutalities but that we may know and remember the things we should still be fighting and standing united for

And lastly as a tribute to those who gave life itself and all that it meant to them to show that they believed in our way of life And to those who came back sick and disabled to fight on for the Peace and Freedom which we hold so dearly and carelessly So do the people of Hiroshima remember not with bitter hate but feeling that they were the chosen example of the total destruction of war and with hope and the will to prevent a recurrence

Remember this too! Remembrance Day is not just for one war, but for all that have ever been So we should wear our poppy proudly yet with humility knowing that if it honors the dead yet helps the living

On Remembrance Day, cast your feelings of bitterness and remember those things "As we served in war so now shall we serve in peace" honestly truthfully and with purpose Remembering always that if you do not help your fellow man in time of distress how can you yourself expect help when you need it"

I think Dad that those words are an answer to John McRae's "Flander Fields" and are worth quoting

"To you who sleep in Flanders Fields

Sleep sweet to rise anew We cherish the Torch you flame

And holding it forth we keep faith

With those who died

We cherish too the poppy red That grows on fields where valor led

It seems in signal to the skies That blood of heroes never dies

But lends a lustre to the red Of flowers that bloom above the dead

In Flanders Fields

And now the Torch and Poppy red

We wear in honor of our dead Fear not that we have died for nought

We've learned the lesson that we taught

In Flanders Fields

Please wear a Poppy on Remembrance Day

To help the living and honor the dead

TWO WAYS TO REMEMBER

What is there to remember on Remembrance Day? During the two minutes of silence what vagrant thoughts go through a nation's mind? What do you remember? More important, how do you remember?

If you are like most Canadians who have been through a war, you probably start at some point 20 or 45 years ago. You try to recreate events. What you don't remember, you imagine. Then, year after year, the fact and fantasy melts until finally there is no separation.

Perhaps you remember the night in the pub when Sam sang 23 verses of "The North Atlantic Squadron". The fact might well be that Sam only knew two verses. But the point is that he was killed almost 20 years ago, and now fact and fantasy run together.

There is nothing wrong with this, really. It helps you remember Sam and what he represented. But there is another aspect to Remembrance—a vital and immediate aspect. Another way of remembering Sam is by doing some of the things he would have done for his family. Then there are the Sams who came back with handicaps they never will overcome. There are others who just need help.

The Royal Canadian Legion believes that providing such assistance is a form of remembering. It is the unspoken obligation which all veterans would gladly assume. That is why, through its poppy campaign, it makes available $500,000 a year for welfare and service to veterans, widows and dependents.

In addition to pausing for two minutes to honor the memory of Canada's 104,000 war dead, each of us can participate in the second form of Remembrance. We can contribute to the poppy campaign which makes possible year around assistance to those who are still victims of war.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Carton:

Re: One large white species of water fowl pictured in your October 19 edition. I don't like to pick on some fellow hunters but anyone who is ignorant enough to shoot a whistler swan for a snow goose has no business being allowed to hunt at all.

I was under the impression that every conscientious hunter knew that snow geese rarely weigh over eight pounds, have short dainty bodies, jet black wing tips and short black beaks. The bird pictured in the paper has a relatively long body, no black wing tips and displays the large tuberosity at the upper base of its long black beak (so typical in all species of swans). I should also like to mention that all swans native to Canada are a rarity and are therefore protected by law.

I would like to venture a guess that this beautiful bird was shot sitting, by anyone who could not fairly call himself a sportsman at all but trigger happy thrill seekers.

Sincerely yours
Brian Andrews

Dear Sir,

I was immensely interested on the "letter to the editor" in last week's Leader regarding school board meetings. I feel held the idea that you were slightly less than welcome at these meetings. I had also heard numerous times concerning people who had gone to the meeting with a problem, and who had been ushered until the waiting room to wait until the board was ready to receive them. I'm so glad to hear otherwise, and you can bet on a public attendance at those meetings, in the future.

"Name Withheld"
Yours truly,

Sir,

What's the matter with our Council?

We've got a hundred thousand dollar Main Street — for the cars, but no people who have to walk have to use rubber boots.

Hasn't our Council noticed the sidewalks in this weather? We must especially the side walks along the lower end of Main AND the crossmalks!

It is quite apparent there are Eagles near Edson, but obviously there will not be any left in this or any other district for that matter, if every trigger happy hunter has to have "something to shoot at".

The magnificent eagle will go the way of the passenger pigeon unless wholesale crane of the slaughter is left unchecked. I believe they should be shot at — but only with a camera.

Yours truly,

CAPITOL REPORT

S. C. backing for magazine

By KEN MASON

Edmonton — Something the Social Credit party has always lacked — and always wanted — is a measure of support from the national press of Canada. And as a result of this lack of support, the party has had it just that much tougher trying to make any impact on the national political scene, but side of Alberta and B.C. Social Crediters aren't really taken seriously.

When the party sends speakers out on campaign tours — even speakers of the stature of Premier Manning — they're often ignored by the press. But that may be changing in the near future. In fact, it looks as though the Socreds are getting themselves a powerful new voice.

A new national monthly magazine, called "The Canadian," will be on the newsstands next month.

It's being billed as a magazine devoted to the country's business, economy and politics. And it's run by Social Crediters.

Continental Industrial Holdings Ltd., of Calgary, is the company behind the venture. It's president is Frank Brown, a director of the Alberta Social Credit League. Orvis Kennedy, president of the Social Credit League, is a director of the company.

The editor and publisher of the magazine is Arthur Laws, who has been nominated to run for Social Credit in Pincher Minister Fleming's Toronto riding in the next federal election. The backers of "The Canadian" don't appear to be fooling around. They say they've also made arrangements to purchase two existing magazines — Liberty and Saturday Night — from Toronto financier Percy N. Hobson.

They're also talking about expanding further into the publishing field, with the possible purchase of a chain of western Canadian weekly newspapers, among other things. The whole story broke into the news last week when The Lethbridge Herald carried a story saying Social Credit circles were quietly carrying out a massive promotion of stock in Continental Industrial Industries.

This has been denied by Orvis Kennedy, although he concedes that Social Crediters are undoubtedly talking up the new mags zine. But he emphasizes that the magazine has no official connections with Social Credit at all. While the people behind it are Social Crediters, they're going into the publishing business as a private venture.

Be that as it may, the new magazine will undoubtedly be helping to promote Social Credit's strategy in the next federal election. The party is going to lean heavily on the idea that the old line parties are dead and Social Credit is the only alternative to the welfare state that would be built up by the New Democratic Party.

A brochure on "The Canadian" lists some of the articles coming up in the first issue. One of them is a profile on the Socreds' national leader, Dr. Robert N. Thompson. It's title: "Social Credit or Communism." Another article will deal with banking reform.

Politically, the magazine probably won't be itself in Social Credit. But it will be definitely right wing in its leanings. Another of the first-edition articles will be on U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater.

Judging by the brochure, the magazine will be a slick professional looking production. Its backers hope it will gain enough stature to be the Canadian equivalent of U.S. News and World Report.

NO WAR THIS YEAR

By J. Louis McKenna

No war this year. The statement is made entirely on my authority, so take it or leave it.

Things are rumbling in various world capitals, with Berlin as the focal point for the growling everywhere. Not since 1939 has the situation been as tense as it has been recently.

But let us not forget that there have been many threats of war in the intervening years. They have not equalled the danger which exists at the present time; nor have they been far short of the present status.

Today's situation is very much like that of 1938, the year of Munich. I am not suggesting that 1961 is going to be the year of another Munich. I am certain it won't be. I don't think for a moment that the nations of the free world are prepared to make Berlin another Czechoslovakia and turn it over to a dictator.

Frankly, I don't think the Russians believe the Berlin situation will be settled as was the Czech situation at Munich. I know the Russians would have a great triumph if it were.

But when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, of Britain, went to Munich to talk with Adolf Hitler, and reached a settlement which averted war temporarily, he went back to his country thoroughly convinced that he had done something which would mean "peace in our time."

Today everyone realizes that peace cannot be brought in this way. The democracies realize it. Russia realizes it. So we come to the point where the irresistible force and the indestructible wall meet. And what have we?

We have, first of all, Russia. There is not the slightest doubt that Russia wants to take over the world. Yet there is not the slightest doubt that Russia wants a world to take over. A world ravaged by nuclear warfare isn't going to be of much more use to the victor than to the vanquished.

And let's not forget that the Russians are doing all right for themselves without resource to nuclear warfare. They have established a bridgehead in North America. Hotel Castro is their whipping boy; and don't ever forget that Castro is doing a good job for them. He made the Americans look silly when they backed the ill advised attempt to invade Cuba through a few nationalists rather than year.

And this, to me, is the danger point. United States participation in world affairs is even more recent than Canadian; yet today the United States is the world leader for democracy. The United States is a baby when it comes to dealing with bandits. The United States has had maybe 20 years of dealings with international intrigue which has gone on for many hundreds of years. Is there any reason to suppose the United States will come out any better in this game of give and take than will a novice against sharks in a poker game?

None of us is going to question the integrity of President Kennedy and his advisers. Today there is no place for political handicapping. We are, or we aren't. If we aren't we are supporting the Russians. The one question is: Can President Kennedy and his joint advisers lay down the proper policy for us?

A mistake on the part of the United States today could plunge us all into war. The Americans are our leaders. Frankly, some of us haven't because we do not think they have prepared themselves for that role. Yet I believe Canadians, and all others of the free world, are smart enough to realize that we must go along with whatever happens. Decided we fall.

The greatest mistake we can make is to become divided, even though our thinking may be divided.

We as Canadians have a great role in the future of freedom. If we are going to play our part, we can do so only by staying alive. We as Kings County are Canadians — and, if I may make a personal comment, and who is going to stop me? among the best of Canadians. So we first must survive to do anything about it.

So I say there won't be any war this year. I also say that anyone who accepts this on its face value and does nothing — and I sincerely believe my forecast is true — is nothing but an idiot. We can do something to protect ourselves.

We can put on shelters to prevent us being affected by nuclear fallout. We can sharpen up our community civil defence efforts. We can prepare to live.

Or we can continue to be idiots, and die.

Fatal accident Hallowe'en nite

Matt Babich age 60 a lett time resident of the Cad Branch and later of Edson was struck down by a car and killed last Tuesday evening October 31st 7 PM.

Mr Babich was born in Jugoslavia and is survived by two brothers and one sister. Funeral services will be held in the Sacred Heart Church Saturday November 4th.

The driver of the car was Mr Niles Christenson of Edmonton Corner Dr J Crawford has set an inquest for a later date.

With Hallowe'en pranksters and accidents Chief MacDonald and staff had one of the busiest nights in many years. The Town Police deserve a lot of credit for coping with all these emergencies at once.

UP AGAIN, DOWN AGAIN

At the recent Council meeting on October 30 a letter was read from Mr C. W. Lesher, Director of Surveys, Department of highways in question, that in view of the fact that there is no provision for advertising and submission of By-law 840 that the powers set up under Section 399 of the Town and Village Act be repealed with regard to the closing of the roadway crossing strip used by aircraft.

At the same time a submission was placed before Council by Mr. H. P. Affolter objecting to the Department of Lands Forests placing the same signs and barricades on the roadway crossing the airstrip.

Mr Greer, the Town's Secretary Manager was directed to look into the machinery through which this road was barricaded and that Council recommend that it be without prejudice, the barricades be removed since the Town has now been requested to process the by-law as required by Section 399 of the Town and Village Act.

It is hoped that vehicles that are crossing this strip will keep in mind, your car or truck must stop in a few yards, but when the aircraft comes it is too late to look behind you — neighbor

United Church ladies busy with bazaar

"Novel but useful Christmas gifts attractively made and attractively priced" is the keynote for the fifth annual United Church Women's Association bazaar and tea Wednesday afternoon, November 15th, in the United Church basement hall on Hardisty Avenue.

New ideas and old will be featured among the handwork. Mrs Richardson said, adding that a high degree of ingenuity and craftsmanship could be expected. Fall shoppers, special dealers, head Northerls, and Christmas decorations for serviettes will be among new items presented, while old favorites including children's Christmas stockings, doll clothes, mittens, aprons, and colorful Christmas decorations.

Members of the Teen Church and C.G.I.T. will be selling hot dogs, pop-corn and soft drinks during the evening, and to make certain that no shopper goes hungry, ladies of the Woman's Association will also serve tea and refreshments.

THROUGH THE Study Window
By Rev. C. C. Armstrong

We are looking forward to "Look Behind You Neighbor". It promises to be one of the High Lights of the year Libby Hatlo's History Revisited anything of historic value will be almost strictly contemporal but it should be insights fun-entertainment and well worth seeing.

Those who are taking part in the presentation have spent endless hours in practising their parts Perhaps some of the members should go little...

The hours I've spent with thee, dear part, are like a string of pearls But Gee.

If I should count them so that string would stretch to Tennessee

Long hours of singing rehearsing and emoting are required But there is something more that is needed That is the quality which we call enthusiasm. It is the driving power the force which keeps things going It takes talent, linked with enthusiasm, to make possible such a production

Since the study is equipped with a dictionary, I looked up the word "enthusiasm" It comes from the days of the Greeks and really means "to be possessed or inspired by a god" from "en" meaning in and "theos" meaning "God"

The community, and the church, will always need enthusiastic people who feel a strong and happy desire to do a machine. The thing that is not to do may an awful lot to help relatively quick to say in a matter of weeks. Still other things may take years indeed, in entire lifetime Both require enthusiasm, but expressed in different ways The hundred yards dash is not the same as the Marathon, which requires sustained endurance Yet the sprinter and the long distance runner need to be enthusiastic, or they will never persevere to the...

In religious terms, enthusiasm is called "zeal" It is not a comfortable quality It may express itself in the desire to "set the world on fire" but such zeal is always likely to cool off

Dr Johnson of St Steph... who's college hills of a bishop in England talking to a man who had been ordained a few years He asked how Perhaps you have had your desire to set the world on fire But if you were loved into...

Desire would you still make it stick The world needs Christmas people who are enthusiastic enough to make things stick

The Deacon's column
By REV V. B. DOWDEN

In the course of time from November 1st to the 11th people throughout the world are remembering those who have passed through this life and are now at rest

November 1st All Saints Day when the Church remembers the great ones and warriors who fought for Christ and His Church, who lived and died bearing in their body the wound of the Lord Jesus.

November 2nd All Souls' Day, when the Church remembers the faithful departed such, for example, as members and friends, children friends etc and the Church prays for them in hope that possible, that God will draw them to Himself at the Last Day and reward them with a crown of glory

November 11th Remembrance Day, when people throughout the world remember their loved ones and all men and women who died on the battlefield.

And yet for all our remembering people still hold, that by remembering that which they are doing in their act of remembrance Time, like an ever-rolling stream

Bears all its sons away; They fly, forgotten, as a dream

Does at the opening day dawn to forgotten at bedtime upon one's mattress after awakening but surely we have not forgotten those who died in the First World War now forty three years later The Church, two thousand years from Her Divine found also does not forget Her Saints, nor does She forget faithful men and women who have lived and died in the Faith of Jesus Christ and we who live so close to the conclusion of two wars do not forget those lives were sacrificed on the battleground of man's selfishness They are not forgotten

God has made us intelligent creatures, capable of worshipping Him with a great deal of sense Oftentimes our minds are useless and without meaning incapable of being conscious to God but prayers, our hymns our daily talk about God should be plain talk, and if men and women can...

...we proclaim Therefore men should take care to...
...closely all that they would say about Him, to get and grasped up a notion and the fact that perhaps it is hymn that I know and can sing although the hymn may be stupid and insulting to God's majesty is to be honored by the responsible creature that God intends us to be

Perhaps it would be better if we were to shut up our ...pletely than to utter words which both outwitter our actions and insult the truth of the Christian religion

The truth of the Christian religious century around our central theme God is Love Remembrance Day may help us to our hearts and minds a reminder of hatred and pain and grief It should not do that It should recall to us, and we should rest on the fact that God is Love and all war is sinful because it puts us back into an animal state and makes us less than the holy creatures, God has formed us to be Perhaps a good test to remember Remembrance Day and throughout the whole of our lives is Love your enemies do good to them who persecute you" To suppose that the world will be a good place to live in if we would conquer our enemies by merciful means is to have little comprehension of what it is to be a Christian LOVE is the dominating fact in us this world and nothing else surpasses this supreme power To let this power live and to nourish it each every moment of patience that you have to have happiness in our lives, in our homes, in our relations with others, in the world Rather than defeat or to ignore those who would hate you, love them and they by fulfill the law of the Son of God who loved the world even though the world nailed Him to a Tree.

In Russia the communists closed the churches and then burned them into ... because the party is atheist, and in trying to stamp out Christianity In England the ... churches because they were ... and used for services. In Germany the Nazi closed the churches. Jesus Christ was a Jew in America the church members close the church because they do not appreciate Christianity enough to attend services.

The devil wants your church and the churches of your community closed, too life as getting so many church members as possible to help him Oh, you say, I would like to help him to close my church but if you do not attend regularly, that is just what you are doing He knows it The unsaved house of Where not attending, you keep others from attending by the influence you exert Your example tells your pastor he is unnecessary and servicing an unworthy cause You tell him that the message of God he has for you is not worth hearing in Your failure to attend church services is an insult to God's plan of salvation for you to say to God that you do not need His fellowship in the sanctuary nor comfort of the Holy Spirit

By not attending church services you encourage the indifferent attitude of the unsaved of your community They are not concerned about the things of God You make them feel comfortable in their atonement You profess to be a Christian, yet you show little concern for your own soul and less yet for others How can they be brought to realize the importance of salvation, when professors of Christianity are as cold as ice to ... things? If you do not attend church, you also neglect Bible reading and prayer, neither do you give the Lord His day, you allow sin to creep into your life Here are some of the inevitable results of failure to attend church To tell the truth you are a witness against the spirit of Christ How then shall the church carry out the great commission, when church members do not ... to mean by being faithful

November 4th Poppy Day
Honor the Dead — Remember the Living

They shall not grow old
As we that are left grow old
Age shall not weary them
Nor the years condemn.
But at the going down of the sun
And in the morning
We shall remember them!

To many of us Poppy Day is something that comes around each year and when approached we contribute towards a wreath or buy a poppy, and the true significance of the poppy and Poppy Day is completely forgotten.

In Canada the first poppy replicas were worn on the third anniversary of Armistice Day From the modest distribution of that day the custom has become universal, until last Remembrance Day nearly six million Canadians carried the symbol, while thousands of post war graves and hundreds of memorials and cenotaphs bore the evergreen emblem in the form of wreaths, sprays and individual flowers.

The Flanders Poppy replicas achieve the first and great purpose of remembrance remembrance of those thousands of gallant Canadians and brother Britons who on two world wars, sacrificed their lives on the altar of freedom Remembrance of those days when human values were placed in sharp relief, with the multitude of quiet devoted living people braiding every effort to achieve victory And remembrance is essential if future generations are to heed the lessons of those stupendous conflicts.

But contributory to this great purpose, the Flanders Poppy has been the means of fulfilling two other most worthy purposes. Appropriately enough, the manufacture of the poppy replicas has been concentrated in the hands of men who are broken by the conflict Men who are unemployable in the exacting conditions of ordinary commerce find in the manufacture of these little flowers a sorted task

The factors may not be notable and these day's output may be small, but they put into their results a significance that the rapid processes of manufacturing cannot possibly encompass For the disabled veteran in Veterans workshop, after creating true memorials while a poppy replica produced under ordinary commercial competitive conditions is nothing more than an artificial flower

No less significant is the third objective The distribution of these symbolic flowers each year is the means of accumulating funds in local centres which serve the splendid purpose of bringing relief to the distressed and disabled among those who fought and their dependants

Poppy replicas are not sold, but citizens are given an opportunity at the time of the annual distribution to contribute of their means towards this great purpose Thus the Flanders Poppy brings "Aid for the Living from the Dead"

If each and everyone of us strive conscientiously to fulfil the great purposes represented in the Flanders Poppy we will have done much to wards building high the torch which has been passed to us from the fallen hands of our comrades in arms who rest beneath the poppies of Flanders Field

Fence charger gets accepted eventually

Our next door neighbor and three small girls had been in a cold sweat ever since we mentioned the fact that we had ordered an electric fence charger. They were sure that they would regret such a foolhardy move on our part, because as would not be on hand to regret it our selves. The electric charger was a new contraption to us and really was not to be trusted.

We appreciated their interest but despite warning of duty consequences, hooked it up and stood well back.

Our neighbors, rallied to view at the once over but were home more than ever perturbed after watching a raff pulsate impulsive zone against the charged wire and sit down with a thump.

One day shortly after the advent of this battery operated contraption an especially loud voiced neighbor came to see my husband. Upon hearing advised that he was not clear on the neighbor walked out back and after all a series of ear splitting bellows such as earthet, you never heard the beat of it. In a matter of seconds, I happened to glance down the lane to see my neighbors, all four of them coming along that road at a terrific clip. The girls had nothing on mother that day she was right out in the lead and running around with every pump.

I rushed to the door, thinking there house must be on fire or something equally disastrous. They never even slowed down just rushed to the back gate, looked at the fence charger from a safe distance, then flopped down and began drawing fresh air into four sets of overtaxed lungs. After a few good deep breaths, they were able to explain. They had heard the thudding and fetched my husband had become entangled with the fence charger and was hollering his last.

We enjoyed many a laugh over it, our neighbors and ourselves, once they became reconciled to the fact that the charger was comparatively harmless.

Eldon Rasmussen has best year yet

Opening day at Speedway Park on May 24 this year saw the list of a season highlighted by win after win as Hinton's Eldon Rasmussen picked up enough Stock Car racing trophies to last some people a life time.

On that date he had already got his stride and was off to take the Bronze Cup, symbolic trophy of the fastest time for the 100 lap feature, for the second time in two years.

His next big race was on June 2 when he won the Prader Construction annual trophy for 100 lap race. From there he invaded the racing circles in Washington State returning home without a trophy, but with a 3rd place in the feature race tucked under its belt.

Back in Speedway Park for the Labor Day race on July 12, Eldon and his crew ran into trouble on the 50th lap when he broke a rear axle and finished second to Cliff Spalding of Seattle. By July 26 he had the Hornet back in top shape to take the Cubbe District Trophy for a Class A 50 lap feature.

August 6 he came in second after Art Pollard of Roseburg, Oregon in the Gold Cup 200 lap race. Back in the States a month later he ran in minor races before going on to win second place in Salt Lake city's Cup Race. Here again he lost to Art Pollard in a two heat total run race for a lot of 250 laps. In this race Eldon met a lot of new drivers, competing against cars from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona, and California. In all a total of 100 cars were entered in the race.

Back in Edmonton he took the Green's Garage Trophy on August 23 for a 25 lap race and from here he returned to Victoria for the Labor Day running of the Western Canadian Championship races and additional honors. He won the feature race at Victoria on September 2, a 100 lap event to add their Gold Cup Trophy to his growing list of trophies. Two days later, on Labor Day, he won the Daffodil Cup in a 100 lap race, symbolic of Western Canada Championship.

In winning this race Eldon and his Hornet also broke the Victoria track record knocking it down to 18.61 seconds on a four tenth mile lap. Their old record for this type of car was previously 19.56 seconds. The midget car record was 18.96 seconds and the sprint car record was 18.76 seconds. The record set by Eldon is .35 seconds faster than any type of car has set on the track.

Seconds count not only in race time but in the timing trials as the car that makes first in the timing trials gets the best starting position and so on down the line. In view of this Eldon did particularly well in his next race at Portland, Oregon. He turned in 5th place in this 200 lap race and had worked up to second position by the 175th lap. Motivation was following in this race and he burned out the right front tire at this point. Due to a very competent pit crew only one minute and 44 seconds was lost in changing the tire and Eldon and his Hornet ended in 4th place starting position.

This was a larger track than most, having a five eighth mile lap where speeds of 140 to 145 can be reached in the straightaways, cutting down to 80 and 90 on the corners.

Eldon's racing is something of a family affair. This past season has seen his brother Arnold attending to his needs as a first class pit man who knows how to save seconds where seconds count. This summer driving the Hornet in the Sponsors Special race in Speedway Park Arnold took the field and won handily down.

His oldest brother Gordon also raced the Hornet and won the Oldtimers Race in Edmonton. This was Gordon's first race since 1952 and Eldon said his big brother was taking it pretty cool and didn't open her up at all."

The big brother in the Rasmussen family started racing Model T's on half mile horse tracks back in 1941 and continued until 1949 entering races in Alberta and Saskatchewan. The second brother Arnold got into the act for the last two years learning the rudiments of putting on well that he is now the big wheel in Eldon's pit crew.

The family started running Model T's again in 1952 in Southern Alberta with fifteen year old Eldon behind the wheel. After four years that season Eldon was ready to step into stock cars and with the fever in his blood Eldon has been at it ever since wherever the opportunity arose.

A trophy not yet listed is the one most prized by Eldon this year. This is the Edmonton Auto Racing Association Trophy for the most popular driver. This trophy not only signifies crowd popularity, but more important, in Eldon's eyes, is the fact that the trophy winner is finally determined by vote among fellow drivers.

Looking back over the past season Eldon estimates that he has driven about 10,000 miles taking in the races in Edmonton, Victoria and the Western States. This next year a Calgary syndicate plans to build a quarter mile track in the southern city. It should add interest to stock car racing in Alberta. A $250,000 three eighth mile track is being built in Seattle to open April 2 1962. Eldon expects the track to be his opening race for the season.

What of the future? Up to now Eldon says his racing has been nothing more than a hobby. This year he has collected quite a bit on his Main Junkers with more to come about speed cars. They think he has the potential and he'd like to have a try at it but can't see it in the very near future.

Just now he is looking long ranges at sprint car racing the more sophisticated and dangerous type of car racing that has Indianapolis as its ultimate goal.

PREVENT TRAVELLING GRAIN LOSSES

An investment of $30 to $40 for a tarpaulin to prevent grain losses and the open ad of weed seeds will pay for it self many times over. In fact any farmer can realistically afford not to have a tarpaulin on his truck when hauling grain at the stage to unload the load of grain, straw and combine seeds.

Losses from hauling grain to elevators and cleaning plants and elsewhere in open trucks amount to thousands of dollars every year. Only recently checks have shown an Alberta farmer lost 13 bushels of barley in 18 miles another lost 6 bushels in 15 miles and an Manitoba a farmer leaked 40 miles an hour in a 10 mile an hour wind lost 20 bushels of No 1 feed oats during a ten mile haul. In still another case 17 bushels of wheat were lost on an 8 mile haul on a 20 mile per hour wind. Losses in flax or chopped grain would be considerably higher.

Since weed seeds are mainly responsible for the annual 2 to 3 percent shortage in commercial grain, very serious consideration should be given to the control of weeds on farms. Statistics show that in the prairie weed are already responsible for an average in excess of $40,000 per farm. Many farmers are not aware of the fact that under the Noxious Weeds Act they are responsible for the control of weeds in the entire field or road allowances of their farm and land that is not is another reason why farmers should use tarpaulins and prevent noxious weeds from being sown.

HINTS TO BETTER FLAVOR IN MILK AND BUTTER

1. Be sure you cool fresh milk and cream before adding it to the previous collection.

2. Try to feed only good quality hay especially during the winter months.

3. Be sure that your milk or cream are more than is necessary.

4. Watch for bitter flavors in milk from cows late in lactation.

5. Keep utensils and milking machines free from rust.

How to own two cars and still make ends meet.

Buy two Volkswagens. You go your way. She goes her way. And your budget won't know the difference.

Here's why two Volkswagens will cost you less than one conventional car.

Think we're kidding?

Let's get serious.

The VW gets 38 miles to a gallon of gas. (More on the highway, a little less in traffic.) You'll never add oil between changes, and when it's time for a change, four and a half pints will do it.

You'll never need anti-freeze because the VW has no radiator. The engine is cooled with air. (Don't worry if you have two Volkswagens and one garage. The VW won't freeze.)

A Volkswagen can be repaired faster for less money. For example, we don't replace half the car to correct a crumpled fender. We can bolt on a new one in minutes.

You may be surprised how little it costs to buy a Volkswagen. We've been able to keep the price low because we never change the basic VW design. We just keep making it better.

Any dealer who sells two cars for the price of one deserves recognition. And a pat [illegible]

Northern Alberta tour enjoyable

When one spoke of the North a few years back it was the land of 12 ft. Davis. Yourk boats on Lesser Slave and the area around the "Cold" water. Hardy pioneers from many lands with varied vocations and with implements, supplies and equipment settled the country and found "Peace".

"It is a good country . . . that is why we live here" stated Mayor Forsith at Peace River.

While the pioneers had toiled the Lakes and on the bush ground around the muskegs, today modern highways have opened up this vast recreational area. Members of the writers' tour sponsored by the Alberta Tourist Association found that the "North Frontier" has been pushed back in the past quarter of a century.

Members of Chambers of Commerce, Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs and enthusiastic individuals from the Northland extended us a warm hospitality as we journeyed the touring waters. In Flanders Fields

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly.
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields.

AN ALBERTA BOILER THAT FAILED

Boiler explosion is warning of hazard

The hazards of carrying out improper repairs or neglecting the maintenance of low and high pressure boilers is evidence by the recent explosion of a giant low pressure vessel in an Alberta town Boiler Branch inspectors of the Alberta Department of Labour warn operators of pressure boilers to ensure the vessel is properly operated within the positions of the Boilers and Pressure Vessels Act.

The recent near-disastrous incident involving a pressure vessel secured when stay bolts securing a steel wrapper sheet around a heating plant unit failed as the result of repairs undertaken by an unqualified welder The pressure, estimated at five lbs. per square inch, burst and retaining bolts hurling the 2500 pound steel wrapper one and one-half blocks from the site where it fortunately landed on an open street The building which housed the unit was completely demolished as was an adjoining garage The operator was subsequently convicted for offences under the Act.

The 28 inspectors of the Boilers Branch who administer the Boilers and Pressure Vessels Act regularly inspect the 1500 high pressure and 4000 low pressure boilers registered by statute throughout the province. All installations are examined approximately every two years. Included in the legislation are regulations governing the design, fabrication and installation of vessels and the technical training required to carry out welding repairs to a boiler. A certificate issued by the Branch is required if the installation is to be operated.

Such regulations have been in effect in Alberta since the turn of the century Branch records contain references to inspections made in 1906 when the province was part of the Northwest Territories. Regulations regarding the design and installation of vessels have been in force since 1920 The recent explosion was the first such incident recorded by the Boilers Branch during the history of the Province

How true!

As an illustration of the kind of man his company is eager to employ, H. P. Corson, a vice-president of Consair, told a group of graduate apprentices the story of an army engineer who was summoned by General MacArthur The general wanted to know if it was feasible to throw a bridge across a certain stream The engineer assured him that it was

"Good," said MacArthur. "Have your draftsmen make drawings, right away." Three days later he sent for the engineer and asked him how the bridge was coming along

It's all ready," the engineer said "You can send troops across right now That is you can if you don't have to wait for the drawings They aren't done yet

Pedestrians please help

Most males of 16 years of age and older can drive a vehicle of one kind or another

Many of the fair sex also drive cars, but every one of us is at some time or another a pedestrian

But just as when we are behind the wheel so we do crazy and dangerous things when we are afoot

How many times in town and cities, does the squeal of brakes signal another near miss sometimes not a miss as a jay walker runs out from behind a parked vehicle A smart and alert driver has prevented an imprudent walker from becoming a statistic

Pride-strain come in many types There's the bold reckless guy who resents deaster with a smile, the dreamer who, for all the notice he takes of traffic could be on the desert the I-dare-you to hit me kind, and the ultra-timid and plenty of others

No matter in which category they are in however, they all have to be watched by very carefully, especially on busy streets and in intersections.

During a motor vehicle requires the person at the wheel to watch traffic ahead on both sides and behind Traffic lights and all the many and varied signs relating to speed school zones and the like also have to be watched for and obeyed so all in all a driver is kept on the alert Years ago, in say walkers only add to the general confusion and often have tragic results

Help the driver and your self by walking intelligently Cross streets only at intersections Stay within the crosswalks Don't take the driver by surprise Look left, look right, and look for fast moving traffic Never dash into the street Never walk suddenly from a spot where vision is blocked by the view At night wear light colored clothing or carry something white (a large handkerchief or a newspaper) Where there are no sidewalks walk on the LEFT side of the road facing the traffic Do not look your best with your back to the traffic

Hi Comrades. Here we are once again.

Herbie, I don't see any sign of anybody asking us any questions yet. Maybe no one reads what we talk about However there's time yet

What is out subject this week, dad or do we make a revision of what we have discussed? Well son, I think not You know that reminds me of the fellow who was put on the carpet for having his toes polished so you could see your face in them and the back one chrome at all. I say, explain, I asked the officer Yes, Sir replied the fellow. A good soldier never looks behind Sir He always looks ahead Ahead! So let's follow suit and look ahead

Remembrance Day is just ahead Let's take stock Are we ready for that monotonous anniversary on November 11th? Are we commencing to think of what it means to us individually and to all of us collectively Let us hope that we never have to add to our remembrances The burden is heavy enough now

I agree with you dad and since that is so let us keep our thoughts along that line When the New Year is born, let us remember our mistakes and errors of the past year in order that we may not repeat them I hope we may go on to bigger and better things

"By the light, of the silvery moon . . ." was just about the only light fifty years ago. After the sun went down you might see the odd flickering light on the main street of your town but otherwise everything was in darkness. Night-time baseball, hockey or curling were unknown.
What a difference today, with attractive high-powered mercury-vapor or fluorescent lights. What a comfort to be able to walk or drive safely through brightly lit streets to visit friends or neighbors. Calgary Power is pleased to power these true "beacons of progress."

Let us not forget

"Lest we forget" on Remembrance Day, November 11th 1961, those who did not come back from the destructive wars of the first half of this century.

Will this generation be spared a repetition of the bloodshed and horror of modern war? A repetition which could be catastrophic for the whole of mankind? Have all the sacrifices of the past been in vain?

Cruel and ambitious men still walk the earth, yet there is reason to believe there is hope for continued peace and it arises from the very technology which has made war almost too horrible to contemplate

Let us solemnly hope this is so, as we pay our tribute to the fallen and remember those others who are maimed and disabled for the rest of their lives because of war

It is easy to shut our minds against the picture. Those of us who have had no actual contact with the suffering and uselessness of war, but we must not forget the ever present danger lest we be destroyed by our own forgetfulness and disinterest

Dear Sirs

It was with genuine appreciation and deep honor that I received the Golden Jubilee Scroll with the seal of Edson on it The document is beautiful and I shall treasure it the rest of my life I value highly the profound determination expressed in it to build well upon the foundations to which the first citizens contributed so much

I must also to express my thanks for the editorial in the Edson Leader of September 28 1961 It was charmingly written I read it with great delight It made me yearn to return if only for a little while to the Edson I once loved so much.

I should like to express my special gratitude to Mrs. E. Uhlf for her endeavors on behalf of us who live so far away. Through her we were able to speak again as it were with Edson, after a span of half a century It reassures me that though all my experiences and different places I have lived in I can still recreate myself as really the same individual who lived in Edson and loved the people

Annie Herbert Fehala
Mrs. Joseph H Fehala

Dear Sir,

In the past few months there have been fatal accidents on Highway 16 west of Edson

The stretch of highway between Edson and Gainford is a much used piece of road both by vehicles and pedestrians It is also badly illuminated at night There is NO footpath or sidewalk.

Various authorities have deplored as in the past, and still do in fact, to observe the traffic laws for safety's sake, the various modes

Surely in the name of common sense the authorities of the town of Edson and the municipality in which Gainford is situated could get together and solve the problem of the murder strip by building a sidewalk

This situation requires immediate ACTION.

Yours truly
Fred Aston

CAPITOL REPORT

Government won't budge

By KEN MASON

Edmonton With surprisingly little discussion the Union of Alberta Municipalities last week passed a resolution, asking the government to relax the two-thirds majority vote required for water fluoridation. Conventioned delegates agreed only a simple majority should be required to pass a fluoridation bylaw.

The resolution, submitted by the Town of Hinton said that under the existing provisions of the Health Act it is virtually impossible to fluoridate public water supplies.

It didn't take long for the resolution to be shot down in flames. The following day, Premier Manning was asked if the government would review the fluoridation law in view of the resolution.

His answer would indicate the government won't even consider the resolution. He said the government "definitely won't change" the two-thirds majority requirement.

Mr. Manning said fluoridation is something that goes beyond the local interests of municipalities. He said it involves a fundamental human right, and this is something with which the government should not tamper.

The premier made it clear he isn't swayed by anti-fluoridation propaganda about rat poison and threats to the public health. He dismissed this sort of talk as nonsense."

But he added that the medicare plan soon takes to his own business. And in a matter such as fluoridation, if the by-law is passed everyone is affected, whether he wants it or not. Hence, he said, there should be more than a simple majority.

Mr Manning was asked if the government might conduct an educational campaign to acquaint the people with the facts about fluoridation — then can vote intelligently.

He replied that some years ago the government set up a committee of the research council which made a thorough study of fluoridation. The government has no fear that responsibility in the matter, he said.

The Union of Alberta Municipalities convention heard plenty of news last week. Municipal Affairs Minister Alf Hooke announced that the government feels its about time to try out the county system in heavily populated areas.

Apparently later, Mr Hooke said here that might be a good town for the experiment and he agreed either Edmonton or [illegible] would be good time for city trials

He said the County Act may be amended at the next session of the Legislature to pave the way for setting up urban counties. But he made it clear the system won't be forced on communities. The experiment won't be undertaken until a town and city volunteer. The outlook the trial could start is in January of 1963

It seems like a logical move. By the first of the New Year Alberta is on the verge of a major economic boom. Just a week ago Provincial Treasurer Ted Hinman said Alberta came through the recession in better shape than most provinces and is heading Canada in new prosperity

And last week Industry and Development Minister Hugh Patrick added his voice to the chorus. He said flatly that Alberta will become a large industrial centre "in the very immediate future."

Mr Patrick said existing industries will expand and that new will be made of [illegible] already in Alberta. There's [illegible] of money on the province, he said, and all that remains is to find markets for it in the form of new industry. He said he's confident he believes the problem of a limited market and attract foreign capital will be overcome.

What is a teenager made of?

A teenager has passed the "slacks and shirts and preppy dog's tails" stage. By the time he reaches his teens, he's a lovingly wrapped bundle of mature thoughts and desires in a suddenly shooting up body. He finds himself in a new world, no longer fenced by the school playground and the backyard confines. The world of a teenager is bounded only by the limits of his imagination.

In this infancy of pleasures and problems of growing up shines one star to which every teenager fastens his wagon—the star of adult recognition, appreciation and understanding. Each youngster wants to be accepted by his peers; each youngster worries about belonging.

If he's an unusually gifted youth, he achieves his star of recognition by excelling on the football field or by making honor roll grades. But less than five per cent of the millions of teenagers of today are this gifted.

At the other end of the scale, a youth, frustrated in his desire because he isn't mentally or physically equipped to compete with quiz kids or sports stars, achieves the recognition he craves by breaking the law. Fortunately, less than five per cent of today's young people seek recognition as juvenile

But what of the majority of young people in the middle? Over 80 per cent of today's teenagers, hungry for recognition and appreciation, are passed by because their names don't make news. Indeed, this huge middle majority often carries the burden of the bad name that a few misguided teenagers have earned for themselves.

Over 2000 teenage clubs in the United States and Canada are attempting to give peace and understanding where they are being overdone with a Youth Appreciation Week, November 13-19 through efforts of well over 30,000 optimists during the past four years of the Youth Appreciation Week program, less emphasis has been given to teenagers who are really delinquents. Optimists have helped redeem the reputation of the young people of North America by gaining recognition to those who abide by the rules of juvenile decency.

Help the Optimists give today's young people the pat on the back they need and deserve during Youth Appreciation Week. Take youth a confident start in the long journey to tomorrow with a gesture of appreciation today.

Over one hundred young people turned out for the weekly meeting last Sunday in the Parish Hall.

Mr George Collin a representative from the Optimist Club spoke to the members for a few minutes on the subject of Youth Appreciation week. The Optimists of course take a great deal of interest in young people, and when Mr Bowden was invited to the optimist's dinner last week he received the assurance of approval from the Optimist Club.

There was some discussion about the results of Hallowe'en night and the members were informed that next year the Hallowe'en dance will be held on that specific night rather than Sunday evening.

We have now procured our own record player Ted Given

Wayne Mallett and Mr. and Mrs Walton went to Edson last Saturday and came back with our new purchase. The Club is extremely grateful to Mr and Mrs Walton without whom the remarkable purchase of the new record player would have been a temporary impossibility. It is hoped that the machine will give us enjoyment for as long as possible.

There will be an Executive dinner meeting in Mr Bowden's suite next Sunday evening November 12th, at 5:30 p.m. Executive please take note. There it is hoped that some plans will be made for the New Year's Eve dance for which the Club has hired the hall. What can be said at the moment is that tickets will be sold to members only, three weeks before the dance, probably at $1.25 a couple or $.75 single. We hope to make this a semi formal affair, and comparable, on a ten-cent level to a normal New Year's Eve party. There will of course be no drinking. A violation of this rule will have serious consequences not only for the individual but for the group as well. Anyway, more about all this later.

This Sunday evening, regular meeting at 8:30 p.m. closing time 10:45 p.m.

Gets movie of battling local moose

It is a well known fact that bathing bull moose do not receive much horn- literally speaking- and lose their lives in the process.

A local hunter and camper, on recently came upon two such animals one was dead but the men got there in time to save the other. The lucky survivor was very weak but after being unlatched from his unfortunate adversary, managed to stumble away from the battle grounds.

It is said that one of the hunters was fortunate in having a movie camera and got some excellent shots of the entire rescue proceedings.

Support your local Winter Employment Campaign

Why postpone enjoyment of needed improvement around your home, plant or business?

Every year many Canadians learn that winter is merely lost time to get all sorts of jobs done.

Skilled workers are more readily available, and, in the main, productive, give you better value for your dollar. Many firms also offer discounts in the off-season lull.

In addition to home improvements there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances and hard motors and automobiles, as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.

By taking a realistic approach to winter work you will also be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When we are busy work, everybody benefits.

On first observing the heal ing of this column you might wonder if the recent spell of spring like weather has caused us my memory. This is not the case, however, as you will realize among further Recent experiments by Dr W F Campbell of the Can da Agriculture Laboratory of Plant Pathology in Edmonton have shown that grain can be treated with an organic mer cury fungicide any time dur ing the winter prior to seed ing. This does not mean, how ever, that insecticides for wireworm treatment are in the same category Have seed grain might resort to early treatment with an insecticide in mind, clear.
Seed grain treatment for germination of covered smut and seedling rots is stan farm practice at any time but insecticides should be ap plied to the seed only when needed Even mercury fungi cides if used in excess can damage the seed and this excess can happen more eas ily if an insecticide fungicide is used

It's like this says Dr Camp bell When treating with a fungicide you are adding a certain amount per bushel With an insecticide you are using so much per acre At a seeding rate of two bushels per acre a given amount of insecticide is required per bushel When applied as a mixture, this means that twice as much fungicide also is being used, with disastrous re sults to germination of the seed.

Where fungicide and insec ticide seed treatments are both required, add them to the grain separately, says Dr Campbell. When mixing pes ticides with commercial fer tilizer, this means that twice as much fungicide also is being used, with disastrous re sults to germination of the seed.

Another point of caution — read the instructions on the fungicide container before treating seed Use of formalin (formaldehyde) or other non organic mercury compounds during winter may cause se vere damage to seed.

WARM AFTERGLOW FROM PAGEANT

With [illegible] Edson Pageant There is the words and music shaped up under professional author ing the description start ed to become a new Canadian musical comedy It was that all right but it had a magnificent mixing pageant of the boisterous times and hardly people who got Edson off to a start as a town

You can't have 75 or more people rehearsing catchy original tunes and proud Edson words in several locations around town without there gradually being a groundswell of enthusiasm. The extent of this enthusiasm was hard to assess ahead of the presentation. As the date of the original three nights neared the ticket committee realized all their advance tickets had been snapped up. Sunday afternoon matinee was mandated to take care of those turned away from the packed High School Auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The pageant reflected not only the boisterous times of the men who had to drive through the railroad and drive the stage and mine the coal but the vanities brought into the east and the old country the proud ers. The speculative greed the sacrifice of cutting out a home in the raw bush and a romantic little love story of a eastern school marm getting her western man

Great strides taken in work for retardees

A realistic program of adult services for retarded is the next major objective of the Retarded Children's Association across Canada according to H. Jeques Vice President of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children.

"There are now nearly 200 schools, operated by our associations in cooperation with the various Provincial Departments of Education and local municipal authorities. These schools are a direct result of co-operative effort by our associated volunteers and wholehearted community support" Mr Jeques said.

"Now we are turning our attention to the need for adult services that school programs are designed to prepare retarded children for life within the limits of their capacities. Some will be able to participate in sheltered work-shops and others with more limited capabilities will always require supervised facilities and activities to keep them healthily and happily occupied within their home communities.

In addition to the graduates of our schools, there are thousands of retarded adults already in our community who have not had the benefit of our schools and at the present time we have no facilities for suitable investigation or training programs available to them. As a result of joint projects we know that we can provide adult programs which will help edit this group and their families.

At the moment our adult programs are confined to a relatively small number of communities. Within the next few years however we must have centers ready at least in every community where our associations are now operating schools. It is our hope that the Provincial Governments will also assist in this area of need by providing facilities in the communities.

One of the problems we must face in developing adult services is the need for improved methods of preparing children for life in the community. The Department of Health, Welfare Labour and Education of our various provincial governments and local school boards should be able to contribute help for this area of need. Another major problem is the need for improving the understanding of our industries in the role they can play in providing for useful and productive lives for retarded adults.

The task we face offers tremendous challenge and ever expanding rewards to our society. The success of our associations have enjoyed over the past decade, however indicates that we should also be able to carry out this phase of our objectives. Never before has there been more public support than we have obtained when we have told our story and asked for help. We believe that we will continue to enjoy this support and interest and through it be able to co-ordinate and develop and develop those services for retarded adults which should be available in every community in Canada.

HIGH FLIGHT

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds—and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of—wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.

Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, or even eagle flew—
And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space
Put out my hand and touched the face of God.

Pilot Officer John G. Magee, Jr.

Reverend [illegible] — Pastor

The Bible says, "If any man thirst" This does not mean that some men do and some do not if it is not the will of probabilities but of hope All human beings thirst for God They are so constituted Although millions do not know the true God and suffer much in not knowing Him for whom they are thirsting

They first seek satisfaction in the worship of false gods or of men In drinking in religions and others with modern notions think their souls will be satisfied with money pleasure possessions etc But they remain thirsty still There soul is thirsting for the living God and they do not know it

To such the word of the gospel is come we to the natives The Spirit and the bride say Come take of the water of life freely The invitation is given that whosoever drinketh of this water will never thirst again and millions have drunk that to their satisfied need and have proved promises true The attraction of the world with its possessions is powerless to quench the thirst and indulgence of the flesh is not required or promised Christ He is the fountain

But the discovery of God sent in Christ which is the experience of every child of God is a wonderful thing It begets and new being gives a new nature Those who have received it have no more of His satisfying and sanctifying presence

So like the Psalmist we still long, you aren't faint for the presence of the Lord as the pilgrim desires water in a dry and thirsty land

We are too passing through a world across the world run of fret no sadness, or satisfy drink and drunk again of His grace Let the one who hungers and hears on drink to the one whose life desires of blessing keep on flowing

The latest issue of News week magazine has provided some dramatic and estimates of costs of fallout shelters The article indicates that for $150.00 or thereabouts a private fallout shelter can be built in any considerable back shed sheets and sand Another design intended for a group of 100 people would cost approximately $15,000 For a community of 3,000 this would be an outlay of $450,000.00 but the advocates of this seem do not work out the costs

The article says There is evidence that the Administration of U S is pushing which they think can be accomplished without panic if all the family unit is provided with adequate shelter and will deal with the [illegible] of life and death as they [illegible] in terms of the suffering conditions and [illegible] of our Lord

Mr Mace ranked the Father and Son banquet two years ago with Laughlin when he spoke on what he's not mad at their nuts also featured at this years banquet by Mr Robert A. Lang an Edmonton Locksmith who has fashioned a career of [illegible] for The Great Houdini. Mr Lang appeared on Television a short time ago when he was handcuffed and tied in a trunk, the trunk tied and locked and within a few seconds he is out of the trunk and his wife is in it in the same predicament as he was.

Again this year presentation of awards will be made to final Edson Boy Scouts for their years achievements. The awards will be presented by District Commissioner Dwight Thompson of Hinton. It might be of interest to know that in order to attend this banquet, a boy does do not have to be a member of the Optimist Club and Fathers can bring an adopted son if they do not have a son to bring. AS I SEE IT

Reverend E. HUBO — Pastor

This is youth appreciation week. May we ask ourselves, do we really appreciate our youth? How have we check ed to determine your answer

The best and only guide book to be recommended for the purpose is the Word of God. The Bible tells us that the nature of man is altogether evil from his youth. Christ is God's revelation and as an example for our youth.

We teach them to play well, and to sing well and many other valuable things that is needful for our youth but do we teach them to love and serve their Creator.

There was once a father who drank to excess, and each morning on his way to the office he would stop at the bar that stood alongside of his home for that which he considered to be necessary to start his day with his nerves.

On morning his small three year old boy followed his fa ther's footsteps as the father left the house and when he came to the door of the bar he opened the door and rush ed in to his father like fa ther much surprised, said to the little lad, "what are you doing on this place" and the little boy replied "I am just following in your footsteps daddy."

Yes our youth look to us for example and if we are to show our appreciation for the youth in our homes, and the youth of our town, we will have a balanced program that shall cause our youth to ap preciate parents who have a balance in their lives, and have stood the test, that has not only built houses, but com munities and nations.

Our youth deserve the best We are going to give them the best or served best this appreciation week and all of the weeks to follow

The Bible says, that His home is the house of prayer but you have made it . . . Lay no return to the faith that has made our country what it is, and be able to have something worth while to give to the youth of our country and show them not only apprecia tion but real love that can only be shown in this way Was this Sunday find you in your church with your youth

By REV. V. S. DOWDEN

I heard two very interest ing stories this week — true stories at that.

One concerns a cure for rheumatism This lady's fa ther was crippled up with this disease Then someone told that if she was to get a guinea pig in the house she would discover that her father's rheumatism would disappear So off she went to buy one and brought it back home

In a very short period of time her father was able to walk around once again as the oddest thing happened The guinea pig contracted rheu matism and died! An inter esting story but one which I do not know whether or not has stood medical approval

The second story centers a round a young girl's child hood She was coming home from school one day and on the ground in front of her was a snake and a frog. They were facing each other a few feet apart

Eventually the frog came up closer and closer to the snake and the snake finally devoured the frog the snake bulging out of course because the frog was quite a bit bi ger than the snake

Why said I on my return once . . . should the frog submit so easily and just step on non chalantly into the snake's mouth?

The lady replied "Why my because the snake had hypno tized the frog."

For one who had never heard such a story before it was "food" for thought

One might suppose that my topic of Youth Appreciation Week has nothing to do with the above stories, but to be possessed of an imagination helps to get one out of such a predicament Young peo ple are often similar to the guinea pig or the frog

They are often blamed for things which they have had no control over at all Par ents are often more guilty than their children of the dif ficulties which their children get into

And yet young people like the guinea pig are infected with the sins of the fathers and it is not difficult to dis cover the type of home from which certain children have come

When they contact a dis ease which had its beginning in the home they often die in any institution of Who find is why He gave unto the Church to bring them closer to Him there so often die in what is meant be low

Youth Appreciation Week perhaps might be synonymous with Adult Consecration Week if it were not for the fact that there ARE adults who refu

By Rev. C. C. Armstrong

The study window is on the front of the manse and the kitchen window is at the back When looking out the study window one can ob serve daily, the large num ber of young people going to and from school When one looks out the kitchen window one can observe frequently one or two young people in the custody of the police There are far more who pas the front than there are who find themselves in serious trouble and in the hands of the police

One needs to be reminded of this fact We make no commend pay very little at tention to the youngsters who are not in trouble like we do notice those who have done something that we con sider wrong We are prone to forget that the great ma jority of young people do not get into difficulties through breaking the law and that the percentage of juvenile de linquents is a small percent age We need a "Youth Ap preciation Week" to remind us of this

What can we parents do to ensure that the number of youngsters in trouble will be very small and that the num ber who are happily prepar ing for adult life be correspondingly large" What can we do to way of guidance? Here are seven suggestions called from a new magazine called The Christian Home"

1 Love your child a sense of closeness to you and give to him the kind of love you would like to receive in re turn

2 Try to develop a sense of self confidence by showing him your own trustworthi ness

3 Help him know that there are things in life that give inner joy and that you can share beautiful and let him know what they are

4 Give him opportunity to make creative acts, starting with what ability he has at the moment and not the abil ity that can be developed only in time

5 Teach him that the best discipline will seem at first to be unpleasant to himself, but that afterwards it brings pleasant results, whereas the the undisciplined life becomes the dissatisfied life

6 Help the child realize that he needs others and that others need him, and that inter dependence and mutual helpfulness are the hallmarks of maturity.

7 Nurture in him an aware ness of God's world and what we human beings are, and who God is, and how we are to love and serve Him.

CIVIL DEFENSE

The local view

The recent test of Civil Defence, or Emergency Measures Organization as it is now called, received quite a panning for errors of omission by the city press and radio. On the local level there is much to be learned by the key people who turned out for the Fission B warning alarm from CD headquarters.

Aside from a chance direct hit, any emergency planning by districts such as ours, far removed as we are from logical target areas, will have to be looked from what we might be called upon to do, this month. If Edmonton were a target as this exercise suggested, we would have refugees on our hands in a matter of a couple of hours.

The exercise presumed Highway 16 would be clogged and that the elements of chaos would be on our doorstep. However, when three thousands of refugees reached us there would be the immediate problem of shelter, food, possibly clothing and medical supplies and services. Preservation of law and some semblance of order would be an immediate problem. The mayor of the town, his council and officers of the CD organization would be responsible for getting priorities on medical attention, food, fuel and other essentials.

The one thing that impressed us about this test of our capabilities locally was our complete helplessness without some stock piling ahead of time of essential food and medical supplies. This is an area where the senior governments should and must plan for decentralizing supply depots.

It is absurd that regular army and militia units should be grouped in close around what could be major target areas. Surely it is time that towns our size should have every modern militia establishments called by key regular officers and NCO's. Such dispersed units could easily be the only surviving members of our armed forces in the event of all-out hostilities.

Our situation on the fringe of the mountains presumably would give us more protection than some more easterly communities. We are also off to one side of the alleyway between what appears to be the major antagonists of any future war. This editor has personally broached this point of view to senior CD officials and it is something that community leaders should not be backward in pointing out.

Also from the international dangers arising from hoping the lives of millions of North Americans people depending upon the whim of an Asiatic dictator, there is the peace time value of such decentralized planning.

A major catastrophe such as an uncontrollable nuclear fire could throw us into chaos without war. With a single rail link and a single highway we are vulnerable to many emergency disasters of more modest but nonetheless [illegible] planning and LOCAL organization can be ready to combat.

Volunteers will be asked for in several categories as our Plan opens planning takes shape. All citizens, both male and female, should seriously consider training themselves for community service of this type.

Ponish hoping that disaster will not strike is not enough.

Dear Sir

With the ever increasing population of our town, may I suggest to the powers that be, an extension of an additional Dentist to come here the situation as it is now. Extemal with out dentist booked up for months it's impossible to get dental assistance when you need it.

I have had trouble in this respect, but am told notbing can be done for at least month this is a very unpleasant emergency having to go for until there is an opening in his piled up appointments!

Many a tooth could be saved if dental work could be done in time, there is definite room in our town for another dentist

Please let's try and get one soon

CAPITOL REPORT

B. C. nationalizing oil too?

By KEN MASON

Edmonton — Premier Social Credit, British Columbia style is taking some strange turns and some observers are beginning to suspect that the giant B.C. Electric Company was a surprising move from an unlikely source, premier philosophy is extremely right wing and dedicated to free enterprise.

But now Mr. Bennett seems to be on the verge of nationalizing the oil industry in his province and this is something that could cause more than a little concern in Alberta.

Government officials in Alberta aren't saying much. They're going to wait and see. But some oil industry people I've spoken to say Mr. Bennett has already nationalized the oil industry.

What he's done to tell the major refiners in the Vancouver area that they must use B.C. crude oil to the extent that it's available.

Right now of course it's hardly available at all. So Mr. Bennett has told the major oil companies to step up exploration and find more crude oil to meet B.C. refining needs.

To this end Imperial Oil Ltd. (natural assets Ltd.) is to be drilling 40 develop ment wells in the Boundary Lake field of north-eastern B.C. bordering the Alberta — River block.

The Boundary Lake crude oil will go to Vancouver by a new $21,000,000 pipeline now built from Taylor Flats B.C., south of Dawson Creek where it will join the existing Trans Mountain pipeline. It is expected that by next year the line will be carrying about 25,000 barrels of oil per day from Boundary Lake to Kamloops.

Officials of the oil industry say neither the development drilling nor the new pipeline is economic sense.

Mr. Bennett forced the building of the new pipeline by refusing to authorize construction of a line which would have run from Boundary Lake east to join the Trans Mountain line in Alberta. The oil industry said the line through Alberta would have been cheaper, but Mr. Bennett apparently insisted it should remain in B.C. territory.

Obviously Mr. Bennett is aiming at making the B.C. oil industry self-sufficient. If he's successful, it could be a great thing for Alberta because the Vancouver refinery market took more than 22,000,000 barrels of Alberta crude oil last year.

What are Mr. Bennett's chances? They're slim, according to some of the experts I've consulted. The government of Israel said it's likely to be a long time before B.C. finds enough oil to meet its own needs.

And a spokesman for the industry said the big program is likely to backfire on Mr. Bennett. He said that while the oil companies seem to be going along with the plan now they are unhappy with the political trend in B.C. They could react by cutting down on exploration, and that would set back development in the B.C. oil industry. That's precisely what happened

It will probably be a three way fight in the Nanaimo riding by-election on Bonnyville cabinet would need as first in the running mate Bonnyville merchant Homer Lamothe at a nominating convention last week. Progressive Conservatives met the following night and nominated the mayor of Bonnyville Vic Juzitsh. At the time I writing, the Liberals had not yet announced the date for a nominating convention. The by-election was called to fill a vacancy in the legislature created by the death of social leader Earl Nordstrom.

Most observers think the provincial election should set up a new depart ment in provincial government and appoint a minister to con it. This was one of the main recommendations in a brief presented to the cabinet last week by the Alberta Motor Transport Association.

The suggestion was quickly rejected by Highways Minister Gordon Taylor, who could see no need for it. But Mr. Taylor said his department is considering another suggestion in the brief establishment of a five-cent increase and provision for the public to [illegible] of truck rates for different routes and goods.

There's much talk about national unrest in these un-united days, it makes one wonder if there's something about the Canadian [illegible] that makes it so.

Most Americans are a fun people doing something about it. The monster in charge of the defence in the provincial cabinet, Agriculture Minister Leonard Halmrast, has started building a basement fallout shelter. But the minister without portfolio, Fred [illegible] to build one. Premier [illegible] has been telling everyone that [illegible] important it is to have [illegible] minds he hasn't had the [illegible] But he says he wouldn't [illegible] one without one.

Ah Let, the Alberta government has suggested to Ottawa that provision of a fallout shelter be compulsory before National Housing Act loans are granted.

The government is also taking steps to assure the safe arrival of orderly administration in the event of disaster. Essential government documents are being microfilmed, copies will be made to be stored in the government's overall disaster plan and Premier Manning says the microfilming has reportedly been stepped up. It's a pretty unpalatable thought when you consider what could happen if questions of records were destroyed. But imagine, for example, the chaos that would result if all land titles records were lost.

Mr. Manning says the threat of a nuclear war is not the only reason for the microfilming program. Other disasters — such as fire — could result in a loss of documents. The slowest part of the job, says the premier, is deciding what types of documents should have priority.

Household Hints

BY JOAN MARCH WORDEN

Director, Pine Cluster Information Center.

One of the reasons that housework is never done is because she spends a lot of her working time looking for the "Tools" among the vast assortment of cleaning aids she can find on today's market

Rendering your cleaning kit to neat and assembling them in one place is a great short cut to cleaning which results in a carry-all to carry out most cleaning projects

You can easily turn a soft drink carton into a bit for handy cleaning materials. Here's the how:

1. Cover the carton with adhesive plastic in whatever pattern you like. The one pictured was done with three pieces of plastic—exactly half the width of the ordinary roll you can get in the dime or hardware store. The plastic does more than just decorate; it strengthens the carton and protects it against moisture.

2. Stock the kit. Besides can

"When you really figure it out Jon, it's just plain good business to buy all we can from our hometown businessmen. They know us they know what we want or what is best for our needs. Sure they want to sell us just like those slick salesmen on the bus city But the difference is that our local fellows are also interested in our welfare They want to serve us right so that we remain their customers"

When you shop at home, you not only get the satisfaction and service which results from dealing with people you know. You help them to build to serve you better, and you are helping to build your community

It pays off for the whole community when you

THIS SIGN has been placed at the west outskirts of the town by the Chamber of Commerce with the hope that it will help tourists to find their way around this widespread town. Another reason for the signs erection was to that a photograph could be taken and ... ed by Highways Department officials to see if it will conform to government regulations. It is hoped that the Hon. Gordon Taylor will see fit to have a like sign erected at the east access road for the benefit of westbound travellers.

Hinton paving comes under discussion

HINTON

... of faults and roughness of the paving on the 3rd ... ve received a thorough discussion by members of ... Hinton Council the town engineers and repr... ... tor ... the contracting company at an informal ... ing of Council last Thursday evening.

The contractor acknowledged that the contract was not complete and offered several alternatives to bring the paving up to a more acceptable standard. Among the proposals was to burn and level the joints in the road.

Mayor W A Switzer presided ... councillors present were Messrs H Bon, F Lavoie, J Clark and L Veats

Also present at the meeting was Mr V O Thorman, P Eng representing Hadden Davis A Brown Limited Consulting Engineers for the Town of Hinton and Messrs Lou Nadon and John Bench representing Nadon Paving Contractors Limited.

Mayor Switzer, pointed out that this was not a legal meeting of Council and that this meeting had been called to hear evidence for the purpose of hearing reports from Mr Thorman and representatives of Nadon Paving Limited in connection with the paving contract for Mill Road. This meeting to be held for information purposes only.

Mr Thorman stated that he had throughout the day made an inspection of the roads, on Mill Road. He stated that in his opinion, the quality of the paving, general levelling was good and well within the terms and specifications of the contract. He stated that there were a number of problems to be overcome before final acceptance could be considered. Namely, the poor rolling qualities of sections of the road, chiefly due to poor joints and variations in the road surface.

Mayor Switzer stated that the Council was concerned as to the quality of the roads and streets of the paving. However the acceptance of the Engineers having been given that the qualities of the paving was substantially good the main problem seems to be that the road surface is generally speaking rough.

He asked then what could be done to improve the surface of the road. Mr Bench asks the project Superintendent stated that joints were the main problem of the roughness. These could be burned down and levelled and application of H.C.O. and a sand or ... coat in spots would also help many of the ... areas.

Mr Nadon stated that he concurred that there were a number of faults to be ... marked such as surface pa... lems and that his Company was prepared to take every possible step to eliminate these problems and to provide satisfactory road surface with good rolling, speaking.

He stated that the Company was prepared to guarantee satisfaction and would make any such work necessary to produce this.

Mr Thorman asked the Contractor what they would be prepared to do in the event that the burning of joints failed to produce a satisfactory road surface.

Mr Bencharsky stated that if the proposal to burn joints was not successful as he felt he would be necessary to lay a sand and seal coat over the entire road and as an alternative, it would have to be taken up and relaid. He stated that they would prefer to make the latter repair only if absolutely necessary.

The Secretary Manager pointed out that the contract was not complete in that there was still some paving to be completed on the road between the 3 Nil crossing and Hinton Jct. as well as some driveway approaches.

Mr Nadon acknowledged that the contract was not completed and assured that this work would be done in the spring. He stated that it was the intention of the Company to leave the asphalt plant in Hinton during the winter in order that work on the contract could be completed in the spring and in addition that his company would be prepared to provide asphalt which had been requested by the Town to complete certain repair jobs on Town streets.

A letter from Messrs. Bron ... Johnson et al. Solicitors for Nadon Paving Limited was read stating that specifications on this contract were such that a central plant did not meet the specifications and as a result the plant had to be removed resulting in a cost of $6 000.00 to the paving company.

After discussion it was acknowledged by Mr Nadon and Mr Bencharsky that the decision to remove the asphalt plant was made by company representatives and not by the Engineer of the Town. Mr Nadon stated that his company wished to leave a good job in order to maintain the company's reputation for quality paving. He asked that the hold back on the contract be kept to a minimum.

He said television sta tions represent the most important and exciting ad vertising medium available today Both stations are automatically operated The 50 000 watt serving Carrot Creek on Channel 8 is located three miles south of the Carrot Creek General Store roughly 100 miles west of Edson

The site was picked only after a number of surveys had been done in the area because terrain equipment located at the particular spot is considered ... signal strength is also a factor to be mentioned.

The equipment at Carrot Creek, after picking up the Channel 3 signal direct from Edmonton, amplifies it and re radiates it on Channel 9

The tower and equipment which will serve the residents of Edson and district on Chan nel 12 is located only a few miles south of the town This equipment picks up the signal transmitted on Channel 3 from the Carrot Creek site amplifies it and re radiates it on Channel 12

Signal quality is similar to that now enjoyed by viewers in Edmonton from Channel 3

CFRN TV Northern Alber ta's first television station went on the air on Sunday July 14th 1954 Located on Edmonton's Gold Bar road the station broadcasts its signal from a 1 000 foot tower

Its power is 100 000 watts and it is affiliated with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's television network

From this antenna one of the tallest structures in Alberta the pro grams seen by Edmonton and district viewers are beamed to the Carrot Creek and Lacorne sites

The home station CFRN is owned and operated by Northern Broadcasting Systems Ltd which also owns CKRD Red Deer CKRM Regina and CFRN radio Edmonton

The power of the CFRN TV transmitter is 100 000 watts unless and until a higher power is authorized by the Board of Broadcast Governors

INCREASED RABBIT DAMAGE FORECAST

Increased rabbit damage to trees in many parts of north central Alberta is expected this winter. To prevent this damage it is necessary to protect the trees' bark, both on the trunks and lower branches, as the case of rabbit shelter is fully diluted with water and applied on the trees' bark. Another effective method is to paint the trees with a mixture of 1 part creosote and 10 parts of Ashpaint mixed with enough lampblack to give a dark grey colour. Two applications of household detergent have been added to the mixture.

Mr. Shelley points out that paint and other repellents are not reliable as commercial preparations for this purpose and others can be prepared by careful mixing the prescribed ingredients. The secret of long lasting repellent is to combine the odour repellent with a sticker which releases the repellent slowly but continuously over a long period of time.

Enough repellent can be prepared by mixing Arasan 42S (liquid) at 1 ounce to 3 pints of water with a wetting agent such as Triton B-1956 at the rate of 1 part Arasan to 10 parts of water. Apply with a brush. This mixture can either be painted on the tree trunks and lower branches or in the case of large shelter belts diluted with water and sprayed on the trees' bark. Another effective method is to paint the trees with a mixture of 1 part creosote and 10 parts of Ashpaint mixed with enough lampblack to give a dark grey colour. Two applications of household detergent have been added to the mixture.

WATER ASSISTANCE POLICIES

Recent announcements in Ottawa and by radio in Edmonton concerning a new Federal Provincial policies through which financial assistance is available to rural residents for the construction of domestic water wells have aroused considerable interest among farmers who need private wells. The policy is designed as an emergency measure to assist rural municipalities that are experiencing drought and the term of the policy is not specified. It is left to Alberta and other provinces to decide the question of priority of areas in the drought stricken areas.

Financial assistance in the amount of two hundred and fifty dollars is now available under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to qualified farmers throughout Alberta for the construction of domestic water wells. All projects must be constructed according to PFRA specifications and applications must be approved by the Chief Engineer, PFRA, Medicine Hat.

Set up three town Midget Hockey League

For the first time in the history of Hinton Jasper and Edson a Midget Hockey League has been formed with a weekly schedule set up for midget and bantam teams.

After pre-arrangements in Hinton last Thursday with Joe Sproule of Jasper Hockey Manager and Neil Hooge of Edson and Roy Watt of Hinton drawing up plans and school also for what they hope will be the first of many years of Midget League play between the three towns. At present the only prize for being top team in the league is the honor of having best team. The organizers are hoping however that some business or business in one of the three League towns will put up a trophy for annual play.

There is only one team from each town in the Midget League with the Bantams having four teams — one each from Edson and Jasper and two from Hinton League size. Initiation is Mrs Roy Watt of Hinton

The league schedules for now it is supposed that participants and hockey fans can them out for future reference All games start promptly at 2 p.m. except where noted otherwise

Tri-Service Rodeo Debentures to be sold

Plans for Edson's fifth annual rodeo were started at a regular meeting of the Edson Tri-Service Rodeo Association held November 22

The two days chosen for this popular event are again August 3 and 4 which will take in the usual long weekend

Chairman Jim Griffith who has recently returned from the central Stampede Association meeting at Ponoka, advised many interesting facts which will aid in the coming year's operation Mr Griffith mentioned that the name "Rodeo Capital of the West" in reference to Edson seemed to go over very well in a few people's minds

Representatives from each of the three Edson service clubs, the Optimists the Lions and the Kinsmen were in attendance at the local meeting Areas of responsibility for the coming year were discussed

It is hoped that the sale of Tri Service Rodeo Association debentures will be ready for putting on the open market shortly.

Mr Jack Hook gave a report on his new appointment to the Central Stampede Association and explained how Phil son and Barrhead had two of the best money-making rodeos in Western Canada this year

Even if a profit had not been made said Mr Hook Edson benefitted greatly from having public relations but some times we have to go outside our own town to realize this

Appreciation cuts 2 ways

We have just passed Youth Appreciation Week across Canada. Last year, the Optimist Club, who devote their activities mainly to helping boys groups, sponsored a Youth Week program in Hinton that included a student council for a day, a dance and other activities.

Last year we heard a number of people say they thought it was unalled for that kids get too much attention as it was and never learned to appreciate all that was done for them. That, of course, is true to some extent, but usually the ones who talk of these things not appreciating them are the ones who have never taught appreciation of material and spiritual things to their children.

Recently we attended the minor ball league wind-up supper and with the officials of the league were gratified to see the large number of parents who attended with their boys. As one speaker said he was glad to see so many parents because for awhile last summer he thought they were playing a bunch of orphans. That brought a laugh but it was too true to be funny.

Minor hockey play got underway at the rink last Saturday, although the boys have been practicing ever since there was ice. One way that adults can show their appreciation of youth is by attending these games and showing an interest in what the young fry are doing. It means a lot to a boy to have his dad or mother rooting for him. It adds a spice and incentive to the game that is lacking otherwise.

We readily admit that many youths do not appear to appreciate facilities that are provided for their recreation and education. We wonder however if it is any wonder in many cases. If parents and their children do take advantage of these facilities and let them be interested in the activities of the boy or girl on the ice or playing field, show an appreciation of the fact that their boy or girl may excel in a sport or else whether or not they make a good pitch or are the poorest member of the team, then is it any wonder that youth does not appreciate what is done for them.

Our young people are the men and women who will hold leading position in business, commerce and government in the future. They ARE the future. At the same time they are the pool of each of us, as we see our own youth reflected in youths of today.

As youths we appreciated parental praise of something well done. If we stop to recall we will remember that the recognition by our parents of some act, however large or small made us appreciate them the more. Youth of today we are sure react in the same way.

Let's hear a turnout at the hockey games and other activities of our youth, people and in appreciation be heard. In these ways show them we also appreciate the facilities that have been provided for them and the many [illegible] who have given their time as coaches managers, organizers, etc.

It pays all—both children that the facilities and services which is provided is appreciated, not a free baby sitting service but as a means of helping our children to better themselves. Then we think the youth of today will also appreciate the value of unselfishness and spiritual

Mr Doug Caston
Editor,
Edson Leader
Dear Sir

Now that all that was Edson's Golden Jubilee is being filed away, I must say thank you to the many who have expressed advice and gratitude in being remembered and honored a pioneer family and Edson as a town of the present generation who were amazed to discover that Edson had such a remarkable past.

At last the outset of 1961 we were a town with proven boundaries, definite organizations different faiths and a variety of income brackets. Now, we are a community, our boundaries are undefinable and intangible and we have acquired a new respect for our town, our neighbors and ourselves.

We have reached back to our beginnings and found a strong warm heart beat. A pulsating rhythm strangely combines with that of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamboat as it pushed back the frontier, but we also realize that we only catch this rhythm when the locomotive is forging ahead.

Personally, I have found 1961 to be a very challenging year and my assorted assignments with the 50th Anniversary committee were beset with frustration, desperation and of necessity—Red Indian humour, it was worth the effort!

It was pleasure to be associated with the Pageant committee Vivienne Jardine, Laura Mahon, Princess Mahon and Rod Hurst. All those who made the accompany of "Look Behind You Neighbor" and those behind the scenes give Edson new stature, new understanding and a new outlook. It was indeed our finest two and one half hours. I am very proud of all them and proud to be one of them.

We all caught the spirit of our pioneers, and felt compelled to do our part for Edson's Golden Jubilee is due to be a memory, too"

Sincerely,
Mrs M Aldt

CAPITOL REPORT

Municipalities don't ask sales tax

By KEN MASON

EDMONTON — In case anyone was wondering, it should be fairly clear now that most Albertans aren't convinced the province needs a sales tax to help make ends meet.

A resolution before the convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and counties here last week, asked the province to introduce such a tax.

It came from the Municipal District of Mirror, and in its preamble put forward many valid arguments in favor of a sales tax, or that the government is concerned about feeding the money to pay ever-increasing costs, and that property taxes are already too high.

J. M. MacKay of Vulcan County president of the AAMD, said before the resolution came before the delegates that he felt it might bring a lot of support. He told this reporter he believed it reflected a feeling prevalent in much of the province.

Maybe so, but when it came to a vote on the last day of the convention it was defeated. The vote was not recorded, but it looked to be about two to one against the resolution.

Delegate C. Reed of Ponoka may have been speaking on behalf of most of the delegates when he said the association should exercise caution judgment and discretion before making such a move. He also suggested the idea might be referred to a joint meeting of the urban and rural municipal associations.

There's been a lot of talk in political circles to the effect the government would impose a sales tax if it could say the municipalities were demanding it. But the only government representative to speak on the subject at the convention was Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke, who was against it. He said he hoped Minburn MD wasn't the only one and urged delegates not to vote for the resolution.

Mr. Hooke said that instead of asking for increased taxation municipalities should be attempting to cut down and pay as they go.

The municipal convention provided plenty of news copy last week as the 300 to 400 delegates threshed out a host of important municipal problems.

There was the inevitable panel discussion on the education foundation program and it produced some interesting observations. Dr. J. J. Hanson of the political science department at the University of Alberta said the program has brought a measure of stability to the financing of education.

Dr. Hanson saw two possible dangers — the plan could hinder the development of highly qualified teachers if the standards are set too low, and government controls could grow to the point where it undermines the rights of local authority.

Another panel member was Dr. Gord on Blood of the University faculty of Education, who said the program has produced an open season" on financially independent school boards. Dr. Blood, who served on the Cameron royal commission on education said school boards have been placed in an untenable position." He said they are forced to go "cap in hand" to the municipalities for more money when they need more than the program provides.

Preparations are pretty well completed for the special session of the Legislature scheduled to open next Tuesday (Nov 28.) The only purpose of the session is to implement the new federal provincial tax agreement.

Copies of the tax bill, which runs to about 25 pages, are being printed. It's expected the legislature won't take more than a couple of days to pass it as the new agreement can be in effect at the start of the New Year.

AH, THE JOYS OF WINTER

Harry Boyle, the modern day bard of the Yukon, takes a whimsical look at the joys of a Yukon (and all points north) winter in the latest addition of his Whitehorse Star. His reflections are worth examining, says Barry.

You know how some people are. They are crazy things. For instance, they say: "I like the winter in the Yukon better than the summer."

People like that have been in the igloo too long.

But there's no denying the northern winter does have a certain hold on you. You feel fewer to the floor, that's what you feel. The old mukluks are in solid for the winter.

Where else do people wear overshoes inside the house all the time? One family near here spends most of the winter on top of the kitchen table (except the old man who usually under the table but that's how they feel to him). They sit around on the table because the floor's too cold. Wife says, also, she wished she lived over in Dawsonville on one of those fancy homes (if but place they don't take boxings, they put them on the wall for insulation). She liked the idea of Dawsonville because the boxes look warmer.

But she's wrong. Those fancy houses are the only wind tunnels ever built that aren't used for scientific research. you get to face spiked shoes to walk across the room, even when there's a strong south wind blowing. Here we are 67 600 miles from anywhere and they're still building houses as though Whitehorse was on the outskirts of Tampa Florida. There must be a better way either that or put insulated box tops on the breakfast cereal, instead of offering premiums.

But the Yukon IS stimulating in the winter time. It's a great challenge when [illegible] whether you're going to die on the way to the post office in the morning (is it true they bury people here in the winter by pounding them in with a pole driver?) How the pioneers did it in a mystery they were here before the liquor stores were. hardy types.

And those seal covers they're nice after a three-day blizzard when you're snowed in. You're going home from the show somewhere and then you slide onto that outdoor ice rube they use for a car wash in winter. The old poetizer thinks you're doing a rhumba with Admiral Byrd down at Little America.

And do you notice how some of your friends start to get kind of fragrant? You know those furs out cold when they came within three feet of them it's the old lion, underwear. They sew themselves in and refuse to come out before spring. It's called indoor cutting everybody's hair all whenever they get close to them.

And boots and parkas everyone looks like an overstuffed personbuilding checkerfield. Sex appeal reaches a new low in the interests of warmth. (Snappy winter measurement 145 45 45) But it's a great feather. In the rough days of the American west the mark 45 was considered as the [illegible] but in a cold climate, it's the [illegible] atmosphere that brings everybody down to a common level. You can't tell who it is coming down the street [illegible] J. P. Morgan or Sherman for a beer.

Bills

Every home in town is piled with [illegible] outfits and coats expecially adorn [illegible] kids. Kids on the street look like [illegible] leftovers from a million.

Parks are not dainty under The first two [illegible] struggling to get their clothes off. The next two [illegible] everyone's trying up for the final two [illegible] of putting their clothes back on [illegible] again.

And another nice thing is all the winter sport where you go out skating with the girl friend and she takes off with another one who can skate better than you or the other hockey which ends up in police court with two old friends never speaking to one another again or maybe [illegible] which helps keep the hospital busy during what might otherwise be a sort of quiet time. ah those northern blow [illegible] when everyone else is plastered [illegible] on a plaster cast.

Take some people do like the winter better but they must be in the ski way business.

The bad lands of Alberta

By FERN ICE

Tourist who travel thousand of miles in search of something different, would rush the sight of fearsome Badlands attraction and is overlooked. Yet the Badlands the only attraction in Alberta.

Nothing we have to offer this province can match that desolate, cut-up country. Before that dash back 60 million years and, in your mind's eye, see a tropical jungle. Swamps, lush vegetation, huge trees and some are Alberta dinosaur is rattling his bones in the National Museum in Ottawa.

Wind-eroded hoodoos, carved here and there at random, grotesque ships and world ruins, all combine to produce one of nature's real art masters and tourist soon to be well advised to leave the black top. Then shelter, travel a few miles east and discover what could be call one of the wonders of the world.

Disgusted and Fed Up

Dear D & F U. Many people find it hard to realize that children grow up and become adults. Give your mother credit for trying to help you to be a success in life. Parents as she has done for 17 years. If you leave home for this reason you will surely regret it and prove to your mother that you are not mature adult yet. Reserve the right to choose your own friends without family approval. By choosing wisely you will demonstrate your good judgment and your mother will soon accept the fact that her daughter deserves respect. Don't be in a hurry to leave home. Be glad you have a home to leave. AJ

Council considers policy change on land sale

Consideration was given to the application of the Town's land sale policy for housing and industrial development at the regular meeting of the Town Council on Nov. 15.

Reconsideration of the policy on land sale was prompted by a presentation made by Contractor Svend Petersen at a recent meeting. A committee of the Council has been set up to carry out a survey of policies pursued by other communities of comparable size.

The Council granted its approval to the tender of the Royal Purple holding it annual poster drive on Nov. 29.

Council did not approve the transfer of part of the south east quarter of Section 24 TP 53 R5 The Town Planner is to be advised that the development is in conformity with the recommendations of the Master Plan report on Edson's planning.

A petition from owners in Blocks 132 135 and 136 requesting extension of water and sewer was placed before Council and it was agreed that the matter should be tabled to be considered with the Master Plan report.

The five per cent holdback of $621 was ordered paid to Cressey and Owen Construction Ltd. under the terms of the contract for the construction of the arena roof.

Letter from the Town Solicitor and the Department of Lands and Forests were read concerning the roads at cross ins the air strip.

In the interest of public safety, signs are to be placed closing the roads at crossings of the east boundary of north road 17-53-17 W5 where it crosses the air strip, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The Secretary Manager was directed to proceed with the necessary advertising of the intent of Council to pass a by-law closing the said road as was required by Section 300 of the Town and Village Act.

In consequence of weather conditions and a recommend ed by the Town's engineers it was decided to abandon that part of the project under contract with Oberlitch and McGinn covering the proposed removal of unsuitable mater ial and placing of pit run gravel in First Avenue between 60th and 51st streets.

University Conservatives seminar proves lively

A seminar of the Progressive Conservative Student Federation from the universities of Alberta was held in Hinton on November 11 and 12.

The students arrived in Hinton on Saturday. Some were members of the Young Progressive Conservatives, others were students who were interested in politics. The seminar was organized by Lawrence Chapman of Edson, a young student who had worked at the Park Gate last summer.

When an all-campus seminar was suggested Hinton was chosen because of the many facilities it had to offer. The committee was [illegible] Hinton and [illegible] the facilities it had to offer. Due to rural and [illegible] roads, and not wishing to work hard to achieve this [illegible] Because the students felt that it had been well worth while.

At a dinner held at the Athabasca Valley Hotel on Saturday the group were addressed by Douglas Jung M.P. for Vancouver Centre. Head [illegible] Peace Chapman of Edson, [illegible] Chairman Mayor W. A. [illegible] representing the [illegible] of Hinton. M. Clark, president of the Progressive [illegible] also representing the [illegible] Mr. [illegible] campus of the Young Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Stanley welcomed the young people to Hinton and introduced the guest speaker which he felt was a representative of Canada [illegible] their points of view. [illegible] of the fall that [illegible] Mr. Stanley [illegible] to politicians who had all belief in the [illegible] ent. The young people [illegible] these parties were very [illegible]

Mr. Jung told his audience that some of the students present were [illegible] to go into politics. [illegible] he said, he felt that [illegible] a few many keen mates would be needed to give legislation management so that the Canadian way of life could be preserved and improved.

[illegible] Mr. Jung said that all parties are moving to the left though the Conservative party much less so than others. Security is not the answer to the problem as it leads to apathy and lack of incentive. They credit the great progress made in the last fifty years to Canada's system of free enterprise. The students agreed that some changes are desirable but must be made gradually and based on experience.

He pointed out that the pulp industry is well aware that the U.K. may have to join European Common Market. This would disturb trade with pulp and paper but the situation could be coped with as best it can. The industry must protect its own exports.

Asked if exports to the U.S. should not be of primary interest, Mr. Collinge explained that while Canada hopes to maintain our exports to the U.S. future interests lie in exports to Europe and Asia.

Dr. Horner then gave the students the views of the Canadian government on the proposal of the United Kingdom to join the European Common Market.

In answer to further questioning Dr. Horner explained to the group why he did not feel that Free Trade was entirely successful.

Lawrence Chapman thanked Mr. Collinge for his speech particularly as it had started such a lively session of discussion. He also thanked WVP & P and the Athabasca Valley Hotel for their co-operation and expressed the appreciation of the group.

During the afternoon the students met anew again for group discussions, and due to the interest stirred up at the luncheon session decided to make the theme for their discussions Canada's point of view on the European Common Market.

The outcome of these talks was final in general the students agree with the current stand of the present government. Canada cannot tell the U.K. what it must do but has a duty to make it's own decision. Everything possible must be done to strengthen the Commonwealth.

By REV. V. B. DOWDEN

I have heard it said that one of the pleasures of [illegible] is that one can [illegible] Indeed, both birth and death are the same time However I am not that that is one of the very surest pleasures of childhood years. There are others that arise of independence as one's children rise up and go out to make their own families, that sense of feeling secure in deep friendships formed over many years, that sense of having lived a life worth while and to mean being some people of course, look back upon their lives as useless, enterprises, feels of sad and frightening stale

The Anglican Church thus coming Saturday, November 25th at Catherine's Day celebrates her 208th birthday. It will be a day of joy as the hearts of many who have been faithful members of Christ's Church for perhaps those for years and some for a shorter period of time.

The Church, as all ages has tried humbly and obediently to bring people to the Lord Christ. It was and still is a difficult job because men and women are very much wrapped up in the affairs of this world so that little if no time is left to worship their Creator. Yet as difficult as the task is from the time of its very beginning to bring people to Christ and to pray them in an environment of love

The government spends millions of dollars on the procurement of arms, in other words the government spends it that money preparing for war. The Church continually asks up a banner of love which says this through love will the world become peaceful. It is a free gift which God offers it all who will accept. It is a gift which God offers all who will accept. It is a gift that first to Him. Peace in our world, peace in our homes, peace in the world date we ask for most all of which are the outcome of love

So for fifty years among all the sorrows and strains, [illegible]

[illegible] amongst so much mundane [illegible] among of so much dominant evil the Church has continued to give to the people of Edson the Way of love to point to the Lord Christ We still do today, with all its faults we intend to remain faithful to the Catholic faith we intend to continue adherence to the Sacraments of grace which Christ gave to His Church we intend to do all this in spite of opposition in spite of Satan's temporary victories over God's people

Why? Because the Church knows that she is ordained to perform all that is Her Divine Inheritance and that even though the response of men may be limited yet to carry on to carry on God's work Truly the enterprise of the Church makes the Christian realize that life is glorious and that in this life we may though tired and bowed by our sins yet serve Him. Therefore after great glory to God and to His Church

By Reverend E. HUBB — Pastor

2 Peter 3:11 Says What manner of persons ought we to be

As I write today I am reminded of Operation Tandem and of course for anyone who knows World War Two the sirens. Sounds back to moons of day gone by

The difference of course This was just practice for the real thing, with the attendant precautions. Just as practice for emergency. And we are thankful that this planning and awakening to make ready only as part of the possibility and not the probability of no dear attack here in Canada Yet the need for such rehearsal provokes quite a chain of thought Some recent comments on the fact that humanity takes such an utter lack interest in the preparations of the whooping cranes and "up" gears in readiness to resort to such emotion The remarkable was this Since human life has increasing in sacred the whooping crane it should surely be able to save itself

Yet we must point out that THIS IS AN EMERGENCY

Mr. Churchill on one of his last speeches in the House of Commons declared "Man in this moment of history has conquered into greater supremacy over the forces of nature than ever discovered before There lies before him if he wishes a path to a golden age of peace and progress It only he resolves his feud and wars ceases Himself"

My readers must honestly admit that the only reason for the life that should be lived from God's holy Word can we find true security from the past in the present nor for the future until and unless we abide it in God was through His Son our Saviour and Lord This is the emergency we must all face When then shall live, and face the things And face the judge severe When heaven and earth a fled and gone If a brave shall I appear? You only now against that house we may a place prepare yole Beyond the grave beyond the power of hell our spirit hole Firm in the all destroying shock may view the final throne. For to the everlasting Rock is cleft to take us in

I have been dabbling today with interesting possibilities A young man has been telling me about the possibility of making inflation work for me instead of against me by investing in the United States and in Europe It has also especially interesting money to grab later dividends

The idea seems to be that if you invest in big, solid, reconstituted and well stock American companies you are on the financial band wagon when everyone is coming on Canada's ruin I take him you have the advantage of investing in the booming economy of Europe

Of course my native Canadian people makes me wonder about the advantages of investing American money in Canadian companies. So for the meantime I will stick to me But it does make me wonder how I would happen if I invested my life savings in the stock exchange. Before an like shares of hundred dollars [illegible] Would it bring in a lot of thousands of dollars? I just up on creating a feeling that I had a personal stake in the financial affairs of [illegible] I increase my desire to make Thereby behave him said

I have no doubt that some people are miserly interested in investing there money I am not perhaps because I have little to invest But just the same I am of the opinion that money invested in people's welfare is even more important than money invested simply on the basis of large returns at little risk

We live in a dangerous world There is too much difference in the amount of money that is available in Russia America and Europe and the amount of money that is available to meet problems of human welfare in vast areas of Africa and Asia. The threat is very dangerous at present The Communists are exploiting others by poverty, ill health and the ultimate solution to the financial problems of the underprivileged The United States, and the free world are trying to help them and in some way maintain a high general level of economy

Some with money to invest while others have not sufficient to sustain even a modest standard of living

We Westerners are on the whole of the most fortunate mankind of time, the world has ever known the matters which we should to on a danger ous position We may easily be that because God has been so good to us we can get very well without Him A dollar bill is a dollar bill to handle than a remembrance received in the episode Savings of people who earn their income lighting must be the cause of real re fostered in prayer

Tri-Service Rodeo Assn. debentures going on sale

Last week investors fell over themselves to get in to the sale of debentures sponsored by the Municipal Financing Corp.

The rush to snap up the $30,000,000 issue was oversubscribed before the four day sale was over. These bonds pay only five and one quarter per cent whereas the debentures issued for sale by the Edson Tri-Service Association will earn six per cent interest.

It is hoped to sell the allotted issue of $10,000 with in the first week of December. A budget plan has been set up for those wishing to purchase a bond on the easy down payment system.

Members of the three ser[illegible] clubs have the first opportunity to buy a debenture but the sale is not restricted to members only. This money will be used for the better good of the community there for it is hoped the sale will be completed by December 8th.

The bonds are issued in $500 units and may be obtained from Mr. Jim Redfish at Matthew Motors, John Neil per of Seaforth Drug Store, Peter Bezchuk at Town Office, Paul Bonnette at Texaco Bulk Station, Bill Owen at the Edson Leader and from the mayor, Mr. Reeves Wallace.

Construction of a sidewalk along [illegible] a section of Hwy 16 where two pedestrians have been killed this year was recommended last Wednesday afternoon by a jury presided over by Dr. J. Cashell coroner and empanelled to inquire into the death on the 31 of Matt Baker [illegible]

Mr Baker was killed when struck by a car driven by Nathan Christenson of [illegible] 135 St. Edmonton. Testimony indicated that the light was poor at the time and the high way slippery. The jury found that alcohol did not enter into the accident in any way.

The fatalities occurred just inside the town limits, near the spot where another pedestrian died this spring.

Rifle misfires five times as cougar charges

A hair-raising hunting experience is reported from Clarendon. Ted Wenz, the operator of a service station at Clarendon was out deer hunting and battled a cougar according to correspondent Paul Andersen.

Wenz was hunting about 25 miles southeast of town when he spotted the cougar which had spotted him and was headed for Wenz with a look of determination on his face.

The cougar was about 10[illegible] feet away when discovered and the hunter went into action with a new 30-30 rifle. The rifle refused to fire on the first cartridge but ejected life on the sixth round. The cougar was about 15 feet away when the rifle finally dropped it. The beast weighed between 90 and 95 pounds.

This is the kind of hunting experience one reads about but neither hopes or wants to have first-hand knowledge of. Shooting a mountain lion when it is so close a fellow can look down its throat and see the seat of its pants isn't the type of sport to get enthusiastic about.

C of C area seminar discusses tourism

By H. Elaine Alexander

HINTON —

Chambers of Commerce from Jasper, Hinton, Whitecourt and Edson were represented at the Area Seminar at Hinton on Monday, Nov. 27, when Reg Clark, Alberta Manager of the province wide Chamber, introduced Thos. Richardson, Manager of Organization Services for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who conducted the seminar.

The past record of a Chamber is the biggest selling point in attracting new members he told the meeting and one of the best ways to do this is to plan a program of work each year, for both internal and external activities. Tourist promotion is never a finished project—it is something all must work at all the time he added.

Upon entering a small town, committee to bring in ... some form of work the Chamber should do and a ... for members before the annual meeting ... which committees they would be interested ... method for filling up good working com-

... meeting was discussed as ... well as sound resolutions from ... the area to both the Canadian ... of Alberta Chambers.

A matter of particular ... to all the area Cham- ... bers was range law and a study of the matter of horses at large in all parts of the province on super highways.

With regard to projects ... the Yellowhead Route ... it was pointed out that we don't have living recreation ... of the action taken on such projects.

Convention business came in for some discussion as the Chambers resented further information with regard how to submit resolutions in connection to the area and how to sell their facilities to conventions bodies. Make your Chamber a Voice it was suggested. Vision, Organization, Interest, Conservation and Publicity were make up this slogan and each of us are ambassadors for the tourist industry.

Keeping the retail merchants group within the Chamber is another project and this can be done. Above all try to observe the rule that the majority rules and accept the decision once it has been made. All are living to benefit from what is being done for us pointed out.

Bob Clark in speaking of Alberta Chamber drew attention to the monthly bulletin and to the assistance that the Alberta Chamber stood ready to give regarding material or speakers on special subjects.

He rallied attention to the Alberta annual meeting at the Palliser Hotel Calgary on May 29 and 30. It is not too soon to plan to attend the, resolutions for consideration must be in the hands of the committee 45 days prior to the meeting.

Neals Scott of Jasper expressed thanks to Mr Richard on Mr Clark and the Hinton Chamber for the day long session which each felt had been of benefit to himself and by chamber. W H Purdey President of Hinton Chamber was host to the meeting Meet ... were held in the Timber Land Hotel banquet room with the luncheon being held in the Athabasca Valley Hotel.

Urge public to observe "Safe Driving Week"

The R C M Police request ... the full co-operation and assistance of all motorists and pedestrians to make Safe Driving Week December 1 to 7 sponsored by the Canadian Highways Safety Council a success. All types of motor vehicle accidents are on the increase this year.

From January 1 to September 30, 1961, 141 fatal motor vehicle accidents took place in areas policed by the R C M P with 173 persons being killed and 108 people receiving injuries. During this period there were also 5 825 accidents involving personal injury and property damage accidents.

As of June 30, 70 fatal accidents had taken place on All ... highways in 1961 ... per cent below the total for the same period last year. ... were July and September ... fatal accidents took place ... bringing the death toll to ... per cent below the nine month total for 1960 September was one of the worst fatality months on record and their ... born's death rule continued high.

Of the fatal accidents, 40 were single car accidents, 20 accidents involved pedestrians 31 accidents were head on collisions 9 were rear end collisions 23 involved poor driving conditions, 14 tractor accidents, 6 car-train accidents. All could have been avoided.

Eighty one fatal accidents took place on main highways and 60 on district roads. Liquor was involved in 40 accidents. The drivers at fault were killed in 37 accidents and prosecutions were entered against 22 other drivers. Of these fatal accidents 80 occurred in the day light hours, with 37 occurring at night.

Most of these accidents were caused by too much speed for road conditions and careless carelessness or inattentive driving. Liquor and poor driving habits.

Accidents can be greatly reduced both in number and magnitude by the drivers and pedestrians observing the rules of the road frequent inspections of these lights, brakes and other equipment and by drivers and walking in an alert manner.

Increased patrols will be made during "Safe Driving Week". With common sense and care on the part of the drivers there need be no accidents.

Support what industry we have

We noticed in an exchange newspaper from another town in Northern Alberta that they had held a talk on the subject of industry attached to their town by Dutch Reformed Church. Head of the Industrial Development Branch of the Provincial Government, Mr. Hartland ... featured in the proceedings and he has always had some advice for those who listen.

In addition to the obvious advice about not sitting back and hoping, as the government or somebody to do something, Mr. Hartland made what to us is a very pertinent observation. "Support the industry your locality has — it may grow and prosper."

What this means, obviously ... apparently in ... is that local industry however small, helps our community with its payroll, locally and medium ... contributions and so can think of several in this town quite often do much to their business outside of the boundaries of the town. Therefore these pay rolls not just a redistribution of money already circulating locally.

We were talking, for ... local trucker who started a few years ago with a three ton truck and now has one of the larger hauling services, complete with really big hoy... tremendous ... car stand trailers, etc. in Northern Alberta. A frequent remark when he solicits local business is that "We always give you the small hauling. Everyone knows he's a nice guy and all that but because his business has grown they don't realize that he has become quite big business in a small town way and that his payroll runs to several score thousands of dollars annually — all dispersed locally.

All of which reminds us that before you send away that money order to the mail order houses — have you looked on the local prices and services offered in business establishments right in your own town. We are constantly being pleasantly reminded that local stores offer comparable goods to any available in the big cities.

Giant Fire Destroys London, 200,000 Homeless," reads the banner headline of a revolutionary new newspaper being published in South Africa for schoolchildren. The paper then describes in modern terminology the events of the great London fire of 1666.

The first edition of the newspaper, recently distributed to Johannesburg schools, was received with enthusiasm by most educators. Set out in tabloid form and well illustrated it dramatizes important historical events in the form of news stories in both English and Afrikaans.

McBride delegation has frank discussion with MLA

McBRIDE, B.C. -

Twenty-nine persons travelled to Prince George on a special coach attached to the "artichoke" last Friday morning. Purpose of the trip by residents of McBride and districts nearer Prince George was to interview the member for Fort George constituency, the Hon Ray Willislon and a two hour meeting was held that afternoon

Key point in the discussions was the voters' dissatisfaction with the lack of progress on Highway 16 between McBride and Prince George. Mr Willston admitted that the unbuilt highway was a deep personal disappointment and could only offer information that the location of the new Fraser River Bridge has been decided upon and that plans are now on the drawing boards for the bridge which the government expects will take two years to build. Probable cost will be two million dollars

It was reported by several persons present that no pains were spared by the representatives from east of Prince George to expressed their grooving disgust with the lack of a decent outlet in the west. It was also suggested that while the member's capabilities had been well used by the government, few of his accompaniments had great value to the electors in Fort George constituency. He was urged to press for appropriation of monies to get construction going as the people are tired after many years of waiting.

In the evening a small group of the McBride delegation attended a meeting at which the Minister spoke on the complex power situation in the province.

Among those making the trip to Prince George last Friday were the following: T. Renshaw, P. E. Lonsdale, Dale Elliott, Doug Taggart, Steve Kolida, W. F. Jervis Mr and Mrs. H. Morrow and H. H. Davenport

By Rev. C. C. Armstrong

Last week a lecture was given on the professional position of teachers in the course of the address it was pointed out that at one time there were only three recognized groups of professional people doctors, lawyers and clergymen. Now the term 'professionals' is an all-embracing that it has lost all real meaning of significance.

In one field of human endeavour, namely in sports the term "professional" has been used to indicate a difference from amateur. If you made your living from a sport you were a professional and if you played substantially you were an amateur.

Amateur hockey players, amateur ball players and others were on the surface people who played for the fun of it rather than for the money attached (of course number of these amateurs had "jobs" but these "jobs" never were clearly defined never interfered with practice scheduled games and invariably were given to people who couldn't play).

When professional football invaded the Canadian scene a rather curious dress was dreamed up. A certain number of Americans as distinguished from Canadian players, but as more than this certain number could conquer. Apparently this has never been applied, in principle, by the Americans who frankly and unashamedly secured a unlimited number of non-Canadian hockey players to play on American teams.

But apparently it has been considered rather unsporting to have teams of football players mostly American unless these somehow could be labelled Canadian (Perhaps our nationalistic pride was hurt by the theory of Americans playing on Canadian territory for Lord Grey's coveted trophy).

Nothing for many years resisted the term 'professional' and it was the proud boast of the rather flabby fry that there were no professionals. It is still true that there are only one or two men (Roy Watson and Matt Baldwin) who have undertaken to give instruction in how the game should be played and then to qualify

By REV. V. S. DOWDEN

I was down town buying my groceries this morning and met a friend who exclaimed "My, don't you like Christmas". I replied that I did indeed like Christmas, but that I was not in the spirit of it yet, outside I saw no Christmas trees and as I wander around the stores it looked as if we were in the month of December rather than November. And then in the mail yesterday I received in the mail a letter which told me to "Mail your Christmas cards early".

And believe it or not, right this morning, I heard a Christmas record on the CBC. I was saying in fairness if I believe but it was somewhat early not Nov. 1 am not going to participate in all this pushing forward, but the fact that I have this on the air indeed the Church is preparing for the celebration of the Nativity of our Lord.

This Sunday is Advent Sunday. It begins a period of four weeks of preparation for Christmas by God's people. As good people prepare by purchasing gifts or baking cakes or writing cards so too good people should prepare spiritually for the Christmas event. For I have an awful feeling that a great many Christians prepare spiritually for the event and leave the spiritual element alone.

Advent derives from the Latin word adventus. I come. I am here but I come. It is therefore a future event, it is filled with the note of expectation. So for that reason the Church through her prayers spends four weeks in preparation. The Church will be adorned in purple for the Advent season it is therefore a season of penitence when Christian people throughout the world mourn for sin and all that makes them unworthy to celebrate the birth day of the Son of God.

It means that one should spend more time on one's knees in prayer than is usual, it means that Christians should make a very special effort to be in church these four Sundays of Advent so that Christmas may indeed come to us as the Incarnation of God Who became Man in order to save us from sin and to lead us to His love.

We can only realize the impact of God's condescension in become man when we know what sin is by the examination of our conscience as we per from the daily acts of living. God comes to us, can you honestly say that you have striving to come to Him?

I am therefore not sorry to see at your secular preparation for Christmas, I hope you have as much fun preparing as I hope to have but for me I hope that you will not forget that man is a composite being of body and soul and to prepare for one with out preparing for other for the Christmas event is to be only half prepared. A week of preparation is hardly sufficient in order to celebrate God's entrance into history.

AS I SEE IT

Reverend F. HURD — Pastor

And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower which the children of men builded Genesis 11:5

As we reveal these thoughts our think of Lay meeting of the Third assembly of the world council of churches held in New Delhi, India. The movement toward a world church is a product of the hour in which we live. Just as an insistence, labour, government and international affairs we have seen the rise of centralization of control as the hands of the few, so the same conditions evident in religious circles. We the people wish to discuss the World Council of Churches at this time except to quote the late Dr. Presbyterian minister of Princeton seminary, R. H. Gaylord, who a generation ago remarked, "Men howard the decisions of the Church of Christ, and propose that we shall stop thinking so that we may no longer think differently. We believe in the spiritual unity and oneness of all truly regenerated believers in Christ. But we do not believe in a unity of a visible super church organization our New Testament ecclesiastics prohibit us from taking such a step. Spiritual unity, difference, the absence of strong religious convictions the lack of doctrinal meaning, the common desire to belong to a big organization regardless of what it stands for is common to today.

We need the revival of a sense of our personal responsibility to God. The greater danger we face is to forget this then every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Roman. 14:12) Each person must live his life and be personally concerned of sins and converted to God to Christ. It is God's way of God saves which leads us as free agents.

The ancient builders of the Tower of Babel sought to make a name for themselves We too are building every day a temple that the world cannot see. But the Lord sees it and every man's work shall be made manifest of what sort it is" (1 Cor. 3:12) Not quantity but quality. The builds has less who builds beneath the shadow of the building without God. No man should be built architect and builder All our efforts in public or private should glorify God and not man.

Meteor has arrived!
A foot longer than compacts, a foot shorter than big cars, the new sized Mercury Meteor joins the big Monterey and the compact Comet to meet your driving needs to a dollar.
Its name is not new. Everything else is! From totally new unitized body to every dimension.
Meteor's wheelbase is a long 116 inches, turns washboard roads into real smoothers. But it's also inches shorter than a big car. Lets you slip into parking spots you used to pass by.
Also new on a lively way are Meteor's new engines. There's a 145 horsepower V-8 engineered for plenty of pep and economy too. If a Six is your size, Meteor's 101 horsepower Big Six fills the bill. And cuts your gas bill at the same time.
Size up Mercury yourself... at your Mercury dealer today
MERCURY
Meteor's beautiful new interior seats six without a shoehorn. Luggage is welcome. Should be. The trunk is 31.8 cubic feet huge. And this is also the quietest Meteor in history. And — the most service-free.
In Meteor, chassis lubrications are up to 30,000 miles apart. Oil change intervals up to 6,000 miles. Brakes adjust themselves. Aluminized muffler lasts up to three times as long as ordinary mufflers. And the new 2 year or 20,000 mile radiator coolant is factory installed.
Meteor's name is not new. But its size and everything else is. Size it up for yourself in two series: Meteor and Meteor Custom. The totally new Mercury Meteor, one of the Ford Family of Fine Cars - built in Canada.
Mercury — now in Canada's three most-wanted sizes!
1 COMET — the Compact Mercury . . . smartly ahead of the compact crowd. Still only looks expensive!
2 METEOR The New Size Mercury totally new except for its famous Canadian name
3 MONTEREY The Big Mercury . . . the big brand of luxury for the man who needs and appreciates a big car.

Best site for prison is Edson contention

A story published in the daily press slanted to imply that Justice Minister Fulton had practically chosen Wetaskiwin as the site for the new Alberta penitentiary brought prompt action by Edson officials earlier this week.

Telegrams to the Minister of Justice and other cabinet ministers as well as calls from and to Dr. Hugh Horner MP for Jasper-Edson showed that Edson wasn't going to take a back seat in presenting its case to Ottawa.

THROUGH THE Study Window

By Rev C. C. Armstrong

The Bible provides a number of lectures on astronomy, history, politics and other related subjects. They are given usually once a week up parents giving up a week in which to digest the truths or ideas so presented in one of these lectures. Then recently a certain Professor Kerr for Carey was lecturing on the nature of bodies and the rule of the heavens.

In the course of his lecture the professor said he was not concerned with any theories of divine intervention or man-fact decision. The professor's table to prove for this statement was the fact that the prophets are apparently does not believe in either divine interference or miracles. He said he is justified in drawing his theories from the fact that the Bible does not tell of the day month nor year But it does have a great deal to say about the idea of "divine intervention." It states quite clearly and definitely, that God has a part in the Exodus from Egypt in the Fall into Babylon and in the birth of Jesus and that these are historic facts.

The Christian faith is rooted and grounded in the belief that Christianity is an historical religion based on actions taking place as the result of God's intervention and that such intervention is the way in which God reveals Himself. We human beings may be unable to understand fully the significance or meaning of the divine intervention or it may prefer the theory of Revelation. The doctrine of the Incarnation is really a proclamation of the fact that God does have a living and vital connection with living human beings that He does intervene in the processes of history.

Christmas is the reason why that "God with man is now residing under chiefly 60 infant Light Coats and wrappings. Watches Christ the Lord born king."

AS I SEE IT

Reverend E. Hord — Pastor

This is a day when it is very far from easy to keep a true perspective of world affairs. Each headline seems to shout more loudly and urgently than the next. Cuba, France, the Middle East, the Congo, whatever the space for the news is given seems to imply we are witnessing a time of world crisis.

In discussing the times the Christian must bear in mind two errors. On the one hand he must presume to say that this is the time of the Lord's coming for no man knows the day and hour knoweth no man, not the Father only. Matt 24 36. On the other hand he must not be so sure of the day of the Lord as not be ready for the coming. Matt 24 42 Thessalonians 5 1-2. Quite evidently here is certainly a truth taking place in the events of our time. But we think it would be foolish of us to

In such times, we can find help in the Word of God, especially in prophetic passages such as Luke 21. It is a good time to meditate on such passages and in this especially the commands given for those who live in the period shortly preceding the Lord coming. Looking at Luke 21 though other passages might also be cited we note these 4 We are to be conscientious not dismayed by the happenings when these things begin to come to pass then look up and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh — 28th

2 We are to be discerning not expectant No believer who is to see these things ever of identity, clear as kingdom of God is such a time. The generation of the Lord we may be sure be fulfilled — Mt 24 32 The events of our time seem to be certainly leading to the eventual fulfilment of these solemn words. Matt 13 15 17 to certain most pointed and timely

3 We are to be aware of the dangers of worldliness and materialism, especially of complacency. And take heed to yourselves lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness, and cares of this life and so that day come upon you unawares — Lk 21

4 We are to be especially alert in our spiritual life. "Watch ye therefore, and pray always that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man" — 36

Whatever is before us any thing, is clear The real peril of these days lies not in open and humiliating sin, but in that state of spiritual drift, when the Word of God falls asleep, if Thessalonians 5:6 Many of professing Christians are sleeping after the warnings of our Lord Mark 13 15 17 to certain most pointed and timely

WATERING STOCK IN WINTER

Water provided to stock watered outdoors must be heated enough to prevent it from turning to ice when the air temperature is below freezing. In addition, it is customary to raise the temperature of the water several degrees above freezing because this is felt to be necessary to ensure that the animals will consume enough water and to prevent possible detrimental effects due to cold water. Recent experiments at the Lethbridge Research Station have manifested that the drinking habits of sheep subjected to a cold environment and offered both warm and cold water

A group of wethers were first maintained in a room at 35 degrees F and offered water at 60 degrees F. Then they were placed in a room at 10 degrees F. and, in four different periods, offered water at 32, 50, 80 and 88 degrees F. The temperature of the water did not influence the amount of water that the animals consumed in the cold room the animals drank about 1½ pounds of water per day a each of the four temperatures. In contrast the temperature of the room had a pronounced effect on the amount of water consumed. The sheep drank as much when the temperature was 88 degrees F. than when it was 32 degrees F. Neither the temperature of the water nor the environment had any effect on the digestibility of the feed. When the sheep were moved from an environment of 50 degrees F. to one of 10 degrees F. the average temperature was held when the drinking water was 32 degrees F. than when it was 50 degrees F. However all temperatures were well above the normal range for sheep and the small changes in water intake which did occur as the result of the environmental changes are not considered detrimental.

Further research studies are in progress to determine if the results obtained in the Lethbridge Research Station have practical significance. It is believed that a similar situation exists in the case of cattle and work is underway in an effort to clarify the problem further Maple Street needs another Volkswagen.

When you own a Volkswagen, you can expect company after a snow storm. Inquisitive company. They'll want to know why your car got through the drifts, and theirs didn't.

There's no trick to it. A Volkswagen has its engine in the rear where it does the most good. The extra weight over the drive wheels provides an amazing amount of traction, even on icy hills. When you want to stop safely, but in a hurry, the VW's traction keeps you out of trouble.

Another blessing in cold weather is the VW's air-cooled engine. There's no water, so there's no need for anti freeze. You don't even need a garage. (If your Volkswagen won't start in sub-zero weather, check the gas gauge.)

Look underneath a conventional car and you'll find wires and rods and whatnot. In deep snow they can be a drag, and they can be damaged.

The underside of a Volkswagen is completely covered with a smooth sheet of metal. There's nothing to hold you back but your own caution.

So, if steering a snow-filled driveway is not for you, make friends with a Volkswagen owner. Or, better still, a Volkswagen dealer.

All for progress

Ever since the Soviet Union and the United States had the Cold War into space, ordinary men have been wondering if the moon is worth all that trouble.

Since the moon was made a strategic target, there have been send into space more livestock and men than populate some of Alberta's less consequential rural roads. The United States Congress has appropriated billions of dollars towards the Conquest of Space, the expenditures of the Soviet Union though unreported, are obviously as high.

This has caused some men, looking at the disease and famine abundant on earth, to question if moon-shots are absolutely necessary. Should we not attend to the problems in our world before we try to discover others?

The pat answer to all this, of course, is that space exploration is but another expression of man's natural desire to conquer the unconquered and chart the unknown. "It is a natural result of man's quest for Progress."

Perhaps this questioning of the sanity of moon-shooting is just as natural. Perhaps it is part of an ever growing tendency of a thing is worthy merely because it is "Progressive."

There is normally little connection between rural electrification and travel to the moon. Except that this question — "is the moon worth it?" calls to our mind the commentary of a young farmer recently electrified. "I used to have time to walk in my tracks and think. Enjoyed it so much that I decided to install modern conveniences, so I'd have more time to enjoy. We got power lines in. Electric lights and television in the house. Installed electric milking equipment in the barn.

The past four years, I've worked so hard paying for these timesaving conveniences that I haven't had a chance to walk like I used to. And I'm so busy, I don't think I'll ever have that chance again.

CAPITOL REPORT

Short session sets up tax laws

By KEN MASON

Edmonton — If last week's special session of the Legislature wasn't the shortest on record in Alberta, it had to be close to it. Members spent a grand total of three and a half hours dealing with a piece of legislation which, on the face of it, sounds like one of the most important to be passed in Alberta in many years.

Officially, it puts the province back into the business of levying personal and corporation income taxes — a business Alberta hasn't been in since the tax rental agreements started during the war.

But in fact, the legislation isn't all that far-reaching or earth-shattering. There will be no increase in taxes — at least not for the coming year — and the federal government will continue to collect on behalf of the province. So the individual taxpayer will still have to fill out only one form. In fact, he'll barely notice the difference.

Alberta's soundly loquacious legislature didn't spend much time debating the bill. There was little need of debate. The federal government had decided to get out of the tax rental agreements, and instead would make the tax fields to the extent of 10 per cent of income tax and nine per cent of corporation taxable income.

This left the province free to pack up the 10 per cent and nine per cent Ottawa vacated, or to increase taxes, or to reduce them. Alberta decided to go along with the existing rate, and move in only to the extent that Ottawa moved out.

That so far passing the bill, in a form set out by Ottawa, the province had no choice. Hence no need for lengthy debate. The session opened with Lieutenant-Governor J. Percy Page reading one of the shortest speeches from the Throne we've ever seen.

The Throne Speech debate consisted of a brief speech by the acting Progressive Conservative leader, Ernest Watkins, of Calgary. He took the opportunity to hail back all the Social Creditors on one of their own favorite themes — the tendency of people to demand more and more costly services from governments, thereby causing debt and taxes to soar, and paving the way for socialism and communism.

Mr. Watkins enumerated the millions Alberta has spent on welfare programs, and said the government has had a hand in teaching people to live in a welfare state.

On second reading of the bill, Mr. Watkins said it doesn't really permit Alberta to levy taxes, but only to collect a percentage of Ottawa's taxes, using the federal government's tax base, rules and regulations.

Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman didn't disagree. He pointed out there is nothing to stop Alberta setting up its own provincial income tax collecting machinery, but insisted the very heavy cost would be worth it.

The main thing, as he pointed out, is that the new deal gives the province the scope to collect as much or as little as it wants. Next year under the new program, Alberta will receive around $40,000,000 — about the same as it's getting this year under the rental agreement.

The big question now is how long Alberta will be able to go without increasing its tax bite. Premier Manning's promise of no increase doesn't go beyond the coming year. And while he wants to avoid any increase in taxation, it's a well-known fact the government is worried about the way expenditures are outstripping revenues.

AND A DOLLAR A WEEK

A Short Story by Timber McCracken

Six years ago Maurice Poynte Blanc was loitering in the hardware department of a large store waiting for his wife Marie. He was admiring a bench saw which he knew would eliminate much labor in ripping planks and plywood for the cupboards and cabinets he custom made in his home workshop. If he had had enough money with him or in his bank account he would have bought it. In the background Mr. Jaques Nemiss, the salesman, hovered watching Maurice as he caressed the table with his hands, adjusted the depth of the cut and altered the blade angle. Just as Maurice reluctantly stepped back Nemiss stepped forward. Instead of elaborating on the saw's merits he stated the store's selling price. If he had Maurice takes it home — for one third down and the balance on easy equal installments. Maurice took it.

Almost a year later Maurice was again [illegible], around the hardware department while Marie was elsewhere doing whatever women do when home in big stores. In Maurice's pocket was the newly issued card certifying that he had completed his term of subscribership. Once more he was debt free and carefree. He idly fondled the power planer which would make the finishing of cabinets so much easier. He did not have sufficient money to pay the required one third down so buying it was out of the question. Just as Maurice sighed Mr. Nemiss arrived him and immediately laid him off the store's new policy — for just ten per cent Maurice could take the power planer.

Maurice mounted the planer near the bench saw and was now able to make twice as many cupboards as he had made before. He had to in order to pay particularly. The trade little items in his spare time. When he went to the store to make his final payment Marie disappeared as soon as they went through the doors. Since he had no money he felt quite secure as he wandered through the hardware section.

Maurice did not need the lathe but his workshop was beginning to look very impressive. The lathe seldom made him a dollar. He made many inland lamps when he should have been making cupboards. In spite of this he did make his payments regularly and once more he and Marie went to the store with the last payment. He told Marie that he would wait in the sporting goods section. Here he need not fear meeting Mr. Nemiss. Besides he had no money and with Christmas less than six weeks away he could not make a payment in December.

He compared all the new outboards with his old three horse power which was about finished. He was busy now trying to locate the propeller shear pin and did not notice Mr. Nemiss stopped beside him. Mr. Nemiss had been promoted and was now in charge of the sporting goods department. Just being able to make a December payment was no problem for new Maurice could take advantage of the deferred until payment plan and nothing would come due until the middle of February.

The next year saw Maurice again in the sporting goods. Here he happily browsed around, the rifle and shot guns. He would have liked a better rifle than his old army surplus Lee Enfield but was content to gloat over the large collection.

This year Maurice had no intention of signing the dotted line again. He had not been so busy this year so he had in the past. Many people had bought more produced modern cabinets and fitted steel cupboards apparently appealed to contractors. From force of habit he strolled through the hardware and sporting goods department. He checked the fishing tackle and feather-weight shot guns.

Then he saw the fibreglass boat. His old punt was heavy and awkward and was not new when he bought it right after his discharge and he had never really liked it. He walked around the boat, lurched the prow, thumped the sides and there was Mr. Nemiss. Maurice was helpless as he outlined the latest gimmick to move merchandise and collect interest.

Wolves frozen stiff at door losing heads

Predator Control Officer Frank Seimatt, who works in conjunction with the Fish and Game Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests, brought these timber wolves into Edson after they had been poisoned in the vicinity of Wolf Lake.

The wolves ate very plentifully this year and have been travelling in packs, killing game needlessly as numbers of carcasses have been found only slightly eaten.

Before the magistrate

The month of November set a new high in revenue for the Edson Police Court. The total amount collected was $1,487.50. Whether this indicates the district is growing or our police are more competent about their work, or lenders are not as cautious as they should be it is hard to say. Quite possible a combination of all three.

One trucking firm received a total fine of $302.00 for overloading to the extent of three tons. This has created considerable comments and would have put most truckers out of business.

An offender was picked up for car theft on two counts and breaking and entering with a total of five charges, which netted him two and a half years in jail.

For disturbing the peace at an hotel in Edson a fine of $150.00 was levied with the intention of summoning any future trouble.

Ask Auntie Jean....

A READERS' FORUM AND QUESTION COLUMN. Address all letters to AUNTIE JEAN in care of this newspaper.

Dear Auntie Jean: A rough boast to the bride. I have ie of months ago I met an old buyer done this before and an college friend I hadn't seen I really don't know either of for some 15 years. To my sur these very well especially the prise he was still a bachelor and my wife was quick to in vite him over to meet an eligible young lady of her acquaintance. Strangely enough, the scheme worked and they are to be married in Decem ber. My problem is that the bride-to-be, feeling that I was responsible for these meeting and has asked me to give the sermon. Can you suggest anything that might be quite unworthy of her but the parents won't listen to reason. Please help!

On The Spot

Dear O.T.S., How what I have noticed the guests almost without exception will wish you to be as brief as possible. The father is not considering a woman's point of view but I would take her to task for these other demands and, if all agree on an operation, I would have it done. When that child be comes a teenager it will be im portant to her that her looks are not such as to make her appear different. The dentists should be able to tell if the teeth will grow together if left for a few years. — Auntie Jean.

Dear Auntie Jean: If the dentist recommends braces in stead of an operation for a child with widely spaced teeth don't do it. Our daughter is now in her teens and we notice that she is still self conscious and even yet does not smile or laugh naturally because of the years she wore braces to correct uneven teeth. Our orthodontist straightened her teeth at the expense of the natural expression of her personality. We expect to grow out of it but the embarrassment braces can leave quite a scar on the mind of an impressionable young girl. — Ms Bruce Pierce.

(A number of letters have been received both for and against an operation for this four-year old daughter. Most of them advise accepting the recommendations of the den tist. — Auntie Jean.)

THE CITY RUSH

The only Anglican priest of the Anglican Church of Canada has made some remarks that should strike a responsible chord in the hearts of many Canadians Rev. Armand Tagoona, 39 year old priest whose congregation is at Rankin Inlet, 300 miles north of Churchill Man was in Winnipeg for a visit.

A year earlier he had seen his first city - Toronto where he was ordained. He was asked whether he would like to live and work in the city.

"Oh, no never" was his reply. When I was in Toronto last year I was very glad to get away from what I saw and this year in Winnipeg it's exactly the same. Nobody seems to have peace in your cities. The people are always in a rush and seem to be very unhappy. I don't think they live half lives at all."

Mr. Tagoona wasn't quite correct. City dwellers do not need put may look unhappy, but there are many who do enjoy their life. He wasn't quite incorrect either. There are lots of folk in the cities who are downright unhappy. And who can blame them?

When you think of the hours spent each day just travelling to and from work, the traffic jams and the crowded streets, buses and subways, you have no idea of the disadvantages of living in large communities.

It's not so bad if there is lots of money, but for the average wage earner it's a struggle to get enough money to buy a house in the city that may cost as much as $10 000 more than the equivalent dwelling in a small town or rural area.

The development of suburban housing has reversed some of the sense of being close to nature, but is really no more than a token. And the long hours of car crawling out of town on summer weekends is testimony to the fact that thousands of city dwellers feel for the great outdoors.

We may not care to get as far away from it all as Mr Tagoona. But many share his distaste for the unhappy of such places as Toronto and Winnipeg, and surely still plenty of space in this country without having to go quite as far as the Arctic Circle.

ARE WE OVER ORGANIZED?

Last year the University of Saskatchewan made a case study of Biggar, a thriving Saskatchewan town with a population of about 2,600, which uses the the radio slogan New York is big but this is Biggar.

His survey found that there are 135 voluntary organizations in the town, or one for very 19 people of all ages. There are 5,000 members in these organizations. On the average, each adult belonged to four of these.

There are also official positions in these organizations and are held by 411 different people, with 1,000 of these people holding more than one office.

We are surprised that a convention of Saskatchewan community workers and leaders studied the report and decided that Biggar was not over organized.

One shudders to think. You can't tell us that similar survey would very probably find much the same situation exists here. You can't tell us that the respectability of belonging does not fall on too few shoulders or that the willing horses are not overworked. You can't tell us that the efforts of all our groups do not overlap.

Maybe our small towns does not seem over-organized to one but for those who take a genuine interest in the welfare of their community and its citizens, and discussion.

Over organization can be a cause of the apathy which seems to crop on community. There are so many good causes competing for attention and aid for support that there is confusion, and a good part of our population throws up its hands in resignation.

It does not seem such an unthinkable all the aims [illegible] We would be a far happier more interested [illegible]

A few sane, sensible thoughts re nuclear war

By Dr. H. M. Horner, MP, Jasper-Edson

There has been much written and said about the effects of nuclear war. Some has been correct but much has been exaggerated. There are many misconceptions about nuclear weapons and their effects.

The basic problem is fear of the unknown. Radiation has become a word with stern, emotional overtones. People are prepared to the conclusion that radiation is all powerful and that attempts at protection are futile. It is important that all Canadians understand the true facts about radiation and its dangers.

Authorities stress that there are different kinds of radiation caused by nuclear explosions. These present different hazards to humans at different times. Radiation occurring at the moment of detonation differs in its effects from that of early fallout. Early fallout differs in effect from that which appears months later.

IMMEDIATE RADIATION

When a large nuclear bomb explodes at or near ground level it creates a huge fireball up to three miles across. Blast, heat and radiation are given off at this time. The immediate or flash radiation includes both neutrons and gamma rays. Neutron particles can penetrate materials and can make some radio-active However they have a short life and do little damage. The neutron radiation hazard to individuals would be out ranged by the hazards of blast and heat.

Gamma radiation is highly penetrating and is similar to ordinary X-ray. These gamma rays in sufficient amounts can cause severe radiation sickness and death. But they do not, as many people believe, have the power to make material or bodies radioactive. The flash gamma radiation lasts only a few seconds. Its effective range though greater than that of neutrons is less than that of blast and heat People who survive this blast and heat can survive this initial radiation.

Deadly for people in the target area, the fireball is short lived and host. For those further away radio-active fallout is the chief danger.

FALLOUT

Misunderstandings about fallout are frequent and varied. Some people think the danger lies in breathing radio active dust. Others believe that people and objects become radio active, but radio-activity will remain dangerous for years. Still others believe that survivors would emerge from shelters, alone and friendless into a radio active desert. This leads to the idea that any survival measures are futile. The facts deny these ideas.

Fallout has its start in the fireball and to trace its development we must go back to the explosion

The fireball at the time of the explosion rises fast, 1,500 feet in the first second It swells as it climbs, sucking up in its mushroom stem large quantities of earth and debris, pulverized by the explosion in to dust As the fireball climbs, cooler air turns its vaporized elements back into solids. The dust rising with it is coated with radio active materials, forming a cloud of great heights Then the dust begins to fall This is fallout Simple everyday dust made dangerous by its radio-active coating

The heavier particles fall faster and begin to reach the ground thirty minutes later This fallout continues for several hours with particles carried by the winds for greater distances. This early fallout is the main source of radiation danger in the second immediately after an attack The lightest particles of all will circle the earth at great heights coming down weeks or months later Whole the early fallout shows its effect within days, the later fallout presents problems measured in years.

GROUND PATTERN

The final ground pattern of early fallout is decided by the winds at all heights. The pattern cannot be predicted by ground winds alone The area will generally be oval but with ill defined borders. Radiation will not be uniformly intense throughout the area Dust will collect more quickly and in greater places than in others. The amount of radiation will depend on the amount of dust Each area must be separately measured with radiation survey equipment

Perhaps the most widespread misunderstanding is about the nature of radiation itself Fallout dust carries two main types of radiation beta and gamma Neither can make other materials radio-active, but they can be harmful in other ways.

Gamma rays are the major source of external hazard. With sufficient intensity and for a long enough time they can cause radiation sickness and death. Protection is possible Placing heavy material, such as concrete or earth or lead between the radiation and yourself reduces radiation. Placing distance between the radiation and yourself is effective in reducing the radiation The most most significant reducing factor is decay of the rays. If the radiation rate at the time of explosion is a lethal 1,000 roentgens per hour it will drop seven hours later through decay to 100 roentgens per hour. Two hours later it will be down to 10 roentgens per hour. The shortest exposures at this rate. By taking shelter you can stay alive until decay brings radiation down to livable levels.

ANOTHER FALLACY

Another fallacy is that the contamination of clothes and the skin by radio-active dust is a death sentence The small amount of dust which would cover such a small area would have to remain there a long time to be dangerous. By discarding dust covered clothes, by washing the skin and hair, by washing and vacuuming the danger can be removed. For more hazardous are the large quantities of dust on roads, buildings and automobiles.

But you have to breathe Won't radio-active dust enter your lungs? is a common question. It will, but scientists say that early fallout particles are too large to be absorbed by the lungs. Danger from inhalation is considered small.

Beta radiation, also emitted by the dust, are different from gamma radiation. Unlike gamma, they cannot harm you from outside They are stopped by a few feet of air, layers of clothing and the outer layers of the skin. The real danger from beta is internal If radio-active dust enters the body through wounds or through contaminated food and water, lethal damage may be caused by beta radiation many months or years later

A knowledge of these facts can go a long way to dispel both exaggerated pessimism or unrealistic complacency. Certainly the facts themselves are serious enough by themselves without adding confusion and exaggeration.

Teachers cannot replace parents

There is a notion abroad that school teachers are responsible for the ideological and spiritual welfare of their charges that education must be used as a weapon in the cold war and so on It is in effect an attempt to elevate the role of the school teacher into a spiritual and ethical monster, and on doing so substitute for the parent in these duties Nothing could be more damaging to the moral fiber of a nation than this removal of emphasis from the home to the school.

AS I SEE IT

Recent discoveries about the effects of weightlessness in space flight are intensely interesting. It is said that with the continued sense of the loss of gravitational pull the subject becomes steadily weaker. The evacuation goes on that treatment is necessary for preservation of muscle tone, an important factor on bodily health. More serious is the deleterious effect of prolonged weightlessness on mental health. The subject tends to lose the sense of or ientation to reality, the psychological effects of which may be devastating.

We are moved to speculate on this problem of orienta tion, from a spiritual point of view. Imagine with us four men, each of them call ing himself a Christian, each different from the other, and each seeking in his own way a satisfying relationship to life and the world, to God and to himself.

The first man, let us call for simplicity's sake the earth man. As a Christian, should he subscribe, to all the ten ets of Christian doctrine? Yet the appeal of the world is very strong indeed, he may have little or no desire to re ject. His deepest and most passionate desire is to get and keep things, and for this he has given his life. The Word sounds only dimly in his ears, and the pull of love even is too remote to be felt. He never gets off the ground.

The second man is the ma sochistic man For him the earth holds little attraction. He is not with it himself to his little cubicle he is shut off from the world and its problems. He searches are nebulous, and its sin ers its own concern. Strange to say, he seems comparatively happy in his spiritual world, while the world around him can go to the devil — to whom, he reck ons, it rightfully belongs.

The third man, whom we might call the orbital man, is an interesting personality. He is related to neither earth nor heaven. His feet are squarely on the ground but his heart and head are in the skies. He is in touch with more reporting when they report and merging when they weep. Yet all the while he realizes their utter holiness without the Saviour, but once he was in the same situation. Emotionally, as an ex-sailor from the coast of heaven he longs them and yet sees from a far coun try and heavenly them to be a coveted to God.

The coveted man is the true Christian man having upon the earth, he is blessed with continuous access to God And when earth and heaven flee away he is still serenely for the eternal God in his refuge, and understands are the everlasting arms.

THROUGH THE Study Window

By Rev. C. C. Armstrong

Bible Sunday is generally, but not universally observed on the second Sunday in De cember It is fitting that em phasis should be placed upon the intimate con nection between the written or printed Word and the Liv ing Word

It is the glory of the Christian faith that it is bas ed upon the Living Word, the Word made flesh, is dwelt among us. Anyone whose faith is firmly rooted in Christ will not be disturb ed unduly therefore about minor variations in the print ed word, which is the fallen creation. The Bible is a revelation was being prepared, the translators realized that there were some who would regard this new translation with anything but enthusi asm, since things of this world have ever been sub ject to the pressures of all breaking and discomfiture persons who give liking. nothing but what is framed by themselves, and hammered on their anvils Greatly ever new transla tion has been given the same treatment.

A comparison of the ac count of the Nativity in its form English Bible with that given in the King James ver sion will illustrate the fact. Seeing that the old is be ter for We prefer the Word- And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree to be taxed. was a decree was issued by the Emperor Augustus for a general registration

While we may prefer one Bible to another, or what is more likely, to prefer certain readings in one version rath er than in another there is not the indeterminess about the Living Word We do not prefer Jesus" — nor with we accept or reject Him as He is not a literary figure He is a living Saviour and Lord The wording in the Bible will be modified as language changes, but the Christ remains forever.

By REV. V. B. DOWDEN

As one goes East in Edson just before the railway track appear, one notices a ball board on which is printed a big brassy, bothersome in junction which reads, "THOU SHALT NOT KILL." The in tention surely is to warn peo ple, concerned, so that they will be more careful in their driving habits. It is however personally a bothersome sign for several reasons firstly, it makes me feel guilty upon ally, so since my hands are killing on the highway and all those little rabbits whom ladies have been trampled under by the wheels of my Rambler, on the other hand I am sure that the sign does not speak about accidental deaths such as these, but rat, their deaths due to personal judgments of drivers In this respect I heartily ee these the feeling behind the sign says but I am sup a little shocked at the fact that one of the ten command ments should be placed in such an environment, namely on a billboard and that the meaning behind the com mandment should be so used I am sure too that many will disagree with this my com plaint, and indeed, the fact of

THE NAME OF EDSON WILL BE GETTING very wide publicity this festive season through the personal touch of Trade and Commerce Minister George Hees. As Mr. and Mrs. Hees were guests of the Edson Tri-Service Rodeo Association in August, Kurt Clausen of Drayton Valley got a picture of the Minister and his good sport wife while driving the old stage coach brought in for the Rodeo by Edson Motor Co., Ltd. The Hees are using this personal touch on their Christmas cards this year. With a world-wide circle of friends this should put the name of Edson in sports it has never been before.

Don't you hear dem bones

Mr George F Collin who recently had a rather bad fall from a ladder is recuperating at home and is getting about with the aid of crutches. He has broken his ankle.

Mr Collin is sports editor at the Mirror and it will be a pleasure to hear their boys rolling them up again.

Edmonton speaker leads discussion at status forum

Representatives from Drayton Valley, Jasper, Edson, Hinton, Wolf Creek, Wildwood, Nilon Hill, Stony Plain and Edson were present at a Dinner Meeting on the Professional Status of Teachers, held in the Edson Hotel on Tuesday, December 5th.

Mr George F. Collin, Executive Secretary of the Alberta Teachers' Association, was the principal speaker on the Professional Status of Teachers.

Mr Ross outlined the history of profession and explained the criteria of profession in general. He pointed out that one of the goals of the teaching profession is educational leadership.

In this respect, Mr Ross felt that the Alberta Teachers' Association has progressed very rapidly in their reports to the Alberta Royal Commission on Education, amongst the plan on education, research projects and work on curriculum and other committees for the Department of Education.

Mr Ross also pointed out that the word profession is losing some of its significance. He added that the word profession and status need to be defined more precisely. He suggested that the word association should be more appropriate than professional.

In the question period that followed Mr Ross pointed out that education has improved a great deal in the last fifteen years in spite of the criticism of the public; and in this regard he felt that the teaching profession needs a more unified spirit and better public relations.

Another delegate pointed out that the last public relations program in the area by teachers conduct in the classroom.

It was also brought out in the discussion period that society determines the object area of education. Society, through elected school boards, has educators carry out a program in line with these objectives. Teachers will not therefore ever have control in areas of curriculum in which the end product has social significance seemed like a theme of the meeting.

Goggles for chickens

A rooster wearing goggles of unusual design appeared in Drayton Valley last week. This looked as if it might have been an eye-catching gag dreamed up by the safety department but it isn't. These goggles are listed in poultry supply catalogues.

Their purpose is to prevent "cannibalism" among chickens. These birds often peck violently at each other and when they draw blood check can come up on the victim. Canadians are sometimes beset.

About 25 years ago some one discovered that red lenses would prevent chickens from distinguishing the blood spots, like they worked and hence don't need.

These goggles are among the unusual uses of Armco stainless steel.

HINTON — STANDING PROUDLY AT ATTENTION new Scouts Hollias Boika and Stewart Veats take the Scout oath before their new leader Ron Scott. The investiture ceremony took place last Thursday evening. The same evening Darryl MacMillan 'went up' to Scout from his Cub pack and after a period of time in which he will be given a number of tests to pass, he too will be invested and become a full Fledged Scout.

Hinton applies for federal help on strip

HINTON —

A factual brief has been submitted to the Town of Hinton over the signature of Mayor W A Switzer to the Department of Transport of the Federal Government urging assistance in the development and construction of the existing air strip within the Town.

The request for the grant in aid asks that the Department match the estimated $80 000 already invested in the strip. As outlined in the application, this amount is to be considered as the initial step of stage development of the air strip to DOT specifications and standards.

Accompanying the brief are endorsations from the Provincial Department of Forestry and also a letter from North Western Pulp and Power Ltd pointing out the advantages of proceeding with the strip's development in view of its growing use by various aircraft.

The chosen site appeared to be ideal from a development point of view being situated on close proximity to the Hill township of the Town adjacent to the Provincial Forest Reserve and the existing road and railroad to the up country would be available to the Town.

Lastly mention focused the development of the present town included in the brief. Paved two concrete and bitumen streets are also mentioned as a current air strip. Paved should facilitate for hard surface and hence dust free. Measures to minimize noise disorder could be sure fully used by the RCAF survival School at Jasper Lake if Mercy flights Hinton to Edmonton. Services as an alternative airport to proper Grande Prairie also. The strip is very suitable for future expansion at low cost.

In proximity of the strip to the town water supply and also sharp focus during to fatal fire emergencies fast power when disorders are said were able to find water.

Due to severe cold the meeting of the Carrot Creek Community Association scheduled for Monday Dec 11th was cancelled and due to the Christmas rush it is unlikely that a meeting will be held before the New Year Should any member deem it feasible a special meeting can be called by contacting secretary treasurer, Vern Ice

Unofficial temperatures in many parts of the district reached a startling 45 to 50 below Sunday night with the result that several working men enjoyed an enforced holiday Employed as in this case records a figure of speech as there is nothing pleasant connected with 82 degrees of frost.

More than one school bus failed to respond to a touch of the starter Monday morning and students were pleased and amused because they had seen at the crack of dawn when they may as well have stayed in bed

Still on the weather topic residents of model homes in the district ran into difficulty when their dwellings froze up and fires went out One man came off the job at 8 a.m. to find his family huddled in one bed with no other fuel but a candle to provide heat for their ill-fated Water will no doubt expected him soon to a trouble filled with smoke his home [illegible] about ten degrees colder than the wide open spaces

The flu seems to be making the rounds again it seems who is nothing else happens to break the monotony one can always depend on a cold Now my home for Dennis Sharon Robinson Mrs Sam Robinson Patrice Beaver and several members of the hardiest sex have been reported victims of the flu As one four year old boy put it You don't know you are sick at 6:45 but at seven a Mom says you don't look well you feel awful

We made one of our rare out trips to Edson Saturday and found the old boys bustling with activity Shop were taken advantage of by excited wifes Christmas hoppers on attendance and parents anxious to get [illegible] anything up on their perfect of instinct

This next we have to mention receive we are in complete sympathy with Lob Ott

HINTON

The Hinton Chamber of Commerce combined two pleasant occasions last Wednesday evening when they held their annual meeting, and election of officers and Installation of the new executive will take place at the next regular meeting on January 10

Reports from committee chairmen showed that the Hinton Chamber had been quite active in the past eight months, the period since the last annual meeting. During this time it had been decided to change the Chamber year end to December rather than June and this was the first annual meeting since the decision had been made

The membership committee reported that during Chamber of Commerce week 23 new business members had been enrolled which made it possible to obtain an incentive grant of $50 per member from the town There are presently 73 members of the Chamber

The publicity committee had been responsible for getting the Board of Trade on the radio, and had also arranged for a Hinton booster

A questionnaire was presented to the meeting which is to be mailed to all members The questionnaire deals with suggested fees meeting arrangements, and to determine

Old Bill & Herbie

By THE OLD SWEAT

It was a cold and frosty night in the middle of December When Santa took his pen in glad if I rightfully remember The sleighful of toys and dreams of the roaring game of curlin.

And very shortly after that who things began archaring Was the schedule for the Legion Zone, an annual affair It kept all the curlers outside here tearing out their hair No sooner rights it done it at a cowl beginning And it wasn't very long before his head and rocks were spinning.

The boys at Legion had a load and couldn't find the 'slide' He hadn't paid his blanket dues, Gee wasn't that a flip And some paid now look you chaps you cannot play with too

You might as well put pack it up I would if I were you Then Edson Branch went and to play, and things were well begun,

They played all day and 'played' all night and boy did they have fun

But one thnook some heating in to really make things one

The ship went down to three his last, they found they had no ice

The Hinton friends were having lots they hadn't got a rock, They started out with fourteen men, a really good set up, Then 'Shad dondy' came and 'Shad ups' too and Hinton lost the cup

Now, Eat the Wheely wasn't fat it's somewhere near the Wildwood

And Angie thought at last he'd found a team that was all there

But sad to say his luck was out He never could be right' The rotts down had not been filled they weren't in the game for Angie filled his own 'Sour Score' and cut just plastered 'Lame'

I ask you what else could he do for he was not to blame be Deation of the Valley Branch were the last and lowly

Maybe luck, maybe some of last and twenty pour Zone 2 Then play commences and went quite well, but once again "No Sugar"

A pipe how last and drowned the third and soaked the other dozen

Instead of curlers all that day a funeral was took in The curlers was ushered with rest I and padre spoke of sun' They all left feel about the third and then they found he'd receded

The head drunk was in the car so that they had just filled in And Angie went from Barrel to Barrel to see what he could do.

And so he found a cut Skier who said he thought he knew But when they looked the whole show over the Rest was stumped as well

Poor Sugs folded up in the three and said "tilt' go to Bain it I let of the name but it didn't sound too cold Well Zone 2 came orders to car the but they got darned near soon old!

PS Just watch out if there's rain happen to anyone Herbie

HERE, "YORKY" SMITH was the winner of the Legion Bingo jackpot of $165 two Saturdays ago. Mrs. Smith says she has her eye on a tv set to put the money to good use. The jackpot started again at $100 last Saturday. This Saturday is turkey bingo night with 25 birds up as prizes.

To wish you all the Joys of Christmas

This Christmas, when again we celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace, let us allow His spirit of hope and love to enter every heart. Let us pray to Him to keep us steadfast in our faith. Let us beseech Him to give us strength, courage and wisdom so that we might be worthy of Him to whom all praise is due.

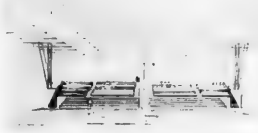
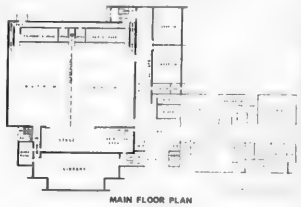
AN EDITORIAL IDEA FOR HOLIDAY PONDERING

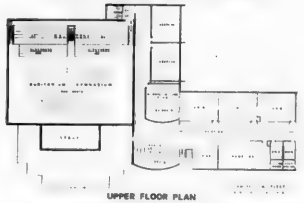
ARTIST'S VIEW OF PROPOSED NEW SCHOOL COMBINING PRESENT HARDISTY HIGH SCHOOL AT HINTON



VIEW OF AUDITORIUM TOWARD BLEACHERS



MAIN FLOOR PLAN



UPPER FLOOR PLAN

BASEMENT FLOOR PLAN

The ratepayers of our neighbouring town of Hinton are being given something to think about over the Christmas holidays. In this newspaper's opinion it is something that the ratepayers of Edson should also watch with interest.

The idea is that of a recreational centre which ratepayers could not afford on their own but which combined with an auditorium gym which are standard in most larger schools currently can be built more economically in cooperation with the school board. The idea is being enthusiastically tried in Edmonton and can prove to be a community centre for very little increase in mill rate when amortized over twenty years.

Part of a long range plan to provide junior high school facilities apart from the red brick school was begun this year south of 12th Avenue and Main. This initial two storey building is designed to have additional rooms and eventually an auditorium gym later as the facilities are needed. The area comprises nine acres purchased by the Town of Edson which would be adequate. Car parking could be provided for as well as utilities the lake presently around the high school when the Edson pageant was being played.

In the Hinton plan, the School Division also would be building an additional auditorium and classrooms at the high school in any event would enlarge on their plans at no additional cost to them. At the same time the people of Hinton would get facilities for $200,000 that they would have to pay hundreds of thousands more for, if attempted on a purely local basis from the ground up.

The School Division addition to the high school would provide for four classrooms and an auditorium the size of the present one at Crescent Valley School. For the additional money the Town would spend the following would be made available: An auditorium capable of seating 1100 with permanent and semi permanent bleachers; a large stage professional standard basketball court as well as courts for badminton, volley ball and tennis. A ten thousand book capacity library. Showers and dressing rooms for men and women. Dressing and locker rooms. Athletic club rooms. Craft centre and craft shop. Social meeting room and kitchen. EMO headquarters and projected control centre.

It will cost the average taxpayer of Hinton slightly less than two mill more than his taxes run now, or a total of ten dollars a year over a period of [illegible] years.

While the [illegible] a decision for Edson it will be interesting to see how the ratepayers of Hinton react to this proposal to increase their community facilities

Elks defeat Optimists in Bantam home game

Officials Mr. Joe ... Watt from Kristoff. The only two penalties of the game were handed out to Jeffrey and Hrabchuk of the losing team.

The close score is an indication of the type of very clean well played hockey the boys were dishing up. David Watts, in goal for the Optimists played an outstanding game and was a major factor in preventing the score from being a one-sided affair.

Edmonton group to re-appear in Hinton

Following the tremendous success of their concert here last year, the Barbershop Chorus of Edmonton is planning another evening of music and fun, under the sponsorship of the Home and School Association. As before, the Crescent Valley and Hinton will be the scene of the festivities and the price remains the same — $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Those who were present at the concert last January have been awaiting a return engagement with anticipation ... and those who missed it have been hopes they would get a chance to see what everyone else was raving about.

On January 20th four groups will be able to relax, sit back and enjoy a full evening of singing and entertainment provided by the Edmonton Branch of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Meet the coach of the Optimist Bantams

Victor B. A. Cebulski, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cebulski, Gerlitz, Calgrove was playing a game on the Edmonton Garden, when he got knocked out cold. From then on he learned the game as an enthusiast for his coach. Keep your head up and skate. I'm sure you don't skate you're not a hockey player.

Victor likes to work with boys and hopes to develop the Edson optimist Bantams to the best efforts that he has ever seen. He would like to see that hockey is the game which gives the best training, physical and moral, for Canadian youth.

He received his coaching from the Boston Bruins and Calgary Stampeder John Gerlitz. He was coached by Dune Mckay in the British Columbia league when he played for the then Nanaimo Aces.

He has been mostly a defensive player. Many Edson fans will recall Cebulski with his murderous, flattening body checks. He heartily believed that it was more blessed to give than to receive. It did not always work that way.

He learned it the hard way when playing under the leadership of hard-rock John Gerlitz, Calgrove was playing a game on the Edmonton Garden, when he got knocked out cold. From then on he learned the game as an enthusiast for his coach. Keep your head up and skate. I'm sure you don't skate you're not a hockey player.

Victor likes to work with boys and hopes to develop the Edson optimist Bantams to the best efforts that he has ever seen. He would like to see that hockey is the game which gives the best training, physical and moral, for Canadian youth.

Hertha Claus

Last christmas, my little girl asked "Daddy, why does Santa Claus come down the chimney instead of through the door?"

I was stumped. Do you know? Well, here's the answer.

Long, long ago, people believed in many gods and goddesses. One of the early Scandinavian goddesses was "Hertha". She was the goddess of domesticity and the home. Come to think of it that probably where the word "hearth" comes from.

On December 22nd, at the time when the sun was at the lowest point in the winter sky each family had a celebration for Hertha. Houses were all decked with fir and evergreen. In the great central room the family gathered to dine.

In those days the fireplace was an open pit in the centre of the room. Instead of a chimney there was a hole in the roof to let the smoke out.

Amid great ceremony, a fire of fir boughs was laid in the open pit. The fire was lit, and as the smoke billowed up through the opening in the roof, it was believed that the goddess Hertha came down through the smoke and entered the house bringing good fortune to all.

This ancient custom has persisted through the years. The spirit of Hertha became Santa Claus coming down the chimney instead of through the door.

Legend has it that before the dissolution the berries of Christmas Holly were white instead of red as now.

Joyous Greetings
May the spiritual inspiration of Christmas Day bring you much joy.

Christmas south of the equator falls in mid-summer. Thus the decorations are fresh flowers and the fruit-tes often fruits taken direct from the trees.

The hanging up of the mistletoe and the burning of the Yule log are two of the most ancient customs which come from our pagan ancestors.

Health Unit budget approved for 1962-63

An increase of expenditures for 1962-63 over this year's budget was approved by the 31st meeting of the Edson Health Unit Board in the Edson council Chambers on Wednesday, Dec. 6 when the secretary-treasurer presented the proposed budget.

The Board also decided to continue the dental health program on a basis similar to that in the years 1960 and 1961.

Population figures for the Unit, which stretches from Drayton Valley to Hinton, totalled 22,285 it was revealed. This is an increase of over 600 persons over the previous year.

Present were Chairman W. Nourse Hinton; D. McKenzie Drayton Valley; J. J. Wynne Edson; G. Dompierre, Evansburg; F. Beech, Edson; D. K. McElroy, secretary treasurer, and Dr. I. H. Lewis, Director and Medical Officer of Health.

The Board accepted the financial statement presented by the Secretary Treasurer for the six month period April to September inclusive. The Board received as information correspondence from Mrs. G. McWilliam, the Board of Industrial Relations, the Director of the Division of Local Health Services and from Blue Cross.

The resignation of Mrs. M. Giesbrecht was accepted by the Board. Mrs. Giesbrecht has been staff nurse at the Drayton Valley office for the past six months and has served the Drayton Valley, Violet Grove and Lodgepole areas. She leaves Drayton Valley on the transfer of husband from that town.

The Board considered applications regarding the staff nurse position which will become vacant at Hinton Wildcat Hills. Mrs. Darlene Merrett of Drayton Valley was appointed to the vacancy effective Dec. 18. Enquiries regarding staff nurse position at the Edson office will be considered at the next meeting.

DENTAL PROGRAM

The Medical Officer presented a further report on the dental program. For the period May 25 to November 29 1961 1622 children had been seen by the dental staff at clinics held throughout the Health Unit area. This compares with a total of 686 grade one students seen during the 1960 dental program.

In addition students have attended the clinic held at Lodgepole and others will be seen by the dentist at Niton, Folkarn and Peers during December. Information for the areas represented by each Board member was made available.

Proposed clinic changes at Wildwood and Evansburg were outlined by Dr. Lewis commencing January 1962 one clinic will be held each month in Evansburg and Wildwood. The clinic at Evansburg will be held on the second Thursday of each month and the clinic at Wildwood on the fourth Thursday of each month.

A comprehensive report on environmental hygiene presented by Mr. J. Mundell, Edson Health Unit Sanitary Inspector was read by Dr. Lewis and several points on the report were discussed by the Board members.

Mr. J. J. Wynne reported the action taken at the town office of Meyrose following representations by the Health Unit Board in 1960.

The Board remarked that Dr. Lewis write the Alberta Tuberculosis Association with regard to the tuberculosis control programs and problems arising thereof.

Reports received by Board members from the Board Chairman and the Medical Officer on the annual health and conference held on Eld members on October 30, 31 and November 1st.

Resolutions presented from the Edson Health Unit Board were discussed and of particular interest was the consideration of other health units of securing a copy of "Proposed Regulations Governing the Edson Health Unit" which were brought up for information and discussion at the conference.

These regulations may well become a prototype for Provincewide regulations as the Edson unit would indeed have been shown to them by people in the public health field.

Mr. J. J. Wynne was thanked on behalf of the Health Unit Board was unanimously re-elected to this position.

WHEN IS A TREE A TREE?

According to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, a tree can rightly be called a tree when, upon attaining maturity, it has reached a height of at least eight feet and a diameter of two inches.

A strange Christmas custom in Finland is the annual Christmas Eve steam bath taken by the entire family. After the bath everyone is supposed to roll in the snow.

Hey you folks in buyin', paint and travellus what a bout some items from This column is going to look an fully hate if we don't get something to put in it.

Crossing the East rail crossing at Edson "when it was not safe to do so" provided the grounds for the permanent suspension of the owner operators of a school bus at the regular meeting of the Trustees of Edson School Division on December 12.

The matter was discussed by all parties concerned and the regular meeting adjourned into committee which brought in the permanent suspension as far as driving in Edson School Division is concerned.

On complaint from a parent of children riding in the bus, the Division interviewed members of the CNR train involved which was passing toward the crossing at the time. The railroad men confirmed the report from the parent and the permanent suspension was the result.

The action follows the pattern of close supervision of safe driving practices among drivers employed in the Division. As part of this program a van institute is again being held in the Evergreen School on December 28 at 10 a.m. and a further institute will be held on April 24.

Wins Kinette doll

HINTON

Mr. Edson Mayor of this town was the winner of the doll with worldwide and trunk that was raffled to members of the Hinton 8-to-one Club.

The draw was made last Saturday evening during intermission time at the Hinton Theatre.

A Santa suit through the top of gifts collected for children of the Sundial School one little boy appeared to be quite concerned when his name was a long time before it was called.

He edged to the stage looked out in fear a time, climbed up on it and finally had access right over the wonderful toys from which Santa was drawing the gifts.

Then his anxious look faded into a wide smile as he heard the name and on it rambling our little friend ran off the stage and gift and treats in hand, was on his way to his mother.

...ttee meeting carried out on the Windfall ...ction with Edson the Hon. Norman Willmore, ... members of the Edson Chamber of Commerce ... Thursday evening at their regular supper meet... in the Commissioner banquet room.

... announcement does has been set according to ... minister. Mr. Willmore also explained the new ... long policy of the government and a new ... ning for highway heading.

President Walter Fowler ... informed the gathering that ... recommendation of the ... Chamber had been forwarded ... the town council suggesting that for safety's sake that the air strip road be closed and the possibility of a new air strip adjacent to town be looked into.

Mr. Fowler mentions the action taken by the Chamber to encourage the Federal Government to choose the site of the Federal Penitentiary at Edson.

He pointed out how this ... ...ciate with the number of families that would be coming in with this would definitely be an asset to the town and district.

He invited all Chamber members to bring their wives or husbands to the first ladies night to be held ... sometime on Jan. 17, 1963.

Mr Fowler then introduced the guest speaker for the evening the Honorable Norman Willmore, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Mr. Willmore spoke on three different topics during the evening, with a question period following.

He explained the principles of the new Crown land policy that he had worked on, with the idea of improving the older homestead assignment. Whereas, early in the year there had been 600 to 700 homestead cancellations which proved to be risky and not too satisfactory a plan.

He gave the details of the new plan and for anyone wishing to get started on an agricultural plan the price of land and repayment system are very encouraging.

Mr. Willmore also spoke on the government plan that has been laid out by the department of Lands and Forests, for the encouragement of tree farming and how land could be set aside for persons owning a quarter, could apply for a holdover of three quarters to coincide with this program.

Mr. Willmore then spoke on the road to Windfall from Edson. He pointed out that brushing crews from the Department of Highways, are presently working on this. He went on to say that we have a very good road to Wild Rose and with our good ... in Edson should endeavor to attract business from the easterly direction.

During the question period one of the members of the Chamber stressed very clear is how much the town of Edson was missing out by not having this connecting route.

He pointed out the number of employees and families here at Windfall and the amount of traffic that could be routed through Edson.

Greetings!
